

FIRE DAMAGED WIRE FACTORY

Stubborn Blaze in Plant
of Rice & Co. in Mt.

Quick Work Prevented
Spread of Fire—Loss
Estimated at $10,000

A fire, the origin of which is not known, broke out in the factory of Rice & Co. on Mt. Vernon street, near Broadway, shortly after 7 o'clock last night and considerable damage was done to both the building and machinery, the latter used for the purpose of manufacturing wire. It was stated last evening that the loss would be about $10,000.

The blaze was discovered by Patrolman Deering, who noticed smoke coming from the building, while covering his beat. He rushed to the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Broadway and rung in an alarm from box 16.

When the apparatus arrived the interior of the rear part of the building was blazing furiously and at one time the flames were reaching the roof. The fire was finally extinguished by the burning of wire and machinery.

It is believed that the fire started in a section of the cellar which has not been used for some time. The plant closed at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and there was no one employed in the building when the fire started.

The largest loss will be on machinery and wire stock although a part of the building was badly wrecked. The building is owned by Frank H. Haynes and George D. Hawley.

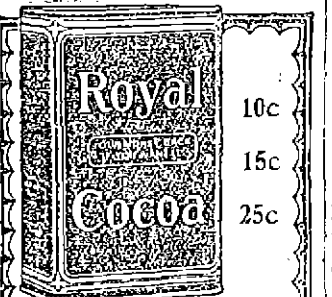

OWLS HELD BIG MEETING

LARGE CLASS INITIATED—LOWELL
LARGEST NEST IN NEW ENGLAND—LETTER FROM PRES.

Edna Hall was well filled last night at the business meeting of Lowell Owl No. 1255, Order of Owls. In the absence of President John E. Flynn, President Richard J. Flynn presided.

The two membership teams headed by Pres. MacCallum and Vice President Flynn respectively are showing great enthusiasm and a long list of names of candidates for membership was presented which kept Secretary J. J. Hartnett very busy for some time. The honors for the two teams are pretty evenly divided. At the close of the team committee's reports, a large class of candidates was initiated.

The Lowell Nest of Owls has now the largest membership of any nest in New England. A letter from Supreme President John W. Talbot commending the officer of the Lowell Nest, was

PECULIAR AFTER EFFECTS OF GRIP THIS YEAR

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened
Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kinner's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being a herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kinner & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles, 50c and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

read by the secretary, and the reading of this letter infected great enthusiasm into the meeting. The "birds" looked long and hard at the sentiments expressed by the "big owl" on the "great perch" in the supreme nest. The sick and ailing committee reported very little business, some members at present, but Vice President R. J. Flynn reported the death since the last meeting of Mrs. Louise M. MacCallum, wife of Worthy President John E. MacCallum and brother John N. Robinson.

Just President E. M. Bowers paid a most timely and eloquent tribute to the president's late wife and read with much feeling a memorial dedicated to her memory which was adopted as the sentiment of the nest and will be inscribed upon a memorial page of the nest's records, and another scroll will be inscribed in old English, French and German to the family of the deceased.

Many of the officers and members spoke of their good and welfare. A reception was given the new members just initiated and the meeting seemed like a family gathering, although a fraternal spirit was shown all through it.

STORE ENTERED

Robbed by Thief

The variety store of Peter Coury in Liberty Square was broken into early yesterday morning and the contents of the cash register and a quantity of cigars taken. The owner of the store asserts that there was somewhere in the neighborhood of $25 in the cash register when he left the night before.

The manner of entrance is supposed to have been through one of the rear windows in the front of the store. A blast had broken out some of the glass on the day previous and the window was boarded up to keep out the cold. When Mr. Coury arrived at his store yesterday morning he discovered the remainder of the glass removed from the window, the boards pulled off, and his cash and cigars missing. The matter was reported to the police.

TAX MEN WHO DRINK

PAY WIVES TWICE WHAT EACH
DRINK COSTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—"I believe that every time a man takes a drink he ought to pay his wife twice as much as he spends for the drink."

So said Magistrate Preschl in night court when he sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse a drunk Goetz, a waiter, whom he had already characterized as "the most despicable man I ever knew."

Conway, out of work, was arrested for drunkenness last Sunday, and that night was arraigned before Magistrate Preschl. Before he was found guilty it developed in court that he had failed to support his young wife and baby.

A policeman who went to notify her of her husband's arrest arrived in time to prevent Mrs. Conway from committing suicide by plunging off the fire escape of her flat at 217 East 50th street, from which the family had just been dispossessed. She was removed to the house of detention. Her baby, suffering from privation and scarlet fever, was taken to the Willard Parker hospital.

Conway, who came up for sentence, told the court it was nobody's business how much he drank, and Magistrate Preschl told:

"Conway, you have sung his praise of while the man who had no one dependent upon him. But for the man like you—if you have a family there is no falling back on the plea of personal liberty."

"You have boasted of your right to drink, but let me say that what may be right for the man who is not married may be a social crime for a man who has taken upon himself the responsibility of married life."

"A man who quaffs the exhilarating drink leaves sorrow for his wife to sup. Wife has increased the woes of your wife. A drunkard feels no one but himself. I believe that every time a man takes a drink he ought to pay his wife twice as much as he spends for drink."

"Men who do not drink are made to pay for the support of the children of those who do drink to excess."

order's famous silver anti-cicarette treatment. It was the fourth weekly anti-cicarette clinic.

Anti-cicarette fans from New York and other nearby cities were there to see how it is done. The doorway was a sea of faces. The only reason no S. R. sign was hung is because they don't use S. R. signs in court rooms. Though the recorder's purpose was to treat boys and very young men, half the lot had been grown-ups. More might have been silvered, but the two doctors, exhausted and perspiring, used the last drop of their silver solution, and announced they were through.

The gallant lot were still handling their threats and clucking their tongues when Mrs. Frank Johnson Milligan, superintendent of the New York Anti-Cigarette League, made a speech. Those who had languished all winter were contained by a steady, steady stream, stylishly powdered, brought her fell over when they learned from 17-year-old son to court. When he left

Mrs. Milligan that they also harbor carbon monoxide, arsenic, pyridine and formal or words to that general effect. "One cigarette is more harmful than two ounces of crude whiskey," she continued. "Lying and stealing, which go hand in hand, are among the next habits that a cigarette-smoking boy acquires."

"I don't see any cigarette smokers in front of me now. But I see future lawyers, doctors, bankers and statesmen in cigarette smokers I see only loafers. Ninety-five per cent. of cigarette-smoking boys go wrong."

PETERS NOT A CANDIDATE
BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Congressman Andrew J. Peters sent out the following telegram last night: "Do not care to be considered in connection with appointment of United States district attorney."

Mr. Peters was a strong supporter of Chairman John A. Sullivan of the finance commission for the place, but now that the latter has accepted the appointment of corporation counsel from Mayor Curley, his name is withdrawn.

John G. Millburn, counsel for the New York exchange, expected to occupy all of today presenting the case of his clients. He estimated it would require another day for them to conclude.

WORK ON ROADS

Spring Proper Time to Start, Says U. S. Dept. of Agriculture

It is a great mistake to put off working roads until August or September, according to road experts of the U. S. department of agriculture. The roads should be worked when the soil is damp so as to make the soil bake when it dries out. If the roads are worked when they are dry, it takes more power to draw the machine and besides dry earth and dust retain moisture and quickly rot after rains. The use of clois, soda, weeds or vegetable matter in building earth roads should be avoided because they also retain moisture.

If the working of the roads is deferred until the latter part of the summer when the surface is baked dry and hard, they are not only difficult to work, but the work is unsatisfactory when done. Earth which is loose and dry will remain dusty as long as the dry weather lasts, and then turn to mud as the rains begin. By using the road machine in the spring while the soil is soft and damp, the surface is more easily shaped and soon packs down into a dry hard crust which is less liable to become dusty in summer and muddy in winter.

Repairs to roads should be made when needed and not once a year after crops are laid by. Because of its simplicity, efficiency, and cheapness, the split-log drag or some similar device is destined to come into more and more general use. With the drag properly built and its use well understood, the maintenance of earth and gravel roads becomes a simple and inexpensive matter. Care should be taken to make the log so light that one man can lift it with ease, as a light drag can be drawn by two medium sized horses and responds more readily to various methods of hitching and the shifting position of the operator than a heavier one. The best material for the drag is a dry cedar log, though elm, walnut, box elder or soft maple are excellent. Oak, hickory or ash are too heavy.

The log should be from seven to ten feet long, and from eight to ten inches in diameter. It should be split carefully as near the center as possible, and the heaviest and best slab chosen for the front. When the soil is moist, but not sticky, the drag does the best work. As the soil in the field will make it plowed wet, so the road will make it if the drag is used on it when it is wet. If the roadway is full of holes or badly rutted the drag should be used once when the road is soft and slushy.

The earth road can best be crowned and ditched with a road machine and not with picks and shovels, scoops, and plows. On road machine with a suitable power and operator will do the work of many men with picks and shovels, and in addition will do it better. If the road is composed of fine clay or soil it will sometimes pay to resurface it with top soil from an adjacent field, which has sand or gravel mixed with it. This method, called the "top soil method," is now in successful use in Clarke County, Georgia. Storm water should be disposed of quickly before it has had time to penetrate deeply into the surface of the road. This can be done by giving the road a crown or slope from the center to the sides. For an earth road which is 24 feet wide the center should be not less than 6 inches nor more than 12 inches higher than the outer edges of the shoulder. The narrow road which is high in the middle will become rutted almost as quickly as one which is too flat, for the reason that a narrow road all the traffic is forced to use, only a narrow strip. Shoulders are often formed on both sides of the road, which prevents storm water from flowing into the side ditches, retaining it in the ruts and softening the roadway. These ruts and shoulders can be entirely eliminated with the road machine or split-log drag.

The width of the earth road will depend on the traffic. As a rule, 25 or 30 feet from ditch to ditch is sufficient if the road is properly crowned. Ordinarily the only ditches needed are those made with the road machine which are wide and shallow. Deep narrow ditches wash rapidly, especially on steep slopes. The earth road should not be loosened, dug up, or plowed up any more than is absolutely necessary. It should be gradually raised, not lowered; hardened, not softened.

THE CHAZY MOUNTAIN SCHOOL

How boys and girls in a little mountain schoolhouse in Montana found what it was they could do best and did it so well that they won first prize in a state-wide competition and attracted the attention of the whole state, is told by C. W. Tenny, state school inspector of Montana, in a rural school circular just issued by the U. S. bureau of education. Here is Mr. Tenny's story of how Chazy Mountain school did its part in rural betterment:

The Chazy Mountain schoolhouse is a 10 by 12 shack, with a roof which slants but one way and is covered with black tar paper. Cracks in the floor were so big that pencils easily fell through them. The only light that came in was from three tiny windows, two in the rear and one on the left. The hole cut through the roof to accommodate the stovepipe was so large that when it rained the water ran into the stove and put the fire out. Rain also beat in at the door, which was held shut by a chain hooked over a nail. The desks were borrowed from a neighboring school which had thrown them away as useless. The seats were held up by sticks of wood, unless a pupil was fortunate enough to find a box of the right size to use as an individual chair, and the teacher's desk was a plank nailed to two sticks and set against the wall.

One day a premium list of the Montana state fair, which is held at Helena each year, came to this little school. Both teacher and pupils began to read to see what there was they could do. "Best kindergarten work," they knew they could not do that. "Best crop work," that sounded even more hopeless. "Best collection of wild flowers, pressed and mounted, with a description of five," everybody shouted: "Of course we can!" and the race was on.

The Mexican children who lived far up on the mountain plucked the flowers belonging to the higher altitudes, while the rest brought in those ge-cular to the lowlands and meadows. At school the flowers were placed in text books and magazines, and in the absence of a flower press the boys and girls would sit on them. At home the flowers were put in books under the heaviest weights that could be found. One boy placed two sacks of flour on the books, another a tool chest, while a third said the heaviest thing he could find was the large "bucket" in which his father carried the feed to the pigs. The girls resorted to just as ingenious expedients, utilizing trunks, bureaus, and even one leg of a bed in which adults were sleeping, in order that the necessary amount of pressure might be obtained.

When the days of collecting and pressing the flowers were over, all of the specimens were brought together, and after the very best ones had been selected, each was carefully mounted on white cardboard, and the entire collection of 68 wild flowers was sent to the state department of education to be entered at the fair. When the judges gave their decision it was found that the Chazy Mountain school had won the first prize, the blue ribbon and $5, for the best collection of wild flowers from any school in the state.

On the day of the prize award the rural inspector stood in the little booth and called the attention of the bankers and business men to the splendid exhibit and to the pictures of the little school. When one of the leading merchants saw it, he said: "Go and tell the people of Park county that boys and girls who do work like that are entitled to a better schoolhouse and better equipment, and tell them that as soon as they get the house they can come to my store and get anything in it without money or without price; for the best business men as well as the best school men realize that boys and girls who do faithful work with what they have will make the men and women who will do good work when the time of larger opportunity comes to them."

THE "SUCCESS" SUCCEEDS
"The man who bought the old English convict ship Success and exhibited it in this country and elsewhere has made $400,000 profit, and yet some people insist that there's nothing in a name," says the Boston Globe. Yes, but well everybody knows that nothing succeeds like Success—Manchester Union.

FORCED OUT! DRIVEN FROM HOME!

Notified to Move About March 1

N. B.---

MR. NELSON, my designer, by far the highest priced custom designer employed by any tailor in Lowell and only second to one in New England, is at your disposal; he has pleased the high brows of New York. Two months ago he signed a three year contract as head designer for my Lowell store. Mr. Nelson is a young man of high ideals, possessing a broad sense of the tastes and wishes of the trade. Remember your suit is fitted to you by Mr. Nelson. Under his experienced eye we can guarantee a perfect fit or a new garment for the asking.

MITCHELL.

My present landlord, Mr. Nelson, has notified me that I must not stay longer than March 1st. I must have everything removed from 24 Central Street about that time.

JUST IMAGINE—I had signed a contract with a scenic artist, who had only one-fourth finished his work, when I was actually stopped and told to let up, as I was only wasting my money on another man's property, as I must vacate. I figured that in starting this painting and altering at this time, my store would be ready two weeks hence, when the spring trade begins; as you know the spring trade in tailoring begins February 15th every year.

The notice is short, but I thank Mr. Nelson very much. He is one of the most honorable men I have ever done business with. He advised me to stop spending money, as the transformation scene between him and Mr. Chalifoux had just been completed, and my store was included in the deal, as my lease expires Feb. 15th.

Imagine—I had placed my big Spring order for 1914, which I have just been notified (by the different mills) is on the way and will be delivered immediately. Place yourself in my predicament. Can you imagine me standing on the rocks of opposition, in an ocean of uncertainty, with the raging billows of competition breaking high all around me—woolen mills everywhere, tailoring establishments in double file, clamoring for Mitchell the Tailor with his ready money to buy their stock and let them die a natural death.

IF, MITCHELL THE TAILOR, can buy for cash (get me)—CASH—the high priced woollens, the cream of the market, the beautiful virgin wool production, that is manufactured exclusively for the silver spoon brigade, the kind the elect adore with eyes of wonderment, at a price to be placed at your disposal, at prices far below the price of production, made to your liking and individual build, tailored by strictly union workmen in clean, sanitary workshops. You know Mitchell was the first tailor in all New England to sign the agreement to give shorter hours and an increase in wages to the man who sits on the bench, in their strike last January. He signed this much to the disgust of every tailor from coast to coast. A man with ready money can perform some great missionary stunts for the man who needs custom clothing, especially when the mill man needs money.

I MUST MOVE, and I promise not to carry one yard of my present stock to my future location. Everything must be sold during the next few weeks. Now I want to call your attention to this sale. These goods are all brand new material—heavy weight Grays, Browns, Blues and Black, and all the neutral shades. When I ordered these goods I understood my lease was to be renewed, but arrangements just completed mean clean up now before March 1st.

My doorway will be filled with cuts of these Suitings and Overcoatings, which comprise my stock on hand to February 1st this year. The price for any style will be

Suit or Overcoat to Order $9.00

AND TAKE YOUR PICK. This offer is without limit, and means.
Three-Piece Suit, any style.

My new location will be announced later.

ALASKA FARMING

100,000 Square Miles of Area on Which There Are Possibilities

So far as topography, soil, and climate determine the matter, Alaska has probably 100,000 square miles of area on which there are possibilities for farming and grazing. The larger portion of the farming land is in the interior, in the Yukon drainage, according to the department of agriculture's new bulletin entitled "Possible Agricultural Development of Alaska." Currants, raspberries, gooseberries, strawberries, blueberries and cranberries are plentiful in Alaska. Varieties of wheat, oats, rye, barley, potatoes and many other vegetables have matured every season since the department started its work at its two most northern experiment stations. The department has four stations; one is on the Yukon within 75 miles of the Arctic circle, another is also in the interior, while there is one in the southeastern and another in the southwestern portion of the territory.

It has been positively demonstrated that forage crops may be grown in the southwestern and central portions as well as potatoes and other garden vegetables. Chicken raising is also proving feasible. It has also been estimated that a great number of farm products are shipped in that might easily be raised on the ground.

The new bulletin on Alaska, while setting on many optimistic facts, also warns the homesteader that there are many difficulties to be encountered.

On the south coast, where the climate is mild, tillable land is scarce, because of the proximity of the mountains to the shore line; elsewhere in Alaska the winters are long and very cold and frost-proof buildings must be provided for shelter of family and stock.

The ground freezes to a great depth and there is but a short period during which this can thaw, and the surface is covered with an accumulation of undrained moss and other vegetable material serving as a protection to the frost and a reservoir for moisture. The frost line under natural conditions sinks but a few feet during a season, and the thawed layer is usually a mass of muck in all portions of Alaska where tillage is possible. This condition makes land travel almost out of the question during the summer until wagon roads shall have been built, and these must be largely of the corduroy type. Meantime the farm home must generally be located close to navigable water.

The swampy character of much of the surface of Alaska makes it a great breeding ground for mosquitoes and gnats, which are almost intolerable pests to both man and beast. It also makes drainage a prerequisite in order to remove the surplus water so that the land can be worked, raise the temperature of the surface soil, lower the frost line, facilitate the decay of the accumulated organic matter, and bring about chemical changes which will transform the soil from a very acid condition to one much less so. Nature requires much time for this last process.

Where the vegetable accumulations are largely moss, this must be destroyed, either by burning or by carting it from the land, for it plows under it decays very slowly and seems to have an injurious effect on most crop plants.

The timber growth, which occurs on practically all the land suitable for tillage, must, of course, be cleared from the land. All this work—building houses and barns, draining, clearing land of moss and timber—is very slowly accomplished in the short outdoor working season. If done single handed by the homesteader, and costly almost prohibitively so if hired labor is used, because of the high wages and living expenses.

Lack of general transportation which would open up the country, of local wagon roads, schools, churches, and other features of present-day life, and of the markets in which to sell farm products and from which to obtain home supplies and farm equipment are deterrent features at present, but they will disappear in time.

The federal homestead laws extend to Alaska, excepting that, instead of 160 acres, 320 may be filed upon. Very little of the available land has been surveyed, but that work is now in progress. One may locate on unsurveyed land, file a claim, and establish lines by metes and bounds, but he can not secure a title until a survey has been made by an authorized surveyor and the survey approved. If the survey is made in advance of that made by the government, it is done at the expense of the homesteader, and that is heavy.

That Seattle, Wash., is nearer Alaska than it is to the extreme western point of Alaska; that the mean annual temperature of Sitka, is about the same as that of Washington, D. C.; that Alaska has numerous deep landlocked, ice-free, harbors; that the coast line is 25,000 miles long, and that there are 6000 miles of navigable rivers in our northern territory.

These facts, not generally known, are brought out in the department of agriculture's new bulletin on Alaska. The extent of this wonderful country with its scant population of 55,000, its mountains, its climate and its soils are fully described in the new government publication. This can be had free from the department of agriculture, by application for Bulletin No. 50.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE QUESTION

Taking advantage of the liberal tendencies of the democratic party since the inauguration of President Wilson, some of the women prominent in the movement for woman suffrage have striven to get federal action on the question or at least to get the president to give some pledge of his support. Thus far they have been unable to get a definite pronouncement from him, and though some of the leaders in the movement declare that he is in sympathy with their aims, the president has merely referred the women to the legislatures of their various states, telling them that it is a question for the several states to settle in the way each thinks best.

Apart from this expressed stand of the president, all doubts as to where his party stands were put to rest by the statement of Democratic Leader Underwood in the house Wednesday to the effect that the democratic party is opposed to federal action. If the enfranchisement of American women is to become universal—and many who are opposed to it so believe, as well as its supporters—it will come about by the action of each state individually. Mr. Underwood's declaration came as the result of a heated argument with Representative Lenoir of Wisconsin, who hinted that some democratic action regarding committee hearings was meant to prevent women arguing their case before congress. Denying this strongly, Mr. Underwood made the democratic stand plain by saying: "If there is one fundamental principle that my party stands for, it is local self-government. If the democratic party stands for one thing above all others, it is that the right of franchise shall be governed by the states of the Union, and not by the national government."

It will probably occur to the leaders in the suffrage movement as the result of their ineffectual attempt to get federal action on their cause that many of their methods in support of suffrage are more spectacular than effectual. Working for the ballot does not change the leaning of the women for picturesque effect, and though the woman suffrage body as a whole may not be responsible for the parade, appeals, and visits to national leaders, these activities will continue no matter how ineffectual they may be in bringing about the end desired. Indeed when we look at the frenzied antics of the militant suffragettes of England we ought to be grateful that the zeal of the American suffragettes is manifested so sanely, if ineffectually. If results are desired however, instead of spectacular manifestations of feminine originality, the leaders of the suffragette movement will bend all their energies to the conversion of their state legislatures, remembering that, during the democratic administration at least, and indeed during all administrations, that they will be unable to get the matter introduced into congress as a national issue.

DIVORCE A NATIONAL ISSUE

The country wide agitation in favor of making more stringent laws regarding marriage and divorce has at last found an echo in Washington where Senator Randall of Louisiana has proposed an amendment to the constitution which would deny to those who have been divorced the right to remarry so long as the divorced partner is living. Appended to the federal amendment would be recommendations for the enactment of uniform marriage laws for all states and territories with provision for separation without permission to remarry. The senator defended his intended bill on the grounds of national necessity, arguing that divorce is gradually destroying the home life of the union, without which there can be no society, and on which all wise governments are patterned.

When we consider some of the facts and figures supplied by Senator Randall, we may decide that the question of national restriction of divorce in some of its phases is a vital necessity from the economic as well as the moral standpoint. The number of divorces granted in this country annually is more than twice as many for all the rest of Christendom, and the terrible record is growing worse instead of better. The total number of divorces granted in 1887 was 9337 or 27 per 100,000 population. Forty years later, or in 1926, there were 72,682 divorces, or 86 per 100,000. If the proportionate increase keeps up, and there is every reason to suppose that it will if not checked, we will have a divorce for every five marriages annually in less than 40 years.

The senator makes some wise and pertinent reflections regarding the effect of the divorce evil on our national life. It breaks up families first of all for those who are divorced and afterwards married and become useful members of society, there are far more wrecks as a result. The parents, loosed from the family ties, become lax in domestic relations while children grow up without knowing of the home atmosphere that only a united parentage can give. It also degrades the sanctity of the family tie, and tends to race suicide. When marriage crises to be considered sacred and binding, the family relationships become obscured. The suggested plan of the Washington legislator may be needlessly stringent, but there is great need for some national laws to ameliorate present conditions surrounding the American divorce question.

AS TO MONOPOLY

The more one thinks of some forms of monopoly the more apparent it becomes that if it is to be checked, the initiative must come from the forces of monopoly themselves, for there are scores of practices which are virtually offences against the spirit of the Sherman act but which could scarcely come under the positive workings of the old law. Anyone who has had a little experience in state-wide selling of almost any commodity will at once discover that there are agreements between competitors in business and between manufacturers and consumers which have a strong bearing on the regulation of prices and the limitation of business territory. A mill trades with a certain firm or individual, for instance, in the purchase of its supplies. For years it has given all its business to this one source. Suddenly comes a representative of a distant firm who offers some commodity at a slightly lower price. What does the mill do? Not infrequently it calls up the usual source of supplies and tells of the new proposition. Remembering the old patronage and the business to follow, the older business agrees to make the slight reduction required, and so competition is killed. A proceeding of this nature is as effectual in restraining business as though some positive understanding existed but it is a common occurrence and would be regarded by many as a legitimate business proposition. We may have laws within laws but until business decides to abandon practices such as this we will have combinations and monopolies that neither the old law nor the new law can effectually kill.

ANTI-TIPPING BILL

One of the peculiar bills bordering on the "freak" variety in this term of the legislature is that which would make tipping in a hotel, restaurant, cafe, or buffet, punishable by law, but it has good foundation for being. Tipping has become one of the greatest nuisances of social life and complaints are heard on all sides as to its injurious effects on him who gives a tip and on him who doesn't. It is simply a polite form of extortion, for it is doubtful if one in twenty pays a tip without a mental qualm. The tipping practice has been the source of almost unlimited insolence, for to offend those who wait "with beseeching palm and eager eye" as a contemporary well says, is to incur the hostility of an element powerful to offend. There should be one standard price for food and other commodities, and if the waiter is not paid enough to give good service, the matter is up to the proprietor. When the public decides to give no more tips, those who run hotels, cafes and such places will either have to do without employees or will have to pay them enough. Self-respecting waiters should be the first to protest against the tip, which is either a bribe or a donation dictated by charity. It is doubtful, however, if the tipping problem is within the confines of legislative restriction or limitation.

COURT REFORM

The chief justice of the Vermont supreme court has made a suggestion that if adopted generally would do much to reform court procedure and give greater dignity to legal proceedings and to the medical profession. He suggests that in cases where expert testimony is deemed advisable, the witnesses be called by the court instead of by either side engaged in legal controversy. This would prevent the frequent exhibition of learning commercialized for unconscious financial gain, and the shameful spectacle of men of education and experience fluting contradicting each other in the name of a common profession. When we see the resultant confusion among the more or less disinterested public, what must not be the result in the minds of the jury? The present system of introducing expert testimony in American courts is one of the most flagrant evils of court procedure, and the Vermont suggestion affords one way by which to offset it.

A SWINDLING PROTECTIONIST

Former Congressman Littauer and his brother William have pleaded guilty in New York to the charge of attempting to swindle the government by smuggling jewelry from abroad, and have been fined $1000 each with the additional penalty of a suspended sentence of six months in jail. This conspiracy to defraud is particularly odious in the person of a politician who has been identified with the fight to retain the high tariff, and who has in the past profited much from the high tariff on gloves. It is a shameful spectacle to see one who has served 10 years in congress as representative of the people arraigned under the terms of a law to which he was strenuously opposed, and it is to be feared that he is a type of the insincere protectionists who were instrumental in framing the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. The incident is one more argument in favor of the selecting of honest politicians as the first essential for the framing of just and honest laws.

AROUND THE WORLD

Any aviator who wishes to be considered up-to-date at the present time must give newspaper interviewers some of his intimate views regarding his ambition to cross the Atlantic via the aerial route, and so often has the matter been broached that the world is expecting it and will not stand still in amazement like Joshua's sun when it is finally accomplished. For different, however, is the proposition of the Panama exposition management which offers a prize of $150,000 to the aviator who will finish first in a flight around the world. The achievements of aviation have not yet been remarkable enough to warrant faith in a flight circling the earth, but it will come undoubtedly. When we are dust for a century or two the children of the future may take trips to Mars that will shame the imaginary flights of Jules Verne.

Morris McDonald is going back to the old job on the Maine Central, tired no doubt of trying to put the Boston and Maine puzzle together. Who could be president when every man of the street sets himself up as an advisory counsel?

So some Massachusetts women's clubs approve of the bill to allow women to be policemen! Wonder what form hearings on conduct unbecoming an officer will take when that comes to pass.

Whether we think that our city is represented sufficiently in bills before the legislature or not, all credit to the powers that be for the grateful fact that we are not represented by any bills of the rabidly ridiculous species.

Putting off until tomorrow what we can do today may work with magic effect in the contagious hospital matter, but what about that penalty provided for such refusal?

Daffodils in the florists' shops; straw hats in the milliners! Soon the spring will be here and the notes of the turtle—and the hurdy-gurdy—will be heard in the land.

Seen and Heard

Any woman can manage a man if she isn't married to him.

Why does a man always look straight past you and never at you when he is driving his offspring in a baby buggy? What is he ashamed of?

The old-fashioned woman who used to have a big day's washing done by breakfast time now has a daughter who has to take a bottle of Prunella every time she finds a two-by-two handkerchief on a window pane.

Away down in our hearts we all believe that this would be a fine world if other men were only as thoughtful as unselfish and as clever as we are.

You can't make a woman believe that she ever loses her charm. The older she gets the more flour she plasters on her face.

Mother can take a dollar and go into a dry goods emporium and come out with six packages and carefree. But father can go into a wet goods emporium with ten dollars and come out with a package and no carefree.

Of course the styles worn by the women are funny, and we have to laugh at them. But a lot of perfectly good house blankets were ruined when they were turned into the machine. The fool men are proudly wearing.

Along the highways of Topsham, Me., where new state roads are being built, wild apple trees outside the old stone walls are being grafted with summer apples. Big trees bear metal signs informing the public that the fruit is for public use, simply requesting care and consideration.

Women, like rabbits, are of all omen to the miner. In many places, particularly in Wales, if a pitman meets or sees a woman on his way to work he will turn back, for such an encounter is held to foreshadow evil not only to the man himself, but all of his associates. At Oswestry some years ago a woman was employed as messenger by one of the collieries, and in the course of her duties met many of the colliers on their way to work. The men immediately told the manager that they could not run the risk of ill luck entailed in meeting a woman on the way to the pit, and threatened to strike if she were not dismissed.

"Before the eyes of men let duty shine thy light,
But ever let thy life's best part be out of sight."

To live content with small means—to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion—to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy not rich—to study hard, think quickly, talk gently, act frankly—to listen to stars and birds, to babes and sages, with open heart—to bear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never—in a word to let the spiritual universe unfold and unconsciously grow up through the common—this is to be my symphony.—William D. Channing.

"No woman need envy the sphinx her wisdom if she has learned the uses of silence and never asks a favor of a hungry man."

To go on cheerfully with a belly round of little duties, little vexations, to smile for the joy of others when the heart is aching. . . . who does this, his works will follow him. He may not be a hero to the world, but he is one of God's heroes.—Canon Farrar.

MOTHER'S ALMANAC
I tell you when it comes to dates.
My mother's just the boss!
She tells me all I want to know
"Tillt ever gettin' cross.
You'd think she'd get mixed up sometimes;
At school I know I do—
"Bout Washington and Plymouth Rock,
And 1862.

But mother says, "the war with Spain
Was fought in '98.
The year you all had chicken pox,
Exceptin' Sister Kate.
"The Boer war in Africa—
That was a dreadful thing—
Began in '99, I know.
For Jack was born that spring."

"In '98 the Spanish ships
Were sunk in Cuban channels.
'Twas summer, for you children had Just changed your winter flannels."

"In 1904, my dear,
The Russians fought the Japs,
That year was very cold and you
Had chilblains and the chaps."

There are six of us and we're all mixed up
With history just that way:
Sometimes it's measles, croup or chumps.
But there's no date that ever stumps
My mother, night or day.
—Lippincott's Magazine.

OLD HENS SAVED HIM
"And did you say that you are innocent of the charge of stealing a rooster from Mr. Jones?" asked an Arkansas judge of a meek-looking prisoner.

"Yes, sir, and I can prove it."
"How can you prove it?"
"I can prove that I didn't steal Mr. Jones' rooster, judge, because I stole two hens from Mr. Graston the same night, and Jones lives five miles from Graston's."

"The proof is conclusive," said the judge. "Discharge the prisoner."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

THE IMMIGRANT
Fall River Herald: None will deny that there is opportunity for the new comer; if it were not so the population would increase more slowly than it does. By the same token it is clear that a whole lot of strangers are getting on very well in this new land with the aid of such agencies as are now at work to make them comfortable in strange land. Maybe these agencies could be multiplied and varied, but excellent evidence that the stranger in this broad land is getting a reasonably fair show under existing conditions is presented whenever the assessors make public the annual tax levies.

TITLES
New Bedford Standard: American heiresses who are so eager to marry into the nobility of European countries would probably make any sacrifice to get, as husband, one of the royally, even if, like Manuel of Portugal, he happened to be a king out of a job. Yet the father of Princess Augustine, who became Manuel's wife, permitted the marriage only on condition that his prospective son-in-law should give up the throne of Portugal. Maybe these agencies could be multiplied and varied, but excellent evidence that the stranger in this broad land is getting a reasonably fair show under existing conditions is presented whenever the assessors make public the annual tax levies.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE GAINING
Newport News: The women have gained a point in New Jersey, the house resolution submitting a constitutional amendment extending to them the right of suffrage. This must be approved by the senate and confirmed by the next legislature before it goes to the referendum vote of the people. It is a step, however, which New Jersey has not before taken.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS
Nashua Telegraph: Many thanks are dinarily well meaning persons have a curious conception of what is news and what a newspaper should present to its readers. The telegraph probably receives five communications a day which it does not print because they are anonymous. The most vicious communication is one that contains a fair sounding name, or that of some resident of standing, and upon investigation is found to be spurious. There should be adequate laws to deal with such offenders. A daily newspaper editor must necessarily work fast, and it is surprising that so few of these forged and unsigned communications pass the editorial desk.

GOVERNOR'S STAFF
Lawrence American: Gov. Walsh says two of his staff are graduates of Harvard, one of a southern college, and "six are graduates of the school of hard knocks." Some of them are of different politics and environment than myself.

THE PRESIDENT'S READING
Haverhill Gazette: But it is certain that President Wilson's mind in youth was not formed on adme novels, as Charles's was not. The word that the president reads when he is a mental relaxation shows that he is human, but does not furnish excuse to boys who are corrupting their tastes and stultifying their minds by similar reading. The boy who is addicted to dime novels, you may be sure, is addicted to no better kind of reading. Besides the mind of youth is not the mind of the adult; it is more plastic, impressionable, more easily harmed, less flexible, governed, formed. What a man's mind can play with and dismember, the youth's mind is fatally affected by.

THE FIRE DEPT.

Of Billerica Highly Complimented for Effective Work

The fire department of Billerica is the subject of much talk in the village since the fire that destroyed the residence of Abundus Polier near the Chelmsford place. Fortunately the discussion is in favor of the department. As a rule, the fire departments of the suburban towns are generally criticized, but this is an exception to the rule, for words of praise are coming from all parts of the town, and especially from the many people who witnessed the fire last Monday.

One man especially, A. A. Arpin, a neighbor of the Polier family, pays a very good tribute to the department by saying the handful of men who worked in extinguishing the flames at the Polier home are capable and conscientious workers and their knowledge of this particular line of work is such that they could do effective work on any large city fire department.

Mr. Arpin, in conversation with the writer, said when the flames burst through the roof of the Polier residence, he (Arpin) gave up all hopes for his home, which was situated just a few feet away from the fire. He said: "We immediately got busy in removing the furniture and all other valuable articles, for it looked as though my home would also be gutted. The men of the fire department arrived on the scene of the conflagration and although they were handicapped by the lack of water, they did efficient work." The fire fighters showed they knew their business, for when they saw the place was doomed they concentrated their efforts on protecting the adjoining property.

"There has been so much talk about the Tewksbury and Weymouth departments of late that I think it is only right to let the citizens of Billerica know that they are well protected under the wings of our fire department as they would be were they living in the city. It was but a few minutes after the alarm had been given, that the men of the department arrived on the scene and within a short time had several lines of hose put in operation, and the fire had made such headway before the firemen were summoned that it was impossible under the circumstances to save the building. The other surrounding buildings, however, were in great danger and it is fair to assume that if the men did not know their business the entire block would have been wiped out, for water was very scarce."

Mr. Arpin then said he was very grateful to the department and concluded by saying he hopes the other towns will secure as good and efficient workers as the men who composed the Billerica fire department.

MAY BE LAW VIOLATOR ST. ELIZABETH'S HOSPITAL

HARPER'S RIGHT TO GIVE FACIAL MASSAGE WITHOUT A LICENSE IS QUESTIONED

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The point that your harbor is very possibly violating the law when he gives you a facial massage and the trailer laying himself open to a fine, when he rubs down an athlete, was brought out yesterday in the Malden district court, before Judge Bruce, and is to be further investigated by the justice.

The case was that of William H. Parker, a practitioner of the so-called chiropractic method of healing in Everett, who pleaded guilty to practicing medicine without a license.

This did not satisfy Judge Bruce, when he discovered that one of the complaints against Parker, supported by the osteopaths, was that he was giving massage treatment illegally under the license he had.

Judge Bruce promptly said he wanted to know what would be the legal standing of barbers, tailors and others who practice massage in one form or another.

The question was raised by lawyers present that a chiropractor might turn out legally to be merely a barber in disguise.

The case was finally continued to Feb. 17, the judge asking that evidence be produced on every possible legal phase of the situation at that time.

FINAL MEETING OF CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE — CARDINAL O'CONNELL THANKS ALL

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—While addressing about 200 campaign workers and general committee men, who had worked on the collection of the $200,000 fund for the new St. Elizabeth hospital, in the City club last evening at the closing meeting, Cardinal O'Connell broke down during the speech, overcome as few had ever seen him.

"What his heart went out an evidence of what he felt for the men who were before him and, as he said, for those who were scattered through the diocese and for the thousands of good people who had entered into the campaign with a spirit backed by faith."

The 200 men sat silent. No one moved nor turned in his chair. It was a dramatic two minutes until the cardinal resumed, his words coming slowly, with an evident tremble in his voice. Everyone present was affected by the incident. He had been speaking of the great faith of the people which prompted them to rally to the support of the campaign to establish the new hospital.

As he touched upon the amount of the contributions, his voice quavered for the moment. He attempted to continue and again stopped, the tears coming down his cheeks while the 200 men looked on in silence.

The cardinal was interrupted at least eight times when he resumed, cheers and applause greeting his remarks from time to time. It was a demonstration that has seldom been seen at a Catholic gathering in this city. So intense was the sentiment, that at its conclusion ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald moved and it was carried that the chairman of the general committee should appoint a committee of five to organize permanently the team workers and general committee.

It was also moved and a rising vote of thanks extended to the non-Catholic people of the diocese who had so generously contributed to the fund and who in many ways had assisted in the work.

Final Campaign Meeting

The meeting was the final one of the campaign workers' club. Father of the general committee called the gathering to order and thanked the workers and all for their cooperation, paying a particular compliment to the press of the city for the very able manner in which it had set forth the object and progress of the 10-day campaign. His words were greeted with cheers.

Then Joseph H. O'Neil was then introduced as toastmaster. He was in his wittiest vein throughout the evening, and between himself and several of the speakers many pleasantities were passed that materially enhanced the proceedings.

Mr. O'Neil, who was the campaign treasurer, said 50 per cent of the total was in cash and only a bare 15 per cent in pledges and all of the latter would be returned before Jan. 1 of next year, the pledges being in agreements for four payments in the meantime.

Mr. O'Neil then read a certificate, saying as he addressed Cardinal O'Connell, that this was the object of the meeting. The cardinal stated: "We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $200,000, this sum being the amount subscribed toward the new St. Elizabeth's hospital by the big hearted people of the Boston diocese."

America, held its regular meeting in Odd Fellows building last night, with Chief Ranger William A. Kelley in the chair. Two applications for membership were received, and one new member was initiated. The sick committee reported that Brother Charles H. Molloy is convalescing. Several members spoke on the good of the order.

"HOG CHOLERA"

How it Has Been Combated by Department of Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture, during the past year, has been conducting campaigns in Indiana, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska to control the contagious disease of hogs known as "hog cholera" by means of anti-hog cholera serum and farm quarantines. In one county (Pettis county, Missouri), where there was a loss of 18 per cent. in 1911 and 28.6 per cent. in 1912 of all hogs raised, there was only a loss of 14.1 per cent. up to November, 1913. This decrease was due to the use of the serum, which, although not used there by the department's agents until August, 1913, materially reduced the loss. About 60,000 hogs were raised during the past year and of the 10,000 that died of the hog cholera only about 1,000 were lost after the active use of serum and quarantine measures were inaugurated.

In every county where these measures were employed, even though begun after the disease had continued its ravages for some time, there was less loss from hog cholera than in either of the two preceding years.

In addition to its great function as a preventive, it has been found that the anti-hog cholera serum would cure a large proportion of hogs in the early stages of the disease and render them immune after recovery. However, if hogs are not treated by this serum, from 75 to 100 per cent. of all affected hogs die. This serum, so far as is known, is the only thing that will prevent the disease.

Of hogs actually sick when treated, the department's inspectors lost but 25 per cent. during the past summer. Of well hogs in diseased herds, 2.8 per cent. died after being treated and of hogs in exposed herds less than 1 per cent. died after being inoculated with the serum. In an infected herd there is always a certain proportion of hogs that are well.

The inspector examines the hogs when he arrives, takes the temperature of all hogs in the herd and separates the sick from the well. The temperature is an indication of the sickness. The temperature of a sick hog, unless the hog is near death, will run above 100 degrees and sometimes as high as 101 or 102 degrees.

Some states are engaged in the manufacture of serum to cure this disease. This serum requires special treatment in order to be made and a qualified man to produce it. Sufficient serum to treat an average hundred-pound hog costs about 30 cents at a liberal estimate. This treatment is by hypodermic injection.

The department in instituting its campaign against the devastating hog disease has only been able to commence in a few of the districts where the cholera was the most widespread and where the active co-operation of the state was offered in enforcing the ordinary quarantine measures, etc.

The object of the department has been to control the disease and if possible, to eliminate it from the country. To secure this end the best efforts of the farmer himself are necessary. The complete eradication of this devastating disease during 1913 was planned in the territory selected along three lines:

1. The education and organization of the farmers in the districts selected to be carried out primarily by the state college.

2. The enforcement of sanitation and restrictive regulations by the state veterinarian.

3. Active supervision by the bureau of animal industry of the department and the inoculation of diseased herds and exposed herds with the anti-hog cholera serum.

A county in each state was selected as a unit and the method of work in that country was briefly, for the state college to secure the co-operation of intelligent, active farmers in each township in the county. These men were called volunteer assistants and they were to keep in close communication with the department's inspection stations in that area, keeping them informed of conditions and securing statistics concerning the hog industry. In this manner conditions were pretty well learned in the territory under inspection. When an outbreak of hog cholera was reported the department's inspectors went to that area, located and secured all the hogs he could by treatment with serum. As the disease is very easily transmitted, he then protected all herds in the immediate vicinity by inoculation. The idea was to form a zone of immune animals around the infected centre.

Hog cholera is a disease which is carried in the blood. It is an organism so small that the most powerful microscopes do not show it. However, it is easy to demonstrate its presence by inoculating a small part of the blood from a sick hog into a well one, which produces the hog cholera.

Hog cholera is a disease which seems to be stopped to a degree by the frosts of winter, although frost cannot be said to stop a case after it has taken hold of its victim. However, it seems to prevent the rapid spread of the disease. The result is that in spring time the infection is as a rule at the lowest ebb, but increases rapidly from that time until fall.

Now cholera does not seem to affect any particular breed of hogs more than another, and while generally the careless farmer is more apt to have the disease among his hogs than the careful one, the disease sometimes occurs where the conditions are sanitary. It is hoped that the work may be extended gradually until the disease is completely controlled.

The fact by the hogs themselves, but by birds, dogs, streams and even on the feet of men going from one farm to another shows how necessary it is that the campaign be thorough and that farmers exert their best efforts to assist in the work.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL WORK

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR WOMEN ON COMMON STREET

Hundreds of Visitors Inspected the Departments on Domestic Science This Week

Principal Fisher decided not to have any exhibition of the work of the domestic science department of the industrial school but instead threw the school open to visitors during the present week. The idea has been quite successful as hundreds of people have daily availed themselves of the privilege of passing through the departments and inspecting the work.

The number of visitors in the evening particularly has been quite large and only words of praise were heard from all the visitors. Many were astonished at the splendid opportunities afforded to girls and women to learn dressmaking, millinery, cooking and other branches of domestic science looking to economy in the household, the qualities of fabrics that count for durability, the harmony of colors, the canons of taste and other points in the science of dressmaking and millinery while in the cooking department, the nutritive value of different foods is taught and the problem of furnishing a good wholesome meal of plain food containing all the necessary elements of nutrition is worked out in a very scientific manner.

Miss Alice L. Gookin is in full charge of all departments of the industrial school and in this capacity she is showing her talent for discipline, the coordination of courses and the attainment of results.

Principal Fisher is a severe critic, quite hard to please in many ways, but he speaks highly of Miss Gookin's work.

Miss Roberta Brannell and Miss Ella Donnan are the head teachers in the cooking department. Miss Daisy Abbott and Miss Harriet Sturtevant, assistants, last evening gave a demonstration in the art of cooking that won the admiration of many visitors.

In the evening dressmaking department there are five rooms, all engaged on dresses, skirts and coats. When the opportunities here available are considered, it is surprising that any vacant seat could be found in any of the rooms. Still there are a few as the attendance has fallen off as the season advanced. The attendance at the evening school on Mondays and Thursdays is about 145 and on Tuesdays and Fridays 125. On the two latter evenings there is a class on coat-making. The hours for all the classes are from 7 to 9. The school is now on the second course the first having been devoted mainly to shirt-waists. The evening schools will close Feb. 27.

In the day school in this department Miss O'Day is the head dress-maker and with an able corps of assistants excellent work is done. Mrs. Devine is conducting a class in millinery with excellent results. What was noticed by all the visitors was the inadequacy of the rooms and yet Principal Fisher stated that this department is much better housed than are the various departments for the men.

THREE MEN DROWNED

INVESTIGATION OF MYSTERIOUS ERRAND WHICH RESULTED IN TRAGEDY

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Investigation of a mysterious errand which resulted in the drowning of three men last night in the icy waters of Lake Michigan while they were making efforts to reach a waterworks intake crib in a small boat, was begun today by city authorities.

W. F. Seannell, keeper of the crib, Stephen Varley and a man named Wilson started for the crib in a small boat which was wrecked in the ice. The men shouted for help and hundreds of people lined the shore helpless to aid them while they gained a big block of ice to which they clung for an hour before slipping into the water. At first it was supposed Cannell had attempted to take a physician to the crib to attend his wife. Later, however, two women who gave their names as My Smith and Mary Wade were taken from the crib in a police boat. They said that Cannell and his companions had gone for provisions.

REMOVE GERMAN SUBJECTS

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The German minister to Mexico told a requisitioned German steamer, Piranga, for the removal of the German subjects from Tampico.

Special arranged Sunday concert program, including vaudeville the coming Sunday.

AT THE OWL THEATRE
"Victory or Death" was shown in attend of "The Star of India," which was advertised for Wednesday and Thursday, and it proved a first class attraction. The other picture will be shown later. Commencing today, "The Mutual Girl" will be a regular feature every week at the Owl, and her first experience in the big fashion and millinery shops in New York ought to interest every lady in this city. Next week she takes part in a highly interesting detective story, full of thrills. Many other pictures are on the program for today and tomorrow. The managers have shifted the general program for the Mutual "movies" and the change is noticeable.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
It's a tough proposition to serve three months when innocent, and worse "when the victim is a tender girl." "The Girl of the Year" is the Warner feature at the Opera House today contains a story that is highly beneficial to all. It portrays a political boss who is the proprietor of a tenement dive. He is, however, large in heart and spirit, and is over the head of the ill-treated girl. When he is confronted with the tragedy of his own daughter's misstep, he is overcome with remorse and closes his cafe and seeks consolation and higher ideals by leaving the trail of the bright lights for the cool green fields of rest in the country. This Warner feature will arouse your sympathy for the struggling girls that are confronted with many traps of injustice, in trying to follow the straight and narrow path of decency. Conditions similar to the ones portrayed in this photo-play are the existing ones in many of our large cities, conditions that harbor the civic authorities. Be sure and see this moral sermon for young girls.

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
With "Harmony at Home" the headline feature at the H. F. Keith theatre this week and on six other acts of much excellence on the bill, one of the classic shows of the culture season may be said to be holding the boards. The Moneta Five, three women and two men; give the delicate musical act which tops the bill and which is proving completely satisfying to very large audiences. Another winner on the bill is "The Battle of Day Rum," played by Collins and Seymour, and which is literally sprinkled with odd situations and funny sayings. Laneton, Lucier & Co. in "Acts of Ill-fortune," have in addition to the bill which just keeps the merriment going. It is a combination of real fun and wonderfully good dancing. Myrtle and Daisy, two most attractive singers, appear to distinct advantage, while Tom Mahoney, called president of the head entertainers' union, is a first rate monologist. The McAloney Marvells are the world's best known jumpers, and the Faiths Weekly holds some new pictures. Get your seats in advance for the few remaining performances. Phone 28.

THE KASINO
Where are you going today and tomorrow? Rather a personal question, but if you have not already made up your mind, The Kasino invites you to hear Miner's band free of charge. Music by this popular organization is enjoyed by those who skate and those who prefer to remain on the promenade. Of course, real Kasino enjoyment is impossible without the rollers. Kasino skating is conducted under ideal conditions the last three days of the week, afternoon and evening.

AT BUENOS AYRES

The First Subway in South America Has Been Completed

Buenos Ayres has completed the first section of its new subway and it was opened to public service Dec. 1, 1913. That underground transit has become a necessity to relieve the congestion of traffic accentuates the fact that the Argentine capital is the "hurry-up" city of South America. Its growth during the ten year period closing with 1912 is remarkable.

In 1902 the population was 245,331 there were 4851 carriages and automobiles, and the street-cars, or tranvays, the English-Argentine term for them, carried 13,112,255 fares during the year. In 1908 the population had increased to 1,145,150, the carriages and automobiles to 25,573, and the passengers carried by the trams to 255,073,556; by 1912 the population amounted to 1,157,888, the carriages and automobiles to 32,448, and the trams struggled with 487,252,549 passengers.

When the surface cars were no longer able to handle the traffic satisfactorily the Anglo-Argentine company, an English corporation who owned most of them, decided in 1910 to ask for a franchise to install a subway system, and it is the first section of this which was opened to traffic recently. According to an article in the January Bulletin of the Pan American union, this section runs from the government building on the Plaza Mayo at one terminus, underneath the main thoroughfare—the splendid Avenida de Mayo—to and around the foundations of the new capital, and to the Plaza Once de Septiembre, a total distance of about two miles. Formerly the shortest time to make the trip, owing to the congested condition of traffic, was 30 minutes. By the subway it now takes less than one-third of that time, and "time is money" in Buenos Aires just as it is in New York.

The subway is double tracked and equipped with cars of the latest pattern and every modern convenience. One new feature introduced is that each station has a distinct color scheme, different from the others. For example, the first station on the Avenida is painted sky blue, the second is yellow, the third green, etc. Soon the distinctive colors will become familiar to the patrons and if a passenger falls to read the large signs he can still tell where he is by the color of the stopping place. The gauge of the road is 5 feet, 6 inches and the cars accommodate 40 passengers each. The cost is $30,000,000.

All Clogged Up? Here's Quick Relief

A Simple Remedy to Correct Constipation Before It Becomes Chronic

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Those who injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and similar things, they have temporary relief, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgative is, however, necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not hold behind a high sounding name, but in what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to their infants, and yet it is so compounded and contains such delicate ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation. In fact, among the greatest endorser of Syrup Pepsin are elderly people who have suffered for years and found nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsin.

It is a fact that millions of families have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, home like those of Mr. H. W. Fenstermaker, Stegfeld, Pa. He says he has had wonderful results from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, that in fact he has never found a remedy so good, and he is glad to recommend it. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is carried to the needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant-tasting, mild and non-grinding, unlike harsh physics. It works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowel passages are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with.

You can obtain a bottle at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. H. Caldwell, 119 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

WEATHER BUREAU

Predicts Storms, Frosts and Floods in Businesslike Way

Many people have an idea that there is something mysterious and occult about the work of the weather bureau in forecasting the coming of storms, frosts and floods. Not a few think that the observers must necessarily get their data by reading the planets, the stars and the moon. As a matter of fact the forecaster of the bureau foretells the coming of disturbances in a businesslike way, very similar to that in which a man who has ordered a shipment of goods would estimate the date of its arrival.

Suppose a business man had ordered a carload of pineapples from the Hawaiian Islands. He would know the average time it would take the steamer to make the trip to the Pacific port, the average time for unloading and loading into refrigerator cars, and the average number of days to be allowed for these cars for their trip across the continent to New York. His estimate, however, would be subject to error because the steamer might be delayed by fog, or the cars might meet with an accident.

Storms, like pineapples, as a rule, do not originate in the United States. They come to us, some from the Philippines, Japan, Siberia, Alaska, Canada or the Gulf of Mexico. The weather bureau gets cable, telegraphic or wireless notice of a foreign storm. Station after station, or vessel after vessel reports the storm's arrival in its neighborhood, so that the general direction and rate of progress can be determined very early. In fact, the arrival of some storms can be foretold ten days in advance.

The forecasters watch for the region of low barometer which is the storm centre around which the winds blow. This whirl or eddy moves bodily forward with the general eastward drift of about 600 miles a day in our latitudes. As the lines of equal pressure (isobars) around the low centre crowd closer together, the winds attending the storm increase in force. The forecaster determines the direction of movement of the storm and its velocity.

When weather disturbances are reported, the forecasters know from experience about how long it takes them to reach our Pacific coast, and they know how long after they will reach the Atlantic coast. For example, if a storm coming from Siberia drifts eastward around the North pole and reappears in Alaska, it should appear in Washington and Oregon in about two days, should get to the Great Lakes in six days and to the Atlantic coast in seven or eight days.

Unexpected conditions may delay storms or divert them from the straight track just as a refrigerator car may be thrown off its schedule or be shipped by accident on a wrong road. Some of these storms deplete themselves by running into regions of high barometer which are of greater magnitude and extent than the storm itself. Some of them, however, travel completely around the world.

To keep tab on cold waves that come into the United States from Canada and Alaska, the weather bureau studies the Canadian weather reports. England sends reports from Iceland and the British Islands and Continental Europe, and daily reports come from St. Petersburg on the conditions in Russia and Siberia.

The same businesslike system used in tracing the track of a storm is applied in determining the arrival of frosts.

Flood forecasts are made in much the same way. Information as to the amount of rainfall at the head waters of streams that these floods are covered by telegraphic report sent by local observers. As this rain reaches the main channel, the height of the water in the channel is determined by successive gaging stations. Past records establish how much a height, say of 20 feet at Dubuque, Iowa, will produce at Pavenport, another station 50 miles down the Mississippi. This plan is followed all the way down the river, and at each point full allowance is made for the effects of water from tributaries, and from additional and local rainfall. As a result of these observations in the recent flood, the people of the East had warning a week or ten days in advance. The Pittsburgh district can be given only 12 to 24 hours' notice, because a flood is upon them within 21 hours after a heavy rain storm.

OLD CADDIE'S HISTORY
He is an old caddy on an east coast course, and being a noted figure on the links, he endeavors as far as possible to caddy only for efficient golfers. Occasionally, however, he finds himself accompanying a "fooler" and on these occasions his dignity is injured.

One day last week he found himself caddying to an old gentleman who was out, clearly, more for exercise than for the love of the game, and who was playing shockingly poor.

By the time the 12th hole was reached he had been in most of the bunkers en route, and had succeeded in breaking a club. "I think I shall give up this hole," he remarked at last to his indulgent caddy. "An, na," retorted the old worthy, bitterly. "Gosh! the course, sir, foolishly the course; ye've got other four clubs to smash yet, an' nine bunkers to due it in!"—Glasgow News.

TEXTILE EXHIBIT SHOWN TAFTA REFORMER

By Agent of Bureau of Foreign Commerce—Had Samples at Board of Trade Rooms

Ralph M. Odell, commercial agent of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who recently returned from an extensive trip through Spain, Portugal, Italy, Russia, Turkey, Egypt and other countries where he has investigated the conditions in the cotton goods trade, received yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Lowell board of trade a large number of manufacturers, millmen and other persons who were in search of information regarding cotton trade in the foreign countries. Mr. Odell had over a thousand samples of cotton goods spread over the tables in the board of trade rooms and answered many questions concerning his trip.

All the goods Mr. Odell had on exhibition yesterday were samples of what he collected in the foreign markets and he also had with him considerable data concerning the requirements in particular sections, prices, and other details of interest to exporters desirous of pushing trade in the districts covered by the agent's observations.

Mr. Odell has been in the south for some time where he addressed com-

Former President Riddle's Whipple Reforms at Banquet

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The Boston University Law School association's reception and banquet to Prof. William Howard Taft of the Yale Law School last night assumed the character of a vigorous and general attack upon the reforms in court procedure urged by Sherman J. Whipple, a prominent member of the Boston bar, at the recent meeting of the Connecticut Bar association in New London.

Prof. Taft, now also president of the American Bar association, who said that despite his past he had now become a reformer, led in the attack upon Mr. Whipple's suggestions, characterizing him as belonging to the "red neck radicals," the "explosives."

Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the supreme judicial court, Moorfield Storey, president of the Massachusetts Bar association, Attorney-General Thomas J. Baynton and John E. Hannigan, toastmaster, all joined in one of the most thoroughgoing "roastings" that could be politely administered.

It was declared by all the speakers that Mr. Whipple's suggestion that the rule of "privileged confidence" between counsel and client be abolished, was amazing and if put into effect would have the result of bringing cases into court without any foundation whatever, cases in which the client's counsel would be as ignorant as the jury of the real underlying facts of the case.

They said that under present conditions, clients were advised to pay up when they had a worthless case, and that if Mr. Whipple's suggestion were adopted, the clients would not make any disclosures to their attorneys.

Moorfield Storey was the only one who urged any change in the present system of procedure. He declared that the rule that permitted a man to refuse to give evidence that would incriminate himself was out of date and should be abolished. A client, he said, should be forced to take the stand and tell all he knew about his own case like any other witness.

The 500 members of the bar who attended the banquet, along with 30 odd judges of various courts in the Commonwealth, applauded the speakers in the echo in their defense of the bar and the judiciary. The former president was greeted with repeated outbursts of enthusiastic applause, enthusiastic and sarcastic reference to Mr. Whipple's proposals were greeted with loud laughter and hand clapping.

SHOT BY ROBBERS

Clerk in Roxbury Loan Office Wounded During Terrific Battle

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—John J. Gately, a clerk employed by the Roxbury Loan company, 1241 Tremont street, Roxbury, was shot and seriously wounded shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by three gunmen who made a futile attempt to rob the cash drawer and safes of the establishment.

The robbery was frustrated when Gately, wounded by a bullet, fired four shots at the robbers as he fell to the door. None of the bullets took effect. The trio did not return his fire, but made their escape, darting down Tremont street through the crowds of persons returning from work, who were drawn to the vicinity by the sound of the firing.

After the robbers had left, Gately crawled to the telephone and called up the home of his employer, Lazarus Davis of 25 Angel street, Dorchester, and was endeavoring to get the Roxbury police by phone, when his predicament was discovered by a young man who had seen the gunmen run out of the store.

Bernard Cannon, a butcher employed next door, in the Roxbury Supply company, heard the shots and also went to Gately's assistance. Gately, though conscious, was bleeding profusely, and when removed to the city hospital in a police ambulance, his name was placed on the dangerous list. It was said last night that he has even chances of recovery.

BODY FOUND IN LAKE

MYSTERY OF THE DISAPPEARANCE OF MRS. COLBY, WEALTHY BROOKLINE WIDOW, SOLVED

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Anne E. Colby, the wealthy Brookline widow, who slipped away from a Newton sanatorium on the evening of Dec. 4, and for whom a nation-wide police search was made, was solved yesterday when the ice on Crystal lake broke up and her body rose to the surface.

One of the first theories of her loss was that she might have been drowned, so the lake and the Charles river were dragged without result.

The body was positively identified from the clothing by Dr. Samuel Eaton, who conducts the sanatorium on Rock ledge road. Relatives of Mrs. Colby, who was the widow of the late State Senator John H. Colby, were notified, and will claim the body and make funeral arrangements today.

SUFFRAGE DEMONSTRATION
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Suffrage leaders began active preparations today for the national suffrage demonstration to be held here May 8. Their first move was a request for a police permit for the use of certain streets on the day of the demonstration.

Suffrage leaders plan to make the demonstration surpass the one that was held here the day before President Wilson's inauguration, which was marked by several near riots.

O'CONNELL FOR CONGRESS

DANIEL T. CANDIDATE IN 12TH DISTRICT TO SUCCEED MAYOR CURLEY

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—It was announced last evening that Daniel T. O'Connell is a candidate for congress in the 12th district to succeed Mayor Curley, who, besides being mayor of Boston, is also a representative in congress. The announcement of the candidacy revives speculation as to when Mayor Curley will resign as congressman. It is said Mr. O'Connell, before announcing his candidacy, had assurances that Mayor Curley intends to resign his seat in September.

Daniel T. O'Connell is a brother of former Congressman O'Connell, and both were enthusiastic Keno supporters in the last majority fight.

He was secretary to former Mayor Fitzgerald during a portion of the latter's first administration, but parted political company with the former mayor shortly afterward.

He has since been an active opponent of the Keno game. Mr. O'Connell is unmarried and makes his home in Dor-

ROBBED OF MILLIONS

REP. THAYER SAYS TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS LOSE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS, CHARGED TO THEM

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—"Telephone subscribers are being robbed of millions of dollars that are being charged to them by the New England Telephone & Telegraph company," said former representative Frank W. Thayer of Dorchester yesterday at the telephone hearing before the public service commission. Another hearing will be held Feb. 24.

A resumption of the gas and electric rate hearing is being sought by the United Improvement association, which was given a hearing yesterday upon its petition.

What Dr. Gagnon's Nap-a-Minit Really Is

Many people confound Nap-a-Minit with ether, gas or some of the other old-fashioned methods of inducing anesthesia.

Dr. Gagnon's Nap-a-Minit is not anesthesia, but is a stage of anaesthesia induced by the combination of Nitrous Oxide and Oxygen; the patient, in complete possession of all faculties, can hear, converse and knows absolutely what is going on and has control of every muscle in the body. It simply prevents the patient from feeling pain.

There is no disagreeable feature in administering "Nap-a-Minit." You will be astonished at the simplicity of the application of this efficient pain destroyer. It is a sort of delightful lassitude, allowing the doctor complete freedom in his work, which in consequence will be much better and with absolute freedom from pain by the patient.

Call at either of my offices and let me explain the merits of Nap-a-Minit to you and I am sure you will agree with me in saying that the science of dentistry has indeed been revolutionized by my methods.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN

A. B. C. That itching and profuse dandruff plainly indicate an unhealthy scalp, and when this condition is overcome your hair will take on its former richness and beauty. Shampooing occasionally with a teaspoonful of castor oil dissolved in 1 cup hot water, cleanses and invigorates the scalp and results in healthy, beautiful hair. This shampoo is very inexpensive and you will not only enjoy each shampoo, but the results will be very gratifying.

Janet: You and your husband both can easily get rid of the surplus fat if you follow these simple directions: Get 4 ounces paraffin from your druggist and dissolve in 1½ pints hot water. When it cools take a tablespoonful before each meal. This reduction method is gradual and positive in its action and does not depend on diet or exercise for results. The skin will be left firm and free from wrinkles.

Inquisitive: Your pimples and skin eruptions are increased by impurities in your system. Try this old-time blood purifier and tonic and I am sure you will obtain excellent results: To 1 quart alcohol, add 1 ounce cayenne (from drug store), then 1 cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and your skin will clear and the color of your face will come back to your cheeks. This tonic is fine for aches and is prevalent in cold weather and tends to increase body of persons causing rheumatism and kidney and liver troubles.

Merrin: I think all eyes are beautiful if clear and sparkling, and all eyes may be that if cared for properly. Put 2 or 3 drops of my simple home-made tonic into each eye daily. When they are tired or the lids show any tendency to inflammation, use often or bath entire eye and lids. To make the tonic I put an ounce of crystals at the drug store and dissolve in 1 quart cold water.

Annabel: To be sure you can have a clear, velvety, pink-and-white complexion if you care enough to give it a little attention each day. I advise discarding powder and using a plain lotion made by dissolving 1 ounce sorbusin (get from druggist) in 1½ pint witch hazel or rosewater, to which should be added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This is easily applied, dries quickly and imparts a delightful tone to the complexion. Especially good for oily, yellow skins and cannot be detected when on.

Pearl: Your wrinkles might be caused in many different ways, but without regard to the cause, I am giving you a certain relief which my friends and I have proven. This is inexpensive and is made as follows: Into ½ pint water, add an ounce ammonia (from any druggist) and add 1 teaspoonful glycerine. Apply the jelly cream plentifully on rubbing and massage well into the skin, then in the morning wash off and apply a little more. A few such treatments will soon clear the skin of wrinkles, reduce the large pores and give you a velvety complexion.

Clara M.: You can help nature beautify your hair by keeping your scalp perfectly healthy and free from dandruff or itching. Make your own tonic and massage a little into the scalp and hair roots once or twice a week. I use ½ pint of alcohol, to which I add 1 ounce ammonia and ½ pint water. This ammonia tonic soon puts the scalp in a healthy, pliant condition, overcomes dandruff and oiliness and gives to the hair roots the strength necessary to produce a luxuriant growth of long, brilliant hair.

Corra: Objectionable fuzzy or hairy growths are easily banished if you mix enough powdered delatone with water to form a thick paste and apply to hairy surface for 3 or 4 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair is gone. Except in very aggravated cases, one application of delatone is enough. No harm will result, but be certain you get delatone—Ad-

ASSESSORS TO RESIGN

Commissioner Brown today sent a long and abusive communication to the assessors in reply to their answer to his former communication. The concluding paragraph is as follows:

"The principal trouble is that your office has been too confined and has not reached out to discover and assess millions of property but has allowed the greater portion of the burden of city government to fall on the small homeholder and the owner of residential property of small or medium value and has permitted the city to reach a stage where the saving of money must be done at the expense of labor and the cost of needed improvements unless conditions in your office are radically changed."

The Assessors' Reply
In reply the assessors sent a brief communication in which they questioned the honesty of Mr. Brown's motive and hinted he was making a campaign issue of their department and

SPECULATIVE ACTIVITY

AT LOW EBB AT OPENING—PRO-FESSIONAL TRADERS MARKED
TIME—PRICES VARIED

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Speculative activity was at low ebb at the opening of today's market. Outside buying was on a smaller scale than recently and professional traders, with no new developments to give direction to their movements, marked time. Price variations among the active shares were so small that no definite trend was discernible although after the first transaction the list stiffened slightly. The only fluctuations of consequence were among the inactive shares. Gains of one to three points were made by Colorado Fuel, Studebaker, Woolworth and General Motors.

Stocks were in larger supply today and the promptness with which they were distributed on the slight early advance effectively leveled down the list. Shares which had been bid up to afford a cover for selling at other points grew weaker when traders became convinced of the futility of such tactics. Despite the renewal of European buying, easy money, and accumulating evidence of improved business conditions, speculative sentiment was more bearish. This attitude reflected no loss of confidence in fundamental conditions, but was due to the belief of traders that a substantial reaction was due. Although bears made headway in some quarters, pressure was not severe and movements of the active shares were unusually narrow.

Prices were variable in the late session but the main movement of leading stocks was downward. Completion of foreign buying, which amounted to 30,000 shares, weakened the speculative position of the international stocks. Bullish operations continued in some of the specialties but their influence was small. The market closed easy. Liquidation increased the available supply of stocks and declines of a point were made in Reading, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and representative shares. Fractional recoveries occurred in the final dealings.

MELLEN TO BE TRIED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Former New Haven President Declined to Appear Before Public
Service Board—Cannot Leave
Connecticut, He Says

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven road, declined today to appear before the public service commission which is investigating publicity and other expenses of the company in this state on the ground he could not leave Connecticut where he is about to be tried for manslaughter. A letter from Mr. Mellen in which he was acting on the advice of counsel was read at the opening of the hearing. He expressed a willingness, however, to answer written questions.

A reply was also received from T. E. Hyman, former vice president of the company, who is now in the west, in which he stated that he made engagements there for two or three months and could not break them in order to come east at this time.

When the letter from Chairman Elliott of the New Haven declining to release attorneys of the company from their obligations to clients was read Arthur D. Hill, an attorney representing a Boston newspaper, asked the commission to request the directors of the New Haven to reconsider their action on this matter.

In making this request Mr. Hill said there seemed to be a reluctance on the part of many witnesses to tell the truth. Mr. A. Duggan, secretary of the New Haven company, identified all the vouchers supplied by the company at the request of the commission. He said he was authorized to sign the vouchers and to use his own discretion as to whether they were for reasonable amounts. He could not say why some of them were approved by President Mellen and others by Vice President Hyman. Neither could he enlighten the commission regarding the vouchers of J. C. Wardwell and H. M. Knowles for legal services, both of which were approved by President Mellen, but did not go through the regular legal department of the company. Mr. Duggan said he had no knowledge of the services rendered by Mr. Wardwell and Mr. Knowles, both of whom testified at the last hearing.

POMONA GRANGE MEETING

Government Ownership of Railroads Discussed—Sen. Fisher Gave Talk on Currency

"What has caused the depreciation of securities in the railroads of our England? Would government ownership and control be a benefit to stockholders and patrons?" was the topic of discussion at the monthly meeting of the North Middlesex Pomona grange held today in Odd Fellows' building on Bridge street. The meeting was largely attended by grangers who reside in all parts of the county and the program was one of the most interesting ever carried out at a similar session.

As usual the morning session was open to the members only and considerable business of an important nature was transacted after which Robert P. Mardon, master of the Lowell grange, opened the discussion on the above subject. Many of those present expressed their opinion as to whether or not the government should control the railroads and many interesting points were brought forth.

Among those who took an important part in the debate were former Representative Taylor of Westford and Mrs. Etta Spaulding.

After over an hour of talking the members repaired to the banquet hall on the lower floor where a bountiful dinner was served by the following committee of the Chelmsford grange: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Vickery, Mrs. F. J.

Spaulding, Mrs. Catherine Smith, Mrs. R. D. Harris, Mrs. C. A. Dupre, Mrs. W. A. Patten and Mrs. Susan A. Marshall.

The dinner over, a social hour was enjoyed and the afternoon session was called to order. The principal number on the program was a talk on the "Currency Law" by Senator Edward Fisher of Westford. Mr. Fisher discussed the recently passed bill at some length and he was given a great ovation when he concluded. "The Isle of Pines" was the subject taken by Mr. A. Evans of Boston and this was another feature of the day's entertainment. Miss Catherine Greene of Chelmsford gave several readings and the musical part of the program was ably taken care of by the Dillieria grange.

WATER PROBLEM GREATER THAN FINANCIAL PROBLEM

Says Close Student of Water Conditions in Lowell—Assessors Will Not Resign as Requested by Ald. Brown

It was very quiet at city hall today as compared with yesterday when Commissioner Brown and the assessors were exchanging compliments by messenger. And, by the way, the assessors are not going to resign and if the municipal council should, perchance, vote them out of office they would fight out in the courts. It is generally conceded, however, that the possibility of their removal by the municipal council is very remote. At the meeting of the council next Tuesday Mr. Brown will move that the assessors be ousted from office. But who is going to second the motion? The city hall echo answers: "Nobody."

Water Supply Serious Problem
Commissioner James H. Carmichael went to Middleboro today to examine a filtration plant in operation there. The process of filtration is by coarse sand and it has been suggested that perhaps it would be a good system for Lowell to adopt.

A man who knows a whole lot about the water supply was a caller at Com. Carmichael's office this morning, but he did not see the colonel as the latter had left for Middleboro. This man is familiar with the water department since the early days of the old water board and he went over the present situation pretty thoroughly this morning. "The water problem in Lowell," he said, "is a very serious one, much more serious in my estimation than the financial problem. The supply at the boulevard is giving out there is no doubt and I have often wondered that it lasted so long. The ground there is honeycombed after these many years of service and I take it upon myself to say that the water reaching those wells today is not nearly as well filtered as it was a year ago. The water has been beaten back, so to speak, to the wells and despite the fact that new wells were sunk the water continued to remain in the old rut. The quantity and quality of the water at the boulevard does not begin to compare with a few years ago. The constant drag on the wells has been too much for them and this talk about rearing the wells will not amount to very much."

Water Hunt For Use

The number of complaints about poor water growing every month do not get this from the office of the water department but from men and women who have suffered untold annoyance because of the condition of the water. It has been truly stated that the iron and manganese in the boulevard water is not injurious to the human system but they render the water unfit for domestic purposes. It would not surprise me to see a long list of claims against the city because of clothes that have been ruined by the water. "There are people throughout the city who have been exceedingly tolerant in this matter, but the time is fast approaching when patience will cease to be a virtue. I came down here this morning for the purpose of going over the situation with Commissioner Carmichael. I am pretty well acquainted with the situation because I have been interested in the water department, the modes of operation of it, since the old water board days and there's but one man in Lowell that I will take me to when it comes to a discussion of the water question and that man is Supt. Robert Thomas. I think there isn't a man in the country better versed on the water problem than Mr. Thomas and there is ample opportunity for him to exercise his talents along that line at the present time."

"I know that he is making a careful study of the situation for he has talked with him about it and he agrees with me that the present situation is quite a serious one. Mr. Thomas is not an alarmist, but he cannot get behind the fact that the water supply is Lowell's most serious problem today."

The Cook Well Supply
"The Cook wells are fairly productive. They have a capacity of somewhere in the vicinity of 4,000,000 gallons a day. I think that the daily consumption in Lowell is about 6,000,000 gallons. The Cook wells have been given a very severe test within the last year. The boulevard wells ran down and there was nothing left but to call upon the Cook wells. They were kept in operation longer than the time specified in the recommendation of the state board of health, and let us hope that no great harm will result."

"A few years ago there were several cases where persons had been poisoned by lead-lead poisoning cases—and the trouble, it was stated at that time, was traced to the Cook wells. The state board of health conducted an investigation and found a carbonic acid gas in the water that had such an effect on lead as to render the water dangerous when conveyed through lead pipes, providing the wells should be kept in operation for any considerable length of time. I think the state board stated that the wells ought not to be kept in operation for more than five or six weeks at a time. The water department, however, has discovered a way to eliminate the carbonic acid gas. It can be done by aeration filtration, but that doesn't increase the supply."

Meadowbrook Valley Wells

"The water department ought not to lose any time in sinking more wells along Hale's brook or in Meadowbrook valley. I read in The Sun the other day that Commissioner Carmichael had taken that matter up and I want to say now that a great deal depends upon the success of those wells. If they should prove as productive as the city wells the city would be safe for another few years, and if they don't yield abundantly the city will have to do something else and that something else will cost a barrel of money. There were people who thought that Commissioner Barrett was indulging in vocal extravaganzas when he talked about the necessity of installing a half-million dollar filtration plant, but unless the proposed wells in Meadowbrook valley produce as generously as the Cook wells the city will be up against it. The city's financial problem does not amount to a hill of beans as compared with the water problem."

The Initiative Papers

There has been a deal of discussion relative to the action of the municipal council in ignoring the petitioners on the initiative papers having to do with the purchase of the Pillsbury estate by referring the matter to the next annual city election. Com. Brown believes the matter should have been referred to the city select.

Numbers of the state board of health are coming here tomorrow to look over hospital sites with the municipal council. The council will meet again next Tuesday and the city clerk, it is expected, will bring in the supplementary papers to the initiative containing names enough to make up the required number and then what action will the council take? Com. Brown believes that unless the city council intends to build two hospitals it ought to rescind its action of last Tuesday and let the matter go to the voters by special election. He says the city cannot very well afford to rest on its laurels in the hospital matter until the next city election after the court having issued a mandamus to compel the city to build a hospital, and if the council should vote to select a site and build a hospital the question of the purchase of the Pillsbury estate would go on the ballot at the annual election just the same, and the city might then find itself in the position of having two contagious hospitals on its hands.

Chelle Morse Talks

Commissioner Charles Morse calls attention to the fact that although a hasty perusal of the figures of the expenses for 1913 and estimates for 1914 would make it appear that he had asked for more money than was expended last year, such is not the case. "I will not get within $50,000 of the amount expended last year," said Charlie, "and I want to state that I whitened my estimate right down to hard pan. I went over it several times, taking a little off each time and if the council ever shave it any closer the council is welcome."

My estimate looks bigger than the expenses for 1913 because of the fact that I had to include over $40,000 that was borrowed last year and did not appear in the estimate. This year I ask for $20,000 for traveling streets and taking care of the snow and $20,000 for oiling streets. Both of these amounts were borrowed last year, but this year, under the new law, we cannot borrow for purposes of this kind. I want to say that it doesn't make any difference what appropriation they hand me, I will live within it."

Commissioner Morse let another foreman go last Monday morning and he says he is going to get rid of another one. James McVey was the man let down by Mr. Morse, Monday, and Mr. Morse stated positively today that he would not have more than eight foremen in the department. "There isn't any call for 14 foremen in the street department," said Charlie, "and I can save some money by letting six of them go."

Would-be Chauffeurs

Six applicants for chauffeurs' licenses took the examination at city hall this forenoon. These examinations are conducted every week under the auspices of the state highway commission. The examiner today was Mr. Olsen.

Shoe Machinery Case
GOVERNMENT RESTED TODAY IN TRIAL FOR VIOLATION OF ANTI-TRUST LAW
BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The government rested today in the trial of the United Shoe Machinery Co. for violation of the Sherman anti-trust act with the exception of patent questions involved, which are being heard by a special examiner.

The announcement was made after several witnesses had been examined and exhibits produced attacking the purchase by the United company of the patents owned by Thomas G. Plant. The government introduced evidence to show that by the returns of the corporation the value of the patents held before the plant purchase was $100,000, while the value acknowledged was $5,000,000 paid to Mr. Plant the returns made after the purchase showed no increase in patent values.

To show the value of the plant patents, Frank A. Brackett testified that one of them was used by the Boylston Manufacturing Co. at Fitchburg, when the Boylston company was purchased by the United company. This patent was on a device for holding the welt in making welt shoes and was regarded as an economical improvement.

GIRL DIES WITH ARMS AROUND MAN'S NECK

Bodies of Young Couple Found in
Auto at Ligonier, Pennsylvania,
Today—Each Had Been Shot
Through the Heart

GREENSBORO, Pa., Feb. 6.—Sitting upright, the bodies of John McFadden, aged 20, and Miss Anna Lutz, were found in an automobile two miles east of Ligonier, Westmoreland county, early today. The girl's arms were around McFadden's neck.

Each had been shot through the heart.

Love for two 16-year-old girls, the authorities learned, neither of whom knew of the other's existence, prompted McFadden to settle matters definitely.

In McFadden's pocket was a note saying that Bertha Milligan at Ligonier, Pa., could tell the cause of the tragedy. To Coroner McMurray, the girl said McFadden had written her a letter yesterday telling her he was going to kill "the other girl" and himself.

McFadden took Miss Lutz for a ride last night in an auto owned by the garage for which he worked. A short time afterward he telephoned to his employer that he would never see him again and bade him "Good-bye." Automobiles were sent hurrying over the mountains to find the young man. When the searchers came upon the lone automobile its engines were still throbbing but the man and girl were dead.

SUDDEN DEATH OF WOMAN

Fell to Floor in Woolworth's Store—Ambulance Called But Woman Was Dead

An elderly woman, who up to the time of going to press had not been identified, died suddenly today about 5.30 o'clock while shopping in the five and ten cent store of E. W. Woolworth on Merrimack street. The ambulance was called but before it arrived at the hospital it was discovered that the woman was dead and the body was removed to the undertaking parlors of C. H. Molloy & Sons on Market street. It is believed that the cause of death was heart trouble.

The woman was about five feet two inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds. She wore a black suit and had 65 cents tied up in a white handkerchief. Her age is said to be about 70 years.

According to the story, the woman entered the store about 5.30 o'clock and went immediately to the rear part of the store, where she was seen to fall to the floor by several of the clerks. The ambulance was summoned but the woman either died in the store or on the way to the hospital.

FIRE DAMAGED WIRE FACTORY

Stubborn Blaze in Plant
of Rice & Co. in Mt.
Vernon St.

Quick Work Prevented
Spread of Fire—Loss
Estimated at $10,000

A fire, the origin of which is not known, broke out in the factory of Rice & Co. on Mt. Vernon street, near Broadway, shortly after 4 o'clock last night and considerable damage was done to the building and machinery, the latter used for the purpose of manufacturing wire. It was stated last evening that the loss would be about $10,000.

The blaze was discovered by Patrolman Deering, who noticed smoke coming from the building, while covering his beat. He rushed to the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Broadway and rung in an alarm from box 16.

When the apparatus arrived the interior of the rear part of the building was blazing furiously and at one time it was feared that the burning works of Whitman & Frost were in danger. After about a half hour of hard work the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze although they were handicapped by the columns of smoke caused by the burning of wires and machinery.

It is believed that the fire started in a section of the mill which has not been used for some time. The plant closed at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and there was no one employed at the building when the fire started.

The largest loss will be on machinery and wire stock although a part of the building was badly wrecked. The building is owned by Frank H. Haynes and George D. Hawley.

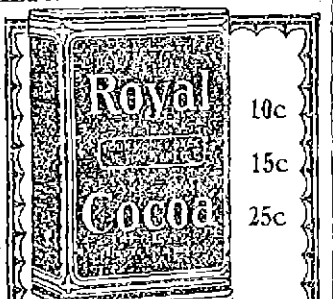

OWLS HELD BIG MEETING

LARGE CLASS INITIATED—LOWELL
LARGEST NEST IN NEW ENGLAND—LITTER FROM PRIS.

The hall was well filled last night at the business meeting of Lowell Owl No. 1254. Order of Owls. In the absence of President John E. MacCallum, Vice President Richard J. Flynn presided.

The two membership teams headed by Vice MacCallum and Vice President Flynn respectively are showing great enthusiasm and a long list of names of candidates for membership was presented which kept the secretary very busy for some time. The honors for the two teams are pretty evenly divided. At the close of the team committee's reports, a large class of candidates was initiated.

The Lowell Owl of Owls has now the largest membership of any nest in New England. A letter from Supreme President John W. Talbot commending the officer of the Lowell Nest, was

PECULIAR AFTER EFFECTS OF GRIP THIS YEAR

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened
Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kibner's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being a natural compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kibner & Co., Hingham, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles, 75c and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

read by the secretary, and the reading of this letter induced great enthusiasm among the members. The "beats" were long and loud at the sentiment expressed by the "big owl" on the "great peak" in the supreme nest.

The sick and relief committee reported very little sickness among the members at present, but Vice President J. J. Flynn reported the deaths since the last meeting of Mrs. Louise M. MacCallum, wife of worthy President John E. MacCallum and brother John Nicholson.

Last President E. M. Powers paid a most tender and eloquent tribute to the recently late wife and read with much feeling a memorial dedicated to her memory which was adopted as the sentiment of the nest and will be carried upon a memorial page of the nest's records, and another address was read in English, French and German to the family of the deceased.

Many of the officers and members spoke under good and willare. A resolution was given the new members just initiated and the meeting adjourned after a fairly gathering such a fairer and spirit was shown all through it.

STORE ENTERED

Robbed by Thief

The variety store of Peter Coury in Liberty Square was broken into early yesterday morning and the contents of the cash register and a quantity of cigars taken. The owner of the store asserts that there was somewhere in the neighborhood of $25 in the cash register when he left the night before.

The manner of entrance is supposed to have been through one of the large windows in the front of the store. A thief had broken out some of the glass on the day previous and the window was boarded up to keep out the cold. When Mr. Coury arrived at his store yesterday morning he discovered the robbery, the glass removed from the window, the boards pulled off, and his cash and cigars missing. The matter was reported to the police.

TAX MEN WHO DRINK

DRINK COSTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—"I believe that every time a man takes a drink he ought to pay his wife twice as much as he spends for the drink."

So said Magistrate Preschi to night court when he sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse Frank Conway, a waiter, whom he had already characterized as "the most despicable man I ever knew."

Conway, out of work, was arrested for drunkenness last Sunday, and that night was arraigned before Magistrate Preschi. Before he was found guilty he developed in court that he had failed to support his young wife and baby.

A policeman who went to notify her of her husband's arrest arrived in time to prevent Mrs. Conway from committing suicide by plunging off the fire escape of her flat at 247 East 15th street, from which the family had just been dispossessed. She was removed to the house of detention. Her baby, suffering from privation and scurvy fever, was taken to the Willard Parker hospital.

Conway, who came up for sentence, told the court it was nobody's business how much he drank, and Magistrate Preschi said:

"Omar Khayyam has sung his praise of wine for the man who had no one dependent upon him. But for the man like yourself who has a family there is no falling back on the plea of personal liberty."

"You have boasted of your right to drink, but let me say that what may be right for the man who is not married may be a social crime for a man who has taken upon himself the responsibility of married life."

"A man who ruins the children's drink habits, ruins his wife's life and ruins his own. I believe that every time a man takes a drink he ought to pay his wife twice as much as he spends for drink."

"Men who do not drink are made to pay for the support of the children of those who do drink to excess."

"If you would live to be more than 50 years old, don't smoke cigarets. Don't make chimneys out of your mouths. Statistics show that the average life of the cigaret smoker is 30 years."

Mrs. William Stokely of 35 Clinton street, stylishly dressed, brought her 15-year-old son to court. When he left order's famous silver anti-cigarette treatment. It was the fourth weekly "anti-cigarette clinic."

Anti-vice laws from New York and other nearby cities were there to see how it is done. The doorway was a sea of faces. The only reason to S. G. O. sign was long, because they don't use S. G. O. signs in court rooms.

Though the clinic's purpose was to treat boys and girls going wrong, half the last night were grown-ups. More might have been treated, but the two doctors, chemist and perspiration, used the first day of their one-fourth of one per cent. mixture of silver solution, and announced they were through.

The gallant 150 were still handling their throats and ducking their tongues when Mrs. Johnnie Helen Millman, superintendent of the New York Anti-Cigarette League, made a speech. "Those who had imagined all codfish food was contained in codfish, nearly fell over when they learned from medical inspectors in the Hoboken schools, had sent elbow room as they worked at silver plating 150 human throats. That's the number of men and boys who appeared to take these

"REIGN OF TERROR" OVER

Yeggman Who Terrorized Jamaica Plain, When Two Were Killed, Died in London

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The last chapter in the story of the "reign of terror" of July 21 and 22, 1908, in the Jamaica Plain district, when two men were killed and more than a score seriously injured, is contained in the report of Inspector Thomas H. Lynch of police headquarters, filed yesterday in the office of Dist. Atty. Pelletier. The story is ended, because all the criminals are dead.

The real end, as the inspector's report shows, came more than three years ago, for two of the three criminals who escaped from the local police had part in the Houndsditch jewelry robbery in London in December, 1910. One was shot and mortally wounded by one of his companions at the time, and the other was destroyed in the building in which he and other anarchists stood off the police until it was burned.

Not until a few months ago, however, did the Boston police find the trail that led to London, and last November Inspector Lynch was sent to England by Dist. Atty. Pelletier and Chief Inspector McGarr.

Swars and Mourrville

With the help of the Scotland Yard authorities he found what he wanted to know. He established the identity of the two criminals, learned of their deaths and brought back their pictures. He sailed from here Nov. 8, and when, Dec. 11, he returned, he had virtually everything.

Since that time, however, he and Inspector Egan, who took an active part in the investigation of the Forest Hills shootings, have been conducting a supplementary investigation which corroborated all that he learned in London.

The third yeggman, found dead, killed with bullets in Forest Hills, was identified at the time as Edmund Guttman, a left who had been employed in the gypsy motif service. The identity of his companions, however, was a mystery to the police, though a false clue led them after the Claude brothers.

It is now known they were Fritz Swars and Pauline Mourrville, both Letts and anarchists of the most desperate type, criminals with a long record of deaths to their reckoning. Both had many aliases.

Stew Companion in Order to Escape

In London the inspector learned that Guttman was not killed in the Forest Hills shooting, as had been supposed, but by Mourrville before he and Swars fled, the reason being that the older man, with poor feet and a weak heart, confessed himself unable to keep their pace. Mourrville feared he might be captured and might confess and would take no chances.

It was the night of 11 o'clock on the night of July 21, 1908, that the three yeggmen entered the saloon of Winter-son & McManus at 3171 Washington street, Jamaica Plain, and began to shoot, instantly killing Frank J. Drake and wounding others.

They got the small, however, and retreated toward Forest Hills cemetery, where they hid that night and the next day. Venturing out at dusk to forage, they were pointed out, and a running fight followed in which they shot nearly a score of persons. Herbert W. Knox, the watchman, trying to keep them from entering the cemetery, was killed—the London account is by Swars.

That night the police and armed citizens surrounded the cemetery and in the morning entered it and charged the yeggmen. Only Guttman was found, however, and he was dead; the other two had escaped and were not seen again.

Lynch Sent on Tip From Letts Here

The police investigation of the case, begun then, had never really stopped, but the police were long misled by supposing that Guttman's companions had been engaged, like him, as gypsy motif workers.

Last November, however, the police learned of gossip current among the Letts that the two men were or had been in London, and it was decided to send Inspector Lynch there.

Before that time, indeed, Inspector Lynch knew that Swars and Mourrville had come here from Philadelphia in July, 1908, and that with Guttman they lodged at the home of Mrs. Abigail C. Cedar Grove terrace, Roxbury. Two days before the shooting, however, the three disappeared from their lodgings.

Swars, as the inspector learned after his return, had been here frequently before that time and was well known among the Letts of Greater Boston. Less was known of Mourrville, and though many recognized Swars, when shown the photograph brought from England, few professed to recall Mourrville, and only when documentary proof was exhibited, were they satisfied that he was the other man.

Scotland Yard's Help

Inspector Lynch was given all courtesies in London and Scotland Yard secretary at the American Embassy, introduced him to Supr. John McGarr, and Supr. Patrick Quinn of Scotland Yard. Detective McNamara was assigned to assist him, and he also received assistance from Supr. John O'Grady, John Wells and Ernest Tupe of the London city police.

Within a fortnight they obtained information that satisfied the inspector beyond a doubt that Mourrville and Swars were Guttman's companions, for the papers in the Houndsditch case showed that both men had boasted before it of the saloon and cemetery murders in America.

After the death of Swars in the Sydney street "battle" one of the women with whom he and his companions had been associating talked freely and told the police as much of Swars' and Mourrville's stories as she knew. She could not tell the London police where the boasted American murders had been done, but there were enough details to make the inspector sure they were the men.

Painters Union

Observed Fourteenth Anniversary by Banquet Last Night

With a very fitting program the fourteenth anniversary of Painters' union, local 25, was observed in its hall in the building last evening. A large number of painters and guests were present and from the time the gathering was called to order until after 11 o'clock there was something going on of great interest to all present.

One of the features was the speaking of James A. Millay of Worcester and Michael A. Lee, business agent of the local Carpenters' union. During the evening a palatable collation was served and music was furnished by well known local talent. The music was good and when the musicians played the popular airs they were assisted by the entire assembly, who joined in and sang so that the hall resounded with the melody of voices.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Charles O. Dane, president of the local organization, and after a few remarks of welcome he spoke upon the ups and downs of the union during the past few years and urged the men to stay together and the work that is being done at the present day will be continued.

A pleasing piano solo was given by Frank Mills after which Michael A. Lee was called upon. Mr. Lee said in part: "To the older members of this organization on the occasion of this kind means a great deal more than to the young. The men who were initiated during the past year do not know what a real organization is. They do not realize what the old members sacrificed in order to bring the local to the front so that the painters could get a decent day's pay for a decent day's work."

"If you painters should have trouble the one thing for you to do is to get together, take the advice of the older men and fight the battle shoulder to shoulder. If you do this in another year when you gather here you will be a great deal stronger than at the present time."

A three-round boxing match between Eddie Cox and his partner entertained the members for several minutes. John Farrell displayed his ability as a singer. Songs were given by the Spanish City quartet and the Lindsay brothers and all were greeted with long and loud applause.

James A. Millay of Worcester was introduced by Chairman Dane and spoke at some length on the work of the painters throughout the state. He said in part: "In this age of progress the modern shop demands profit from every man that works. When he cannot deliver what the boss believes to be a day's work he is cast aside and one of the duties for the painter is to be able to sell his product. The painter is to be able to sell his product and work with his fellow men. The man who stays outside makes the task much harder for the 'union man'."

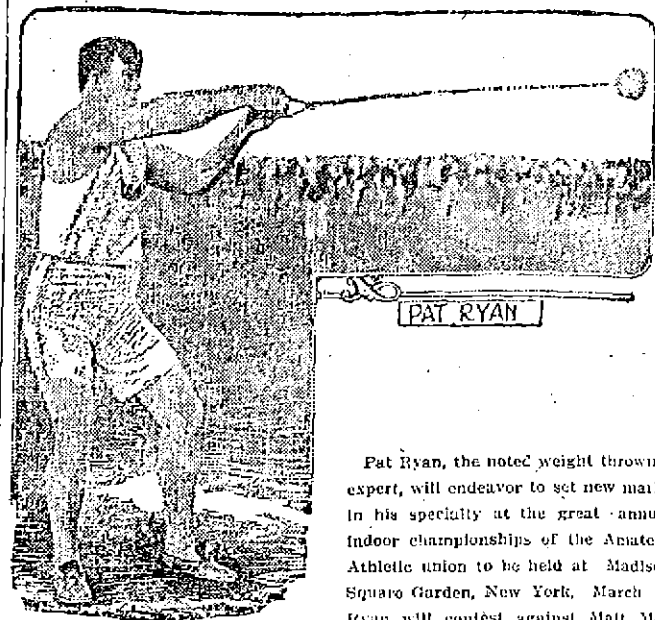

Vocal selections were furnished by Bert Blah, Thomas Traversy and others and the gathering was declared one of the most successful ever conducted by the painters of Lowell.

BUICK CARS

The attractive show rooms of the Lowell Buick company present the appearance of a miniature auto show in themselves. For the last two days Mr. E. H. Emerson, the manager, has been very busy displaying the latest models to enthusiastic audiences. The show rooms are open evenings, and Mr. Emerson expects an overflow of interested spectators at the closing of the show tomorrow night. The public is cordially invited to attend and many have taken advantage of this courtesy of the management.

The show thus far marks the third annual display by this progressive firm.

REPORTER KILLED

Geo. A. Broderick of Boston Post Victim of Ptomaine Poisoning

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—George A. Broderick of Cambridge who for the past five years has been connected with the editorial department of the Boston Post, died at the Carney hospital yesterday noon after a week's illness caused by ptomaine poisoning and pleurisy. Broderick began newspaper work in 1903 while a student at the Harvard Medical school. When, after two years, he was obliged to give up his preparation for the medical profession because of ill health, he naturally turned to newspaper work. He joined the regular staff of one of the Boston dailies.

His thoroughness and pleasing personality soon won him recognition and advancement. More than five years ago he became the representative of the Boston Post in Cambridge and the Middlesex superior courts at East Cambridge. He was extremely popular there and was a personal friend of nearly every one in the various court buildings where he spent most of his time.

90 PERCENT OF BILLS BAD

MEASURES BEFORE LEGISLATURE VICIOUS, SAYS ATWOOD—TOO MANY ATTACK BIG BUSINESS

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—That 90 per cent of the bills before the Massachusetts legislature are vicious and uncalled for; that ministers and others are too much inclined to attack "big business," and that the pulp has failed to appreciate the creed of Christ for the 20th century were some of the points made by Harry P. Atwood yesterday in his address at the assembly luncheon of the Boston chamber of commerce at the American house yesterday afternoon.

The speaker, who is field secretary of the chamber of commerce of the United States, spoke on Abraham Lincoln, comparing the duties of the married president to his generation with the duties of the chambers of commerce to the present generation.

He denounced the alleged attacks of the clergy and political and class demagogues upon the work of the commercial organizations, saying that they played with fables and follies. He asserted that 90 per cent of the 2000 bills before the present Massachusetts legislature would be injurious to the commonwealth and he criticized the city of Boston for allowing the continuance of its election day at a season when nothing but the worst possible weather could be expected.

"The chambers of commerce are doing a great work," said the speaker. "Before Lincoln's time the problems of this nation had to face were those of freedom and religion. Today the problems are of commerce, of civic reform and big business. It is high time that our work was appreciated. We have heard enough of the denunciations from the pulpit. The pulpits fail to appreciate the creed of Christ for the 20th century and they go out of their way to attack men whose contributions make possible the maintenance of the church."

"And we have had enough of those demagogues who stand around on street corners for a handout and then go and preach class distinction. It is high time, too, that the men in political life ceased to hurl epithets and abuse at their rivals at times when a eulogy is merited. There is too much hard work to do without playing with fables and follies."

In concluding his talk of the ability of the chamber of commerce to secure information and expert opinion, and declared that, unlike the age of Lincoln, when citizens were called upon to die for their country, the citizens of this age were asked to live for their country.

TEXT BY NAVAL OFFICERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The latest way to meet the physical test imposed on naval officials is to walk ten miles on the promenade deck of a steamer while she is drumming out the miles between Liverpool and New York. This method was discovered by Captain George Cooper, U. S. N., chief of hydrographic office. Captain Cooper was a delegate to the recent international conference on safety of life at sea at London and returned to the United States on the Olympic. He walked around her deck more than 11 times on sunny afternoons.

RESTRICT FORWARD PASS

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES PROPOSED BY DELEGATES AT MEETING IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Changes in the rules to restrict the forward pass which last season was used so successfully by the smaller college teams, many times spelling defeat for larger rivals, were proposed today by delegates to the meeting of the intercollegiate football rules committee. Several plans were suggested to make the play harder of execution by making it obligatory on the part of the thrower to pass the ball without delay after receiving it back of the line. As the rule now stands the thrower may delay delivery of the ball as long as he likes and may run to any part of the field before making the throw. The long looked for innovation of numbering the players had many backers at today's meeting. Walter Camp of Yale; Parke Davis of Princeton; Head Coach George Brooke of Pennsylvania and many other prominent football men favor this move, urging it is a great aid to the spectators in following and identifying players in the field.

TREATMENT OF CANCER

SEC. LANE SEES IN DEATH OF CONG. BRENNER NECESSITY OF EARLY TREATMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Secretary Lane of the department of interior sees in the death yesterday of Rep. Robert G. Brenner of New Jersey, a plea for the treatment of cancer in its early stages and an increased supply of radium as an aid in the fight against the disease.

In an official statement today Secretary Lane, who has strongly advocated legislation for the conservation of the nation's radium, said: "The surgeons in charge of the Baltimore hospital were reluctant to use the radium treatment in Mr. Brenner's case because, as they said, the one great danger was that they could bring together in the United States for use in his case would be entirely inadequate for attacking with any hope of success the giant cancerous growth which was sapping the life of the young member of congress."

Athletes and Athletics

Joe Egan gave a great come back performance last night in his bout at the Lawrence club with Young Jasper. Jasper never had a chance from the opening round for Egan's left hand was always in the way when he tried to get in at close quarters. Egan is not very tall, he is covering the boards in fine style in the short dash and should make a valuable asset to the welterweight division.

The Harvard-Yale hockey game tonight will take on the aspect of a big intercollegiate sport. The cheering sections of both teams will be in evidence and the arena will be taxed to its capacity by the crowd which will pour into the bleachers. The Harvard cheering section will consist of freshmen graduates. The Crimson is picked to win.

George Tyler is still sitting tight and perhaps the Boston Braves will learn that they made a grave mistake when they tried to get rid of him by signing a contract by utilizing a couple of press agents. The ex-Lowell pitcher is saying not a word but you may take it from us that he is doing a lot of talking at least.

There are several local basketball teams which are claiming the city championship in the sport. Why wouldn't it be a good idea, boys, to get together and arrange a series of elimination contests so that the public would not be obliged to base their judgment of the best team on hearsay evidence?

Sunday baseball and legalized boxing seem to be on about the same footing among the satellites of the state house. Although the boxing law will probably be defeated it is a fact that some of the legislators who will cast their vote against it would not think of missing a good bout anywhere in their vicinity.

Reports from the world touring Glanville White Sox seem to indicate that the exchequer, although not greatly fattened thus far, is not being drained. The baseball teams will arrive at Naples tomorrow and will receive a big ovation at the hands of the Neapolitans.

The Federals are now making big inroads into the ranks of some of the AA teams. Many signatures have been received from players who are too quick fast enough to climb into the big show. Carlstrom, the star infielder of the Lawrence team for the past two years is one of the players who cast his lot with the new league.

An interesting contest was rolled off in the manufacturers' league when the J. P. S. team and the U. S. Bunting gambled out. The Buntings were returned the winners by the score of 1285 to 1320. Lane of the winning team was high man with a total of 224.

In the Y. M. C. I. last evening the Bowlers' aggregation found no difficulty in taking the Stock into camp by the score of 1371 to 1368. Greenough's total of 305 was high, while his single of 123 was also high.

The Bohemians defeated the Orecons last night in the Minor league by the score of 1363 to 1338. The Orecons had their opponents in the last string was rolled. Thorner of the losers was high man with a total pinfall of 313.

BOGUS PAINTER IS FINED

Got Into House to Show His Paint
—Man Loses $9 by Stealing $16
—Four Months For Larceny

On the 15th of January, 1913, James J. McDonald, armed with a pot of paint, called at the residence of Mrs. Sarah W. Bradford, 592 School street, and asked if he could not apply a new coating to the door of the house. The request was granted and then McDonald further asked that he might retouch the furniture, saying that it would cost nothing as the job would be an advertisement for the people he was working for.

Mrs. Bradford left her pocketbook in the room where the man was working, and, after he had been on the job a few minutes she went out and opened it only to find that the $15 she left there was gone. McDonald was accused of taking it but denied any knowledge of it and left soon afterwards. He was arrested Wednesday charged with the theft, and his case was heard before Judge Enright this morning.

A lady who was in the house at the time McDonald called testified to the circumstances as above set forth, as did also the complainant. Lawyer O'Connor, who appeared for the defendant, attempted to shake their testimony by proving that it was a case of mistaken identity, but both ladies were very positive that the defendant was the man who called at the complainant's house.

McDonald has been working this game for the past two years in various New England cities and has served numerous sentences for larceny. He stated that he was not in Lowell at the time the larceny was committed but admitted his record without question. Judge Enright found the defendant guilty and sent him to jail for a three months' term.

Four Months to Jail
Thomas J. Donahue was found guilty of larceny on two accounts this morning. He was accused of stealing a robe from the store of Frank S. Bean and a coat from Frank J. Jones, and Judge Enright sentenced him to jail for four months on each charge.

ARTHUR L. ENO

of St. Joseph's College Alumni

The members of the executive committee of St. Joseph's college alumni and a few invited guests gathered at the home of the Marist Brothers in Moody street last night to congratulate one of their colleagues, Arthur L. Eno of the Fred C. Church Co., who recently passed successfully the Massachusetts bar examinations. The affair was given by Rev. Don Bernardin, principal of the college, and a pleasant evening was spent.

Shortly after 8 o'clock President W. P. Galt, Jr., called the gathering to order and in behalf of the alumni complimented Mr. Eno on his recent success achieved in passing the examinations. He spoke of his zealous efforts as one of the organizers of the alumni association and of the many good wishes, saying he hoped Mr. Eno would become a successful lawyer and that his career as a professional man would be bright and happy.

Rev. Don Bernardin also spoke briefly, commending his friend on his remarkable success and referred to the honor bestowed upon the alumni by the event. Several other guests spoke along the same lines and congratulations followed. A dainty luncheon was served and musical numbers were rendered by Edmond S. Desmarais, W. P. Galt, Jr., Arthur Giron, J. B. Richard, E. J. Laroche and several Marist brothers.

In the latter part of the evening a business meeting was held, in the course of which several important questions were discussed. The president announced that the distribution of parts for the drama, "Le Comptable," and the comedy would be made in the early part of next week and that the entertainment would be held at Easter for the benefit of the reconstruction of St. Jean Baptiste church.

Rev. Don Bernardin, J. B. Richard and Arthur Lamoureux were elected auditors, while E. S. Desmarais and E. J. Laroche were chosen as a special finance committee. Among those present at the gathering were Rev. Don Bernardin, Rev. Bro. Victorin, Rev. Bro. Constantine, Rev. Bro. Joseph, Rev. Bro. Galt, Rev. Bro. Eno, (Square Tower), Arthur Lamoureux, Arthur Giron, J. B. Richard, Eugene Huard, E. S. Desmarais and Wilmer Dragon.

THE MYSTIC NOBLES
Meet and Decide to Leave Lowell at 10:20 Sunday For Providence, R. I.

Lowell caravan, Mystic Nobles of Grandin, held an enthusiastic meeting last evening, the primary object being the arrangements for the trip to Providence, R. I., next Sunday, where a monster initiation and banquet of members of the order in New England will take place. It was evident at the meeting that a very large number of members intend to participate in the affair at Providence, R. I., and Grand Monarch Walter B. Dickey stated that he had received assurances from others who were unable to attend the meeting that they would be on hand Sunday.

It was decided that the members of Lowell caravan would leave Lowell on the 10:20 train for Boston arriving at the North station at 11:15. The special for Providence leaves the South station at 12:45 o'clock. Treasurer John P. Connors, secretary of the Lowell Trust Co., is in charge of the 1914 cards for the members, and he and Grand Monarch Dickey are in charge of the details of the trip.

37,280,000 GO TO CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES

Religious Census Shows That Roman Catholics Lead With 13,099,534 Members—Methodists Second With 7,125,069—Other Statistics

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The actual enrollment membership of Christian churches within continental United States showed a net increase of 618,600, or 1.5 per cent, during 1913 according to statistics just made public by the Washington office of the federal council of churches of Christ in America. The Methodist church led in the increased membership with 220,000. The other churches in their order of increases follow:

Baptist, 64,600; Presbyterian, 15,600; Lutheran, 26,100; Disciples, 21,800; and Episcopal, 15,600.

The actual membership of the largest churches in the United States are given as follows:

ROMAN CATHOLIC 13,099,534

METHODIST 7,125,069

BAPTIST 5,924,622

LUTHERAN 2,610,723

PRESBYTERIAN 2,027,523

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST 2,180,769

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL 1,560,723

CONGREGATIONAL 745,340

These eight churches contain 34,900,000 of the 37,280,000 of actual church membership within the United States.

Branch St. Louis, A. C. F. J. N. Jacques, council, U. S. J. E. A. and the Centralville Social club, appointed delegates to confer with the pastor as to the best means of raising funds and the result of the meeting was that each society has appointed a committee of five members and a grand festival was organized and the affair will be held at the parochial school hall Feb. 23-24.

A group of young men and women of the parish under the direction of Rev. E. J. Comeau have also arranged to do their share of the work and accordingly on Feb. 15-17 they will present a three-act drama from the pen of L. O. David, entitled "Le Drapeau de Carillon". Among those who will take part in this play are the following well known amateurs: Misses Marie S. Mallet, Elizabeth and Rosalie Lacroix, Messrs. Edmond Desrosiers, Leo G. Martin, Arville Brunelle, Marie Michaud, Eugene Favreux, Virgil Levy and others. Several contests have also been organized among the younger element and it is the hope of all concerned that work on the construction of the new church, the plans of which were prepared under the direction of the lamented pastor, Rev. J. N. Jacques, will be started before the fall.

The plans call for a magnificent granite or brick edifice, which will be erected on a vacant tract of land situated between the present wooden temple and the parochial school, and if plans are carried out as prepared the edifice will be one of the prettiest in this part of the state. It may be also that a school building for the children of the parish will be erected before many years, for the present parochial school is filled to its utmost and some of the children of the parish were refused admittance on account of lack of room.

IMMENSE INCOME TIED UP

Alberto Terrazas, Wealthy Mexican, Compelled to Seek Means of Livelihood

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 6.—His immense income tied up by three years of revolutions, Alberto Terrazas of the family whose name in Mexico is a synonym for great wealth, has been compelled to seek a means of livelihood.

This became known here today with the departure of Terrazas for Pasadena, Cal. He was accompanied by his family but not the usual retinue of servants.

His Pasadena, Terrazas expects to buy or lease a small farm where he can make a modest living. "He is one of those who sees no prospect of peace in his native land and until tranquility is restored, the income of the family fortune, estimated at from $35,000,000 to $100,000,000 will be tied up. Even in the event of peace it may be lost, for rebels have declared it confiscated."

"I do not mind going back to work; it may be a good thing," he said to friends before his departure and then smiled at his own remark, for his prodigality with money has been shown in London and Paris, in Mexico, Texas, California and New York, and in Chihuahua.

Terrazas once was governor of the state of Chihuahua. He learned much of farming and the breeding of cattle on his own ranches and his friends say he will want an income from the soil.

Beginning with the revolt of Francisco Madero more than three years ago, the soldiers of northern Mexico on either side of that and the succeeding revolutions have practically lived on the Terrazas fortune. Immense sums were contributed by the family to favorite causes or were extorted by the enemy.

A recent instance was the million dollar ransom demanded for the release of Luis Terrazas, Jr. He was incarcerated in the municipal palace at Chihuahua but declined to contribute until he was taken out, beaten with the flat of a sword and a wound placed around his neck and urgently lightened.

In this predicament he contributed $500,000 all the ready money at his command.

He was then permitted to join his family and is still there. The additional ransom now demanded is $250,000 but it is believed that General Villa purposes to hold him as a hostage to prevent the other members of the family from financing a new revolt in the north to harness the rebel rear on its march to Torreon.

In the early days of armed disorder in Mexico, those of the Terrazas family who came to the United States traveled in regal state and at hotels entire floors were reserved for the party. Now that their fortune has shrunk a few rooms is all they can secure.

ELLIOTT DEPLORES PLAN
CHAIRMAN, SAYS THAT NEW HAVEN DISSOLUTION MEANS HALTING OF PROGRESS

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 6.—Doubt as to the wisdom of demands of the department of justice in reference to the New Haven and Hartford railroad was expressed last night by Howard Elliott, chairman of that road's board of directors, in addressing the Western New England chamber of commerce. "Whether these demands are all for the best interest of New England remains to be seen, and there is some danger that an extreme and ultra technical view of the Sherman law may not be economically wise," he said.

"The demand for a breaching up of the New England system into several parts may have grown up because of a lack of sufficient organization to supervise all details closely and give prompt and adequate service to the public, rather than because of any real objection to the idea of a comprehensive system."

"Cities are finding that one telephone system and one street car system are better than two or three if they are properly organized and managed, and that the service rendered the public is apt to be better. Elimination of waste, efficiency, the avoidance of duplication of facilities are perhaps just as important as competition, now that the government can and does regulate and control rates and many features of management."

"However, the New Haven, in response to an insistent demand from some of the people and of some of their representatives, has yielded because it did not seem possible to settle down to a basis of constructive work so long as the agitation continued."

"The separation means a halting of progress and a checking of development while it is going on, but the New Haven is trying to do all it can to make the policy insisted upon by the government a success and hopes that it will be."

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS O'BRIEN

Mr. O'Brien thanked his friends for their token of esteem and a pleasant evening was followed.

A dainty luncheon was served and a varied musical program was rendered, those taking part being Telephone Trudel, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Emma O'Brien, Rose Canon, Mrs. Philomena Trudel, Louis Plourde, Florence O'Brien and many others. The party broke up at a seasonable hour, those present extending their best wishes of long life and happiness to their hosts.

PROTEST R. R. BREAKUP
LOS ANGELES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AGAINST PROPOSAL TO EXCHANGE ROADS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 6.—Protest of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce against the proposal of the federal department of justice to merge the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific railroads will be presented next Tuesday to Attorney General McCreary at a hearing.

The recommendations framed by the transportation committee of the chamber of commerce were endorsed by the directors of the body yesterday and forwarded to Arthur W. Kinney, its president, who is in Washington. It is the sense of the recommendations that a separation would work a retardation of the state's business in this section, disrupt a well organized railroad system and possibly tend toward increasing freight rates without any benefit to the state.

SCHOONER DRIVEN ASHORE
NAGSHEAD, N. C., Feb. 6.—The schooner Helen H. Benedict of New Haven, Conn., from Perth Amboy to Pernambuco, with a crew of nine, was driven ashore near there, today in a gale. Livesaver's took off her crew in a breeches buoy.

THE FIRE DEPT.

Of Billerica Highly Complimented for Effective Work.

The fire department of Billerica is the subject of much talk in the village since the fire that destroyed the residence of Abundus Poirer near the Chelmsford line, but fortunately the discussion is in favor of the department. As a rule, the fire departments of the suburban towns are generally criticized, but this is an exception to the rule, for words of praise are coming from all parts of the town, and especially from the many people who witnessed the fire last Monday.

One man especially, A. A. Arpin, a neighbor of the Poirer family, pays a very good tribute to the department by saying the handful of men who worked in extinguishing the flames at the Poirer home are capable and conscientious workers and their knowledge of this particular line of work is such that they could do effective work on any large city fire department.

Mr. Arpin, in conversation with the writer, said when the flames burst through the roof of the Poirer residence, he (Arpin) gave up all hopes for his home, which was situated just a few feet away from the fire. He said: "We immediately got busy in removing the furniture and all other valuable articles, for it looked as though my home would also be gutted. The men of the fire department arrived on the scene of the conflagration and although they were handicapped by the lack of water, they did excellent work. Their fire fighters showed they knew their business, for when they saw the place was doomed they concentrated their efforts on protecting the adjoining property."

"There has been so much talk about the Tewksbury and Danvers fire departments of late that I think it is only fair to let the citizens of Billerica know that they are as well protected under the wings of our fire department as they would be were they living in the city. It was but a few minutes after the alarm had been given that the men of the department arrived on the scene and within a short time saving the lines of hose were put in operation but the fire had made such headway before the firemen were summoned that it was impossible under the circumstances to save the building. The other surrounding buildings, however, were in great danger and it is fair to assume that if the men did not know their business the entire block would have been wiped out, for water was very scarce."

Mr. Arpin then said he was very grateful to the department and concluded by saying he hopes the other towns will secure as good and efficient workers as the men who compose the Billerica fire department.

MAY BE LAW VIOLATOR

BARBER'S RIGHT TO GIVE FACIAL MASSAGE WITHOUT A LICENSE IS QUESTIONED

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The point that your barber is very possibly violating the law when he gives you a facial massage and the trainer laying himself open to a fine, when he rubs down an athlete, was brought out yesterday in the Malden district court, before Judge Bruce, and is to be further investigated by the justice.

The case was that of William H. Parker, a practitioner of the so-called chiropractic method of healing. In Everett, who pleaded guilty to practicing medicine without a license.

This did not satisfy Judge Bruce, when he discovered that one of the complaints against Parker, supported by the osteopaths, was that he was giving massage treatment illegally under the license he had.

Judge Bruce promptly said he wanted to know what would be the legal standing of barbers, trainers and others who practice massage in one form or another.

The question was raised by lawyers present that a chiropractor might turn out legally to be merely a barber in disguise.

The case was finally continued to Feb. 17, the judge asking that evidence be pronounced on every possible legal phase of the situation at that time.

COLLUSION IS CHARGED

MAYOR CURLEY OF BOSTON REJECTS ALL BIDS ON TWO BIG CONTRACTS

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—That there has been collusion by business firms in connection with recent bids for city contracts is suspected by Mayor Curley, according to an announcement which the mayor made last night.

It was stated by the mayor that he ordered all of the bids for two city contracts rejected because it appeared to him as if there "might have been collusion among the bidders."

The contracts were those for the repaving of artificial sidewalks and for the collection of ashes and garbage in the Dorchester district.

It was learned by the mayor from Commissioner of Public Works Burke that there was a difference of but 16 between the two lowest bids for the repaving of artificial sidewalks, while the two other bidders were $1600 and $1800 apart. This, the mayor said, did not look at all good to him.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, variable appetite, craving for sweets, nausea, vomiting, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. True's Filixir, the 60 years tried Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, will expel the worms and restore the vim and vigor to your child. Good for adults also. Discovered by my father over 60 years ago. 30c, 50c and $1.00 at all dealers. Advice free. Special treatment for tapeworms. Send for book.

ST. ELIZABETH'S HOSPITAL

FINAL MEETINGS OF CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE—CARDINAL O'CONNELL THANKS ALL

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—While addressing about 200 team workers and general committeemen, who had worked on the collection of the $200,000 fund for the new St. Elizabeth's hospital, in the City club last evening at the closing meeting, Cardinal O'Connell broke down during the speech, overcome as few had ever seen him.

From his heart went out an evidence of what he felt for the men who were before him and, as he said, for those who were scattered through the diocese and for the thousands of good people who had entered into the campaign with a spirit backed by faith.

The 200 men sat silent. No one moved nor turned in his chair. It was a dramatic two minutes until the cardinal resumed, his words coming slowly, with an evident tremble in his voice. Everyone present was affected by the incident. He had been speaking of the great faith of the people which prompted them to rally to the support of the campaign to establish the new hospital.

As he touched upon the amount of the contributions, his voice quavered for the moment. He attempted to continue and again stopped, the tears coming down his cheeks while the 200 men looked on in silence.

The cardinal was interrupted at least eight times when he resumed, cheers and applause greeting his remarks from time to time. It was a demonstration that has seldom been seen at a Catholic gathering in this city. So intense was the sentiment that at its conclusion ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald moved and it was carried that the chairman of the general committee should appoint a committee of five to organize permanently the team workers and general committee.

It was also moved and a rising vote of thanks extended to the non-Catholic people of the diocese who had so generously contributed to the fund, and who in many ways had assisted in the work.

Final Campaign Meeting
The meeting was the final one of the campaign workers. Chairman Bailey of the general committee called the gathering to order and thanked the workers and all for their cooperation, paying a particular compliment to the press of the city for the very able manner in which it had set forth the object and progress of the 10-day campaign. His words were greeted with cheers.

Then Joseph H. O'Neill was then introduced as toastmaster. He was in his wittiest vein throughout the evening, and between himself and several of the speakers many pleasantities were passed that materially enlivened the proceedings.

Mr. O'Neill, who was the campaign treasurer, said 50 per cent of the total was in cash and only a bare 15 per cent in pledges and all of the latter would be returned before Jan. 1 of next year, the pledges being in agreements for four payments in the meantime.

Mr. O'Neill then read a very cute, saying, as he addressed Cardinal O'Connell, that this was the object of the meeting. The certificate stated: "We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $200,000, this sum being the amount subscribed toward the new St. Elizabeth's hospital by the big hearted people of the Boston diocese."

BIG MACHINISTS MEETING

At Which E. S. Ago Spoke on the Free Speech Crusade in New Hampshire

The machinists and representatives of other trade unions in Lowell gave a rousing reception, last night, to Edward S. Ago, the central figure in the free speech war at Claremont, N. H. Mr. Ago is an organizer for the International Association of Machinists, and when he and his co-workers struck Claremont, N. H., they found that employers of machinists there did not want their employees to organize. The result was that Ago and three others were arrested and sent to the "cooler" over night.

The reception to Mr. Ago, last night, was held in Old Fellows building, numbered over 500. Organizer Frank Young presided and the speakers included Mr. Ago, Harry W. Klingman of Lynn; Michael A. Lee of this city, and Dr. John Cowper of Lynn, familiarly known as "Doc" Cowper, probably the oldest organizer in the state. He is active in the 70's and is an active organizer for the Carpenters' union. He made a stirring address last night and the reception tendered his brave old heart.

The reception to Mr. Ago afforded him an opportunity to tell his experiences in Claremont, N. H., and to explain what his arrest means to unionism and free speech. He said that upon arriving in Claremont, the machinists went to the board of trade and in order to prevent him from speaking they engaged every hall in the place. That drove Mr. Ago and his co-workers to the street. Then the election was held and drew up an ordinance making speech-making in the public street a criminal offense. The police went to the hotel where Ago and his comrades were stopping and ordered them to leave town. They decided they would not leave under fire and instead of leaving they went back to the street and made speeches. Then they were arrested and lodged in jail.

It was explained by Organizer Young that the International Association of Machinists would make the Ago case a test case to determine the right of free speech. The association has employed the best legal talent in New Hampshire. The case is now before the supreme court and the association will fight it to the finish.

At the meeting last night resolutions were drawn up requesting Association President Johnson to use his influence to make the Ago case a test case in every sense of the word.

SCHMIDT GUILTY SKATING IS GOOD $70,000 WORTH OF OPIUM

Of Murder in the First Degree for Killing Anna Aumuller

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Hans Schmidt was found guilty yesterday of murder in the first degree for killing Anna Aumuller, a young woman he had married by a self-performed ceremony.

The penalty of the crime is death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison. He will be sentenced next Wednesday. Schmidt, whose defense was ineptly, laughed when the verdict was pronounced. He had steadfastly declared himself guilty and at his arraignment before being held for the supreme court pleaded that he be punished by death.

Later he protested against the insanity defense advanced by his counsel, and last night said he would not assist them in any way if they prepared an appeal.

"I would rather die tonight than tomorrow," he said. "It is as it should be and as I wish it."

This was the second trial and the jury went out a few minutes less than one hour. At the first trial the jury deliberated. Attorneys for prosecution and defense supplied most of the testimony at both trials.

The skating won't last much longer and those who can should take advantage of the opportunity offered today."

Pinklets Really Do Correct Constipation

There are few persons who do not suffer more or less from constipation and because of the discomfort it causes and the ill-health that results from this condition everyone should know how to properly correct it.

Harsh purgatives, formerly much used, act violently and leave the constipation worse than before. Pinklets correct this unnatural and dangerous condition by gently assisting the sluggish bowels and forcing liver to regain their normal activity. Their action is gentle, but effective and thorough, and they do not cause a single gripe. Unlike strong purgatives, Pinklets do not upset the stomach nor irritate and over-stimulate the bowels. Because they have none of these evil effects, they can be taken with entire safety until the constipation is corrected.

To simply regulate the bowels, or to treat obstinate cases of constipation, Pinklets are the ideal laxative. They are safe for every member of the family to use. Any druggist can supply you at 25 cents per bottle. Write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a Pinklet book which tells all about the cause, symptoms and treatment of constipation and sick headache.

FIGHTING WHITE PLAGUE

TOTAL EXPENDITURES AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS NEARLY $1,000,000

Out of nearly $2,000,000 spent last year in the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis in the United States, 62.5 per cent of the money was derived from public funds, either federal, state, county or municipal. These are some of the interesting figures given in the annual statistical statement of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, made public today. The statement is based largely on actual reports received from anti-tuberculosis agencies throughout the country, but where reports were not available, the figures have been estimated.

Treatment of tuberculosis patients in more than 500 sanatoriums and hospitals of the country and the construction of such institutions cost over $15,000,000 of the total expenditure. Care of patients in dispensaries and open-air schools cost about $320,000. Anti-tuberculosis associations and committees spent nearly $675,000 in furthering their work of organization and education, while state and local boards of health and special tuberculosis commissions spent over $250,000. More than $13,500,000 or 62.5 per cent of the total expenditures came from public funds. The National association points to this growing increase in the spending of public money for tuberculosis as one of the most significant facts in the report, as it indicates the shifting of the burden of institutional care of consumptives from the private purse to the general public purse, where it rightly belongs. Since 1909 the percentage of public

A Simple Remedy to Correct Constipation Before It Becomes Chronic

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Thousands injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and similar things. They have temporary relief in some cases. It is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effectively they become.

A physic or purgative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not take behind a high sounding name, but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to their infants, and yet it is so compounded, and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation.

It is a fact that millions of families have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, homes like those of Mr. H. W. Fenstermaker, Stegfield, Pa. He says he has had "wonderful results" from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, that, in fact, he has never found a remedy so good, and he is glad to recommend it. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is supplied to the needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant-tasting, mild and non-gripping. Unlike harsh physics, it works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with. You can obtain a bottle of any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. It will be refunded. Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 410 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

money spent in tuberculosis work has increased from 52.5 to nearly 70 per cent.

New York state spent more money in tuberculosis work than any two other states, due largely to the increased and growing activities of city and county governments in building adequate hospitals for consumptives. The following table shows the estimated public and private expenditures in each of the five leading states:

Expenditures in 1913	Public	Private	Total
New York	$3,455,628	$1,423,196	$4,878,824
Pennsylvania	1,629,195	455,099	2,084,294
Illinois	1,441,253	555,510	1,996,763
Massachusetts	1,352,241	300,183	1,652,424
California	330,322	192,297	$522,619

Hundreds of Visitors Inspected the Departments on Domestic Science This Week

Principal Fisher decided not to have any exhibition of the work of the domestic science department of the industrial school but instead throw the school open to visitors during the present week. The idea has been quite successful as hundreds of people have daily availed themselves of the privilege of passing through the departments and inspecting the work.

The number of visitors in the evening particularly has been quite large and only words of praise were heard from all the visitors. Many were astonished at the splendid opportunities offered to girls and women to learn dressmaking, millinery, cooking and other branches of domestic science looking to economy in the household, the qualities of fabrics that count for durability, the harmony of colors, the canons of taste and other points in the science of dressmaking and millinery while in the cooking department, the nutritive value of different foods is taught and the problem of furnishing a good wholesome meal of plain food containing all the necessary elements of nutriment is worked out in a very scientific manner.

Miss Alice L. Cookin is in full charge of all departments of the industrial school and in this capacity she is showing her talent for discipline, the coordination of courses and the attainment of results.

Principal Fisher is a severe critic, quite hard to please in many ways, but he speaks highly of Miss Cookin's work.

Miss Roberta Bramhall and Miss Etta Donlan are the head teachers in the cooking department. Miss Daisy Abbott and Miss Harriet Sturtevant, assistants, last evening gave a demonstration in the art of cooking that won the admiration of many visitors.

In the evening dressmaking department there are five rooms, all engaged on dresses, skirts and coats. When the opportunities here available are considered, it is surprising that any vacant seat could be found in any of the rooms. Still there are a few as the attendance has fallen off as the season advanced. The attendance at the evening school on Mondays and Thursdays is about 145 and on Tuesdays and Fridays 125. On the two latter evenings there is a class on coat-making. The hours for all the classes are from 7 to 9. The school is now on the second course the first having been devoted mainly to shirtwaists. The evening schools will close Feb. 27.

In the day school in this department Miss O'Day is the head dressmaker and with an able corps of assistants excellent work is done. Miss Devine is conducting a class in millinery with excellent results. What was noticed by all the visitors was the inadequacy of the rooms and yet Principal Fisher stated that this department is much better housed than are the various departments for the men.

THREE MEN DROWNED

INVESTIGATION OF MYSTERIOUS ERRAND WHICH RESULTED IN TRAGEDY

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Investigation of a mysterious errand which resulted in the drowning of three men last night in the icy waters of Lake Michigan while they were making efforts to reach a waterworks intake crib in a small boat, was begun today by city authorities.

W. P. Scannell, keeper of the crib, Stephen Varley and a man named Wilson started for the crib in a small boat which was wrecked in the ice. The men shouted for help and hundreds of people lined the shore helpless to aid them while they gained a big block of ice to which they clung for an hour before slipping into the water. At first it was supposed Scannell had attempted to take a physician to the crib to attend his wife. Later, however, two women who gave their names as May Smith and Mary Wade were taken from the crib in a police boat. They said that Scannell and his companions had gone for provisions.

REMOVE GERMAN SUBJECTS
BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The German minister to Mexico today requisitioned the German steamer Piranga for the removal of the German subjects from Tampico.

Devil Reynolds, who upholds the title to perfection, and "Roundy" Boone, who sings two new songs, besides another complete new series of real worth, while photo-plays, among them a two-reeler of merit. Performances afternoon and evening; matinee at 2, evening first performance at 8:15. Prices, ten cents; reserved seats, five cents extra. Special arranged Sunday concert program, including vaudeville the coming Sunday.

AT THE OWL THEATRE
"Victory or Death" was shown instead of "The Star of India" which was advertised for Wednesday and Thursday, and it proved a first class attraction. The other picture will be shown later. Commencing today, "The Mutual Girl" will be a regular feature every week at the Owl, and her first experience in New York ought to interest every lady in this city. Next week she takes part in a highly interesting detective story, full of thrills. Many other pictures are on the program for today and tomorrow. The managers have shifted the general program for the Mutual "movies" and the change is noticeable.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
It's a tough proposition to serve three months' sentence in prison, and worse when the victim is a tender girl. "Thorne of the Gay White Way," the Warner feature at the Opera House today contains a story that is morally beneficial to all. It portrays a political boss who is the proprietor of a tenement dive. He is, however, large in heart and spirit, and is ever the friend of the ill-treated girl. When he is confronted with the tragedy of his own daughter's mistake, he is over- come with remorse and closes his cafe and racket, and consoles and higher ideals by leaving the trail of the bright lights for the cool green fields of rest in the country. This Warner Feature will arouse your sympathy for the struggling girls that are confronted with many traps of injustice, in trying to follow the straight and narrow path of decency. Conditions similar to the ones portrayed in this photo-play are the existing ones in many of our large cities, conditions that baffles the civic authorities. Be sure and see this moral sermon for young girls.

H. F. KELTH'S THEATRE
With "Harmony at Home" the headline feature at the H. F. Kelth theatre this week and with six other acts of much excellence on the bill, one of the classiest shows of the entire season may be said to be holding the boards. The Moneta Five, three women and two men, give the delicate musical act which less the bill and which is proving completely satisfying to very large audiences. Another winner on the bill is "The Battle of Ray Rum," played by Collins and Seymour, and which is liberally sprinkled with odd situations and funny sayings. Lancton, Lucier & Co., in "Ghosts of Humanity" have another addition to the bill which just keeps the merriment going. It is a combination of real fun and wonder, fully good dancing. Myrtle and Daisy, two most attractive singers, appear to distinct advantage, while Tom Mahoney, called president of the "nod" "ear-riest" union, is a first rate monologist. The McAlavay Marvels are the world's best known jumpers, and the Pathé Weekly holds some new pictures. Get your seats in advance for the low remaining performances. Phone 28.

THE KASINO
Where are you going today and tomorrow? Rather a personal question, but if you have not already made up your mind, The Kasino invites you to hear Miner's band free of charge. Music by this popular organization is enjoyed by those who like to see and those who prefer to remain on the promenade. Of course, real Kasino enjoyment is impossible without the rollers. Kasino skating is conducted under ideal conditions the last three days of the week, afternoon and evening.

TEXTILE EXHIBIT SHOWN

by Agent of Bureau of Foreign Commerce—Had Samples at Board of Trade Rooms

Ralph M. Odell, commercial agent of a bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who recently returned from an extensive trip through Spain, Portugal, Italy, Russia, Turkey, Egypt and other countries where he has investigated the conditions in the cotton trade, received yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Lowell board of trade a large number of manufacturers, millmen and other persons who are in search of information regarding cotton trade in the foreign countries. Mr. Odell had over a thousand samples of cotton goods spread over tables in the board of trade rooms and answered many questions concerning his trip.

All the goods Mr. Odell had on exhibition yesterday were samples of what he collected in the foreign markets and he also had with him considerable data concerning the requirements in particular sections, prices and other details of interest to exporters desirous of pushing trade in the districts covered by the agent's observations. Mr. Odell has been in the south for some time where he addressed commercial gatherings and cotton manufacturers' organizations, and during the present week he is making a tour of the New England mill districts.

Former President Riddle Whipple Reforms at Banquet

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The Boston University Law School association's reception and banquet to Prof. William Howard Taft of the Yale Law school last night assumed the character of a vigorous and general attack upon the reforms in court procedure urged by Sherman J. Whipple, a prominent member of the Boston bar, at the recent meeting of the Connecticut bar association in New London.

Prof. Taft, now also president of the American Bar association, who said that despite his past he had now become a reformer, led in the attack upon Mr. Whipple's suggestions, characterizing him as belonging to the "red red radicals," the "explosives."

Chief Justice Arthur P. Rogers of the supreme judicial court, Moorfield Storey, president of the Massachusetts bar association, Attorney-General Thomas J. Baynton and John E. Hanigan, townmaster, all joined in one of the most thoroughgoing "roastings" that could be justly administered.

It was declared by all the speakers that Mr. Whipple's suggestion that the rule of "privileged confidence" between counsel and client be abolished, was amazing and if put into effect would have the result of bringing cases into court without any foundation whatever, in case in which the client's counsel would be as ignorant as the jury of the real underlying facts of the case.

They said that under present conditions, clients were advised to pay up when they had a worthless case, and that if Mr. Whipple's suggestion were adopted, the clients would not make any disclosures to their attorneys.

Moorfield Storey was the only one who urged any change in the present system of procedure. He declared that the rule that permitted a man to refuse to give evidence that would incriminate himself was out of date and should be abolished. A client, he said, should be forced to take the stand and tell all he knew about his own case like any other witness.

The 500 members of the bar who attended the banquet, along with 50 odd judges of various courts in the commonwealth, applauded the speakers to the echo in their defense of the bar and the judiciary. The former president was greeted with repeated outbursts of enthusiastic applause. Cheers and sarcastic references to Mr. Whipple's proposals were greeted with loud laughter and hand clapping.

SHOT BY ROBBERS

Clerk in Roxbury Loan Office Wounded During Terrific Battle

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—John J. Gately, a clerk employed by the Roxbury Loan company, 1217 Tremont street, Roxbury, was shot and seriously wounded shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by three gunmen who made a little attempt to rob the cash drawer and safes of the establishment.

The robbery was frustrated when Gately, wounded by a bullet, fired four shots at the robbers as he fell to the floor. None of the bullets took effect. The trio did not return his fire, but made their escape, darting down Tremont street through the crowds of persons returning from work, who were drawn to the vicinity by the sound of the firing.

After the robbers had left, Gately crawled to the telephone and called up the home of his employer, Lazarus Davis of 25 Angel street, Dorchester, and was endeavoring to get the Roxbury police by phone, when his predicament was discovered by a young man who had seen the gunmen run out of the store.

Bernard Cannon, a butcher employed next door, in the Roxbury Supply company, heard the shots and also went to Gately's assistance. Gately, though conscious, was bleeding profusely, and when removed to the city hospital in a police ambulance, his name was placed on the dangerous list. It was said last night that he has even chances of recovery.

BODY FOUND IN LAKE

MYSTERY OF THE DISAPPEARANCE OF MRS. COLBY, WEALTHY BROOKLINE WIDOW, SOLVED

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Annie E. Colby, the wealthy Brookline widow, who slipped away from a Newton sanitarium on the evening of Dec. 4, and for whom a nation-wide police search was made, was solved yesterday when the body was found in a lake.

One of the first theories of her loss was that she might have been drowned, so the lake and the Charles river were dragged without result. The body was positively identified from the clothing by Dr. Samuel Eaton, who conducts the sanitarium on Brookline road. Relatives of Mrs. Colby, who was the widow of the late State Senator John H. Colby, were notified, and will claim the body and make funeral arrangements today.

O'CONNELL FOR CONGRESS

DANIEL T. CANDIDATE IN 12TH DISTRICT TO SUCCEED MAYOR CURLEY

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—It was announced last evening that Daniel T. O'Connell is a candidate for congress in the 12th district to succeed Mayor Curley, who besides being mayor of Boston, is also a representative in congress. The announcement of the candidacy revives speculation as to when Mayor Curley will resign as congressman. It is said Mr. O'Connell, before announcing his candidacy, had assurances that Mayor Curley intends to resign his seat in September.

Daniel T. O'Connell is a brother of former Congressman O'Connell, and both were enthusiastic Keweenaw supporters in the last mayoralty fight. He was secretary to former Mayor Fitzgerald during a portion of the latter's first administration, but parted political company with the former mayor shortly afterward.

He has since been an active opponent of the former mayor. Mr. O'Connell is unmarried and makes his home in Dorchester. He is engaged in the practice of law in the Exchange building, in partnership with his brother, the former congressman, and another brother, James T. O'Connell.

At city hall last night it was stated that Mayor Curley would resign his seat in congress as soon as the immigration bill and supply bill were passed, which will probably be about the first of September.

ROBBED OF MILLIONS

MR. THAYER SAYS TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS LOSE MILLIONS OF CALLS CHANGED TO THEM

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Telephone subscribers are being robbed of millions of calls that are being charged to them by the New England Telephone & Telegraph company, said former Representative Frank W. Thayer of Boston yesterday at the telephone hearing before the public service commission. Another hearing will be held Feb. 23.

A resumption of the old 4 and 6 party line service is being sought by the United Improvement association, which was given a hearing yesterday.

upon its petition. Mr. Thayer said that anybody who wanted one of the old party lines ought to have one although there was considerable trouble in taking account of the number of calls.

He called attention to the fact that the telephone company is represented by the most astute person in marshaling facts that can be found in the city of Boston. He was referring to pany.

Mr. Hall, counsel for the telephone company.

"I have heard him for 12 years telling figures and demonstrating overwhelming facts that the public actually prefer the limited system, whereas the public really wants the four and six party lines," said Mr. Thayer. He thereupon made the charge of the robbery of millions of calls by the company.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MARY MARYN

A. B. C. That itching and pricking dandruff plainly indicates an unhealthy scalp, and when this condition is overcome your hair will take on its former richness and beauty. Shampooing occasionally with a teaspoonful of castor oil dissolved in a cup hot water cleanses and invigorates the scalp and results in healthy beautiful hair. This shampooing is very inexpensive and you will not only enjoy each shampoo, but the results will be very gratifying.

Janet: You and your husband both can easily get rid of the surplus fat if you follow these simple directions: Get 4 ounces paraffin from your drug-gist and dissolve in 12 pints hot water; when it cools take a tablespoonful before each meal. This reduction method is gradual and positive in its action and does not depend on diet or exercise for results. The skin will be left firm and free from wrinkles.

Inquisitive: Your pimples and skin eruptions have been caused by impurities in your system. Try this old-time blood purifier and tonic and I am sure you will obtain excellent results: To 1 pint alcohol add 1 ounce karoine (sugar from drug store) then 1/2 cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and your complexion will clear and the color of healthy will come back to your cheeks. This tonic is fine for aches and is prevalent in cold weather and tends to cleanse body of poisons causing rheumatism and kidney and liver troubles.

Hermat: I think all eyes are beautiful if clear and sparkling, and all eyes put 2 or 3 drops of my simple home-made tonic into each eye daily. When they are tired or the lids show any tendency to inflammation, I use often eye or bath and eye and lids. To make the tonic I get an ounce of crystals at the drug store and dissolve in a pint of clear, cold water. Annette: To be sure, you can have a clear, velvety, pink-and-white complexion if you care enough to give it a little attention each day. I advise dissolving powder and using a plain lotion made by dissolving 1 ounce of purest glycerine from druggist in 1/2 pint witch hazel or karoine, to which should be added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This is easily applied, dries quickly and imparts a delightful tone to the complexion. Especially good for oily, sallow skins and cannot be detected when on.

Heart: Your wrinkles might be caused in many different ways, but without regard to the cause, I am giving you a certain relief which my friends and I have proven. This is inexpensive and is made as follows: Into 1/2 pint water, stir an ounce almond (from any druggist) and add 3 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply the jelly cream plentifully on retiring and massage well into the skin, then in the morning wash off and apply a little more. To such skin treatments will soon clear the skin of wrinkles, reduce the large pores and give you a velvety complexion.

Clara M.: You can help nature beautify your hair by keeping your scalp perfectly healthy and free from dandruff or chafing. Once you own tonic and massage a little into the scalp and hair roots once or twice a week. I use 1/2 pint of alcohol, to which I add 1 ounce karoine and 1/2 pint water. This quinine tonic soon puts the scalp in a healthy, pliant condition, overcomes dandruff and oiliness and gives to the hair roots the strength necessary to produce a luxuriant growth of long, brilliant hair.

Cora: Objectionable fuzzy or hairy growths are easily banished if you mix enough powdered delatone with water to form a thick paste and apply to hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off with a clean, dry towel. If hair is gone, except in very aggravated cases, one application of delatone is enough. So skin will result, but be certain you get delatone—Ad.

What Dr. Gagnon's Nap-a-Minit Really Is

Many people confound Nap-a-Minit with ether, gas or some of the other old-fashioned methods of inducing anesthesia.

Dr. Gagnon's Nap-a-Minit is not anesthesia, but is a stage of analgesia induced by the combination of Nitrous Oxide and Oxygen; the patient in complete possession of all faculties, can hear, converse and knows absolutely what is going on and has control of every muscle in the body. It simply prevents the patient from feeling pain.

There is no disagreeable feature in administering "Nap-a-Minit." You will be astonished at the simplicity of the application of this efficient pain destroyer. It is a sort of delightful lassitude, allowing the doctor complete freedom in his work, which in consequence will be much better and with absolute freedom from pain by the patient.

Call at either of my offices and let me explain the merits of Nap-a-Minit to you and I am sure you will agree with me in saying that the science of dentistry has indeed been revolutionized by my methods.

MEETING OF PARK BOARD

Messrs Rountree and Carr at War Over Concerts in Schools and Political Pulls

The park board held a meeting last night and discussed a variety of matters pertaining to the work of the park department. The members of the board are Harvey B. Greene, chairman; Messrs. Carr, Rountree, Mills and Mignault. Mr. Carr was a very busy member last night. He had a big bundle of schemes up his sleeve and most of them had to do with playgrounds. He says he would like to see playgrounds in every part of the city and he says the day is not far distant when the people will demand them. He has a school concert scheme to raise money for the playgrounds. His plan would be to have concerts in the schools for the benefit of the playgrounds and he believes a good "pot" of money could be secured in this way. A few words of discouragement were spoken by one of his brother members while Henry was in the midst of his school proposition and Henry said he was going to have the concerts if he had "to go it alone." He is a playground enthusiast and after having worked himself up to a fairly high pitch last night he declared that he would take a "bury" and give a concert in Merrimack square that would net the playgrounds $1000.

There was another playground point on which Mr. Carr was very strong. He said that the young women of all nationalities ought to be given a chance on the playgrounds and that school teachers ought not to be employed. "They should be having resting their overworked brains," he said, and just at this point Mr. Rountree boiled in with a little chastisement for the gallant Henry. Alexander called Henry's attention to the fact that he, Alexander, was a member of the committee to engage supervisors and he said he didn't relish brother Henry's soft impeachment. "Didn't you come to me and ask me to engage a certain teacher as supervisor?" asked Mr. Rountree, and Mr. Carr answered: "Yes, but she was only a practice teacher," and then Alexander told Henry he didn't know what he was talking about. It was an anxious moment.

The meeting started off with inquiries by Mr. Carr concerning a park department horse that is now being used by a manufacturer who doesn't pay for its use, but who feeds it, keeps it and has it insured against injury. Sup. Kernan explained that he had placed the horse with the manufacturer because it meant a saving to the park department during the dull months of the year.

Mr. Carr moved that the horse be returned to the department. His motion was not seconded.

Shedd park was next mentioned, and Mr. Mills said he could not understand why Shedd park should come under the park department. Chairman Greene said that Shedd park is an integral part of the park system.

Mr. Carr spoke of the leasing of land in Moore street for a playground. The old Butler and Chandler property, located at 10 to 24 Moore street, was suggested, it comprising 14,800 square feet. Mr. Carr said land could be had for a lot of $1000.

Mr. Greene said there is a larger place of land across the street from the land mentioned by Mr. Carr where the children are allowed to play. He said he did not see the wisdom of paying $1000 a year for a playground when there was one to be had for nothing.

"I'll take a half-giddy and go down to Merrimack street and raise hell for the playground, and I'll wear a red bandanna too," said Mr. Carr. His brother members did not object to this. Mr. Carr then moved that a committee of two be appointed to look over the land in question, and he and Mr. Mills were named on the committee.

There was some talk about plans for the playground, and Mr. Carr gave the handstand on the south common. Mr. Greene wanted to know if the architects who had drawn the plans had been paid and Mr. Carr said 50 percent. Chairman Greene said that Commissioner Donnelly, now head of the public property department, has the balance of the $2000 voted for the band stand, last year, and Chairman Greene said that Mr. Carr and he were named a committee to confer with Mr. Donnelly on the matter.

Mr. Carr then took up the matter of concerts in school houses. He said he had talked with Principal Greene of the New Moody school and with Principal Callahan of the Butler school, and they had both agreed to do what they could. He said that Principal Irish of the High school had also indicated his willingness to help out. "These men are interested in the playground movement," said Mr. Carr, "and where in this broad land could you find three better school principals?"

There was some further discussion of the subject, and finally Mr. Carr said: "If you gentlemen don't want to help me, I'll do it myself." Mr. Carr was named a committee to confer with the school board about the use of the school houses for concerts.

"I want to see the French girls and the Irish girls and the Yankee girls and a Swedish girl on the playground next year, instead of the swells," said Mr. Carr.

"What are you talking about?" Mr. Rountree, "when you say that no

MEN OF ST. ANNE'S

HELD THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET AT PAGE'S RESTAURANT LAST NIGHT

The second annual banquet of the men of St. Anne's church was held last night in the banquet room of the D. L. Page Co. in Merrimack street, where over 175 men sat around the festive board and after partaking of a dainty repast listened to interesting speeches. Among the speakers being Rt. Rev. Bishop Samuel G. Babcock, suffragan bishop of the diocese; Rev. Appleton Grammis, Rev. Samuel Jobe, pastor and curate respectively of the church, Rev. Edward E. Atkinson of Cambridge, Rev. W. Matthews of the First Primitive Methodist church; Rev. Allan C. Ferrin of the High Street church; Rev. George W. King, D. D., of St. Paul's; Mayor Dennis J. Murphy and Joseph Smith. A most enjoyable musical program was rendered by Blonson's orchestra, Charles F. Brown, organist of the church; Fred Routh and Albert Edmund Brown, the latter of the State Normal school.

A feature of the evening was the organization of the Men's club of St. Anne's church. The following officers were elected for the year: President, F. N. Wier, president; Luther Faulkner, vice president; Alexander E. Williams, secretary; Charles N. Aldwood, treasurer.

At the conclusion of the dinner, P. Marble, who had been chosen toastmaster, opened the post-prandial exercises with appropriate remarks. The song "The Men of St. Anne's" by Charles F. Brown, the organist of the church and the selection was so pleasing that an encore was called for.

Rev. Appleton Grammis, pastor of the church, and he dealt chiefly with church affairs, telling of his experience in the past, and he arrived in Lowell. He complimented the men of the parish for their zealous work and said he had been delighted with the response to his appeal for the improvement of St. Anne's. He closed by saying: "The success of the parish depends on the interest every member takes in it."

The speaker of the evening, Rt. Rev. Bishop Babcock was then introduced and he spoke at length on the go-to-church movement. He also spoke on the Federation of Churches and referring to St. Anne's, he said he was satisfied that the men of this church were very good.

He said the Episcopal church is not working to divide the body of Christ or to proselyte. It is working on a progressive, but also conservative, basis, not multiplying weak parishes, but often advising such to cast in their lot with their local religious bodies. In short, he said, "we are living on good terms with our neighbors." In discussing Massachusetts as a church commonwealth, he said that nearly

REGIONAL RESERVE BANK

SECRETARIES MEADDO AND HOPKINS LEAVE LOS ANGELES FOR EL PASO

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 6.—Fortified with information as to the desire of Pacific coast territory regarding the establishment of a regional reserve bank, Secretary Mead and Secretary Hopkins will leave today for El Paso. Bankers in southern California were unanimously in favor of the main institution being located in San Francisco with a branch in this city.

Secretary Mead last night with his grand-daughter, Nona Mead, and three months old, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Milbank in this city.

OLD CADDIES RETURN

It is an old caddy on an east coast course, and being a noted figure on the links, he endeavored as far as possible to rattle only for efficient golfers. Occasionally, however, he finds himself accompanying a "fozzler" and on these occasions his dignity is injured.

One day last week he found himself caddy to an old contentman who was out, clearly, more for exercise than for the love of the game, and who was playing shocking golf.

At the time the 12th hole was reached he had been in the caddy's hands for a long time, and he was breaking a club. "I think I shall give up this hole," he remarked at last to his indignant caddy. "Na, na," retorted the old worthy, bitterly, "feenish the course sir, feenish the course; ye've not shot four clubs to smash yet, an' nine bunkers to do it in!"

AT BUENOS AYRES

The First Subway in South America Has Been Completed

Buenos Ayres has completed the first section of its new subway and it was opened to public service Dec. 1, 1913. That underground transit has become a necessity to relieve the congestion of traffic accentuates the fact that the Argentine capital is the "hurry-up" city of South America. Its growth during the ten year period closing with 1912 is remarkable.

In 1902 the population was 335,351 there were 1561 carriages and automobiles, and the street-cars, or trams—as the English-Argentines call them—carried 13,129,255 fares during the year; in 1905 the population had increased to 1,135,180, the carriages and automobiles to 6686, and the passengers carried by the trams to 25,073,566. By 1912 the population amounted to 1,457,850, the carriages and automobiles to 13,429, and the trams struggled with 49,752,540 passengers.

When the surface cars were no longer able to handle the traffic gracefully, the Anglo-Argentine company, an English corporation who owned most of the cars, decided to ask for a franchise to install a subway system, and it is the first section of this which was opened to traffic, recently. According to an article in the January Bulletin of the Pan American Union, this section runs from the government building on the Plaza Mayo at one terminus to the main thoroughfare—the splendid Avenida de Mayo—to and around the foundations of the new capitol, and to the Plaza Once de Septiembre, a total distance of about two miles. Formerly the shortest time to make the trip, owing to the congested condition of traffic, was 30 minutes. By the subway it now takes less than one-third of that time, and "time is money" Buenos Aires just as it is in New York.

The subway is double tracked and equipped with cars of the latest pattern and every modern convenience. One new feature introduced is that each station has a "distinct" color scheme, different from the others. For example, the first station, the Avenida, is painted sky blue; the second, the Plaza, is painted yellow; the third, the Plaza, is painted green; the fourth, the Avenida, is painted red; and the fifth, the Plaza, is painted blue. A passenger falls to read the large sign he can still tell where he is by the color of the station's scheme. The gauge of the road is 6 feet, the cars are accommodated to 4 passengers each. The cost is $30,000,000.

THIN BLOOD CAUSES BACKACHE

Every muscle in the body needs a supply of rich, red blood in proportion to the work it does.

The muscles of the back are under heavy strain and have but little rest. When the blood is thin they get nourishment and rebel. The result is a searation of pain in these muscles.

The best medical authorities agree that backache seldom or never means kidney trouble. If the organic kidney disease has progressed to a crisis, it will be found in the blood. How much better it is to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the blood than to give way to unreasonable alarm about your kidneys. If you suspect your kidneys, any doctor can make tests in ten minutes that will set your fears at rest or tell you the worst.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A free book, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

"HOG CHOLERA"

How it Has Been Combated by Department of Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture, during the past year, has been conducting campaigns in Indiana, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska to control the contagious disease of hogs known as "hog cholera" by means of anti-hog cholera serum and farm quarantines. In one county (Pettis county, Missouri), where there was a loss of 13 per cent. in 1911 and 25.6 per cent. in 1912, of all hogs raised, there was only a loss of 14.7 per cent. up to November, 1913. This decrease was due to the use of the serum, which, although not used there by the department agents until August, 1913, materially reduced the loss. About 60,000 hogs were raised during the past year and of the 10,000 that died of the hog cholera only about 1000 were lost after active use of serum and quarantine measures were inaugurated.

In 1902 the population was 335,351 there were 1561 carriages and automobiles, and the street-cars, or trams—as the English-Argentines call them—carried 13,129,255 fares during the year; in 1905 the population had increased to 1,135,180, the carriages and automobiles to 6686, and the passengers carried by the trams to 25,073,566. By 1912 the population amounted to 1,457,850, the carriages and automobiles to 13,429, and the trams struggled with 49,752,540 passengers.

When the surface cars were no longer able to handle the traffic gracefully, the Anglo-Argentine company, an English corporation who owned most of the cars, decided to ask for a franchise to install a subway system, and it is the first section of this which was opened to traffic, recently. According to an article in the January Bulletin of the Pan American Union, this section runs from the government building on the Plaza Mayo at one terminus to the main thoroughfare—the splendid Avenida de Mayo—to and around the foundations of the new capitol, and to the Plaza Once de Septiembre, a total distance of about two miles. Formerly the shortest time to make the trip, owing to the congested condition of traffic, was 30 minutes. By the subway it now takes less than one-third of that time, and "time is money" Buenos Aires just as it is in New York.

The subway is double tracked and equipped with cars of the latest pattern and every modern convenience. One new feature introduced is that each station has a "distinct" color scheme, different from the others. For example, the first station, the Avenida, is painted sky blue; the second, the Plaza, is painted yellow; the third, the Plaza, is painted green; the fourth, the Avenida, is painted red; and the fifth, the Plaza, is painted blue. A passenger falls to read the large sign he can still tell where he is by the color of the station's scheme. The gauge of the road is 6 feet, the cars are accommodated to 4 passengers each. The cost is $30,000,000.

MELLEN TO BE TRIED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Former New Haven President Declined to Appear Before Public
Service Board—Cannot Leave
Connecticut, He Says

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven road, declined today to appear before the public service commission which is investigating the public and other expenses of the company in this state on the ground he could not leave Connecticut where he is about to be tried for manslaughter. A letter from Mr. Mellen in which he was acting on the advice of counsel was read at the opening of the hearing. He expressed a willingness, however, to answer written questions.

A reply was also received from T. E. Byrnes, former vice president of the company, who is now in the west, in which he stated that he made engagements there for two or three months and could not break them in order to come east at this time.

When the letter from Chairman Elliott of the New Haven declining to refuse attorneys of the company from their obligations to clients was read, Arthur D. Hill, an attorney representing a Boston newspaper, asked the commission to request the directors of the New Haven to reconsider their action on this matter.

In making this request Mr. Hill said there seemed to be a reluctance on the part of many witnesses to tell the truth.

M. A. Duggan, secretary of the New Haven company, identified all the vouchers supplied by the company at the request of the commission. He said he was authorized to sign the vouchers and to use his own discretion as to whether they were for reasonable amounts. He could not say why some of them were approved by President Mellen and others by Vice President

Byrnes. Neither could he enlighten the commission regarding the vouchers of J. O. Wardwell and H. M. Knowles for legal services, both of which were approved by President Mellen, but did not go through the regular legal department of the company. Mr. Duggan said he had no knowledge of the services rendered by Mr. Wardwell and Mr. Knowles, both of whom testified at the last hearing.

Lawyer Attacks Witnesses

The advertising managers of the three local papers identified vouchers and receipts for advertising paid for by the New Haven road.

Former Senator Thomas Curley, who received certain sums while acting for the New Haven but who at the last hearing was unable to recall his specific duties, was recalled. He said he had been unable to refresh his memory. He denied that he knew of any bills affecting the New Haven company while he was a member of the senate.

Mr. Hill questioned him closely on various acts during the last year, but obtained little information.

Finally the attorney said: "It is only fair to state that in my closing argument, I shall say that your statements, Mr. Curley, were wilfully false from beginning to end."

"Your opinion has already been expressed," rejoined Mr. Curley.

BILL TO INVESTIGATE NEW HAVEN RAILROAD

Senator Borah Says if Information
About Road is True Eight or Ten
Persons Ought to be in Jail

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—When the house took up the bill of Representative Norris for an investigation of the New Haven railroad today the representative opened the discussion by reading newspaper charges emphasizing that attorneys for Morgan & Co. had received $12,000 for drawing the incorporation papers of a $1000 subsidiary corporation of the New Haven.

"If half the information made public about the New Haven transactions is true, eight or ten persons ought to be in jail," interjected Senator Borah. "Are you not afraid further investigation may give immunity to guilty persons?"

Senator Norris replied that testimony probably could be obtained from bookkeepers and that he had no objection to giving them immunity.

Senator Cummings declared that in his opinion congress had enough information and it would do best to busy itself with the enactment of laws to prohibit future transactions than to await further investigation by the interstate commerce committee. He insisted that the commission had no authority to investigate charges that the directors defrauded stockholders.

"I predict the state of affairs here finds a parallel in the capitalization of a dozen railroads in the country," said Mr. Cummings. "We have known that it was going on for years and have refused to give the interstate commerce commission power to regulate such matters."

Both Senator Lodge and Senator Norris said they understood the commission had evidence it had not made public.

Senator Norris declared he had great confidence in Chairman Elliott but contended he should do everything within his power to reveal the past that stockholders might be recompensed for their losses.

Mr. Borah expressed the opinion that the attorney general would act and referred to the recent agreement between the department of justice and the New Haven in which the government did not waive its right to proceed criminally.

Senator Norris said he had been told by a member of the house that Prof. Bruce Wyman, who at one time was in the pay of the New Haven, came to Washington three times to urge that it would be unwise to investigate New Haven affairs.

A letter was read from Commissioner Proddy, who investigated the New Haven, saying:

"On the whole, I do not believe anything could be accomplished by a further investigation. I believe more could be done by a senate committee than by the commission."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The severest weather of the year is now prevailing in the upper Missouri valley and the plains states as far south as Oklahoma and the Pan-Handle of Texas.

The weather bureau, in a special bulletin, announced today. The temperature at Havre, Mont., this morning was 42 degrees below zero and zero temperatures or lower prevail as far south as the Kansas-Oklahoma border. These unusually low readings have been attended by snow, high winds and gales.

East of the Mississippi there have been numerous thunder showers in the southern states and snow in the northern regions. Thus far, the snow has been comparatively light but indications point to heavy snow in the lake regions and northern New England. The cold wave will overpass the east gulf states, the middle Mississippi valley and the lower Ohio valley in the next 24 hours and will reach the Atlantic coast states from Florida to Maine by Sunday morning.

MILK INSPECTOR OUSTED
PROVIDENCE OFFICIALS LEGISLATED OUT OF OFFICE TODAY—GUILTY OF NEGLIGENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 6.—Milk Inspector Scott of this city was legislated out of office and the milk department placed under the supervision of health under a bill passed in concurrence with the senate today. The bill was passed by the house last week. Scott was found guilty of negligence in office by an investigating committee of the city council but the board of aldermen failed to remove him.

It was very quiet at city hall today as compared with yesterday when Commissioner Brown and the assessors were exchanging compliments by messenger. And, by the way, the assessors are not going to resign and if the municipal council should, perchance, vote them out of office they would fight it out in the courts. It is generally conceded, however, that the possibility of their removal by the municipal council is very remote. At the meeting of the council next Tuesday Mr. Brown will move that the assessors be ousted from office. But who is going to second the motion? The city hall echo answers: "Nobody."

Third Edition GIRL DIES WITH ARMS AROUND MAN'S NECK

Auto at Ligonier, Pennsylvania,
Today—Each Had Been Shot
Through the Heart

GREENSBORO, Pa., Feb. 6.—Sitting upright, the bodies of John McFadden, aged 20, and Miss Anna Lutz, were found in an automobile two miles east of Ligonier, Westmoreland county, early today. The girl's arms were around McFadden's neck.

Each had been shot through the heart.

Love for two 18-year-old girls, the authorities learned, neither of whom knew of the other's existence, prompted McFadden to settle matters definitely.

In McFadden's pocket was a note saying that Bertha Milligan at Ligonier, Pa., could tell the cause of the tragedy. To Coroner McFurphy, the girl said McFadden had written her a letter yesterday telling her he was going to kill "the other girl" and himself.

McFadden took Miss Lutz for a ride last night in an auto owned by the garage for which he worked. A short time afterward he telephoned to his employer that he would never see him again and made him "Good-bye" automobiles were sent hurrying over the mountains to find the young man. When the searchers came upon the lone automobile its engines were still throbbing but the man and girl were dead.

LIMIT OF INDEBTEDNESS

City Can Borrow Beyond it for the Purpose of Restoring the Trust Funds

Proposals to the discussion having to do with the city's attitude relative to the trust funds with which the city has been saddled for years, our attention is called to chapter 634 of the Acts of 1913, wherein is an act to provide for the payment of outstanding demand notes and the restoration of trust funds by cities and towns.

The city of Lowell is paying six percent interest on two trust funds, the Nesmith and Tyler funds. These two funds amount to about $30,000 and the city has been paying six per cent. on that amount for years.

Com. Carmichael believes, and his belief is quite generally shared, that the city should appeal to the courts for the right to rid itself of these expensive funds by paying back the amounts which they represent to the heirs of the donors.

This suggestion was met with the statement that the city had spent the money and then somebody said that a new law governing the payment of such funds had gone into effect Jan. 1, 1914.

Section 1. During the year nineteen hundred and fourteen, every city or town which has at the time when this act takes effect outstanding notes payable on demand, or which has expended for the general expenses of the city or town trust funds which have not been restored, shall provide for the payment of such notes and for the restoration of such trust funds to the tax levy for the year nineteen hundred and fourteen, where such provision is reasonably practicable. But where it would be unreasonable, burdensome for the city or town to provide in the tax levy of the year nineteen hundred and fourteen for the payment of its outstanding demand notes and for the restoration of any trust funds heretofore expended for general expenses, such city or town may provide for such payment and restoration as authorized by section two of this act.

Section 2. For the purpose of paying any notes of a city or town payable on demand and outstanding when this act takes effect, and also for the purpose of restoring any trust funds which were expended by a city or town and subsequently expended by it for the general expenses of such city or town is hereby authorized to borrow outside the limit of indebtedness fixed by law for such city or town, a sum or sums of money not exceeding in the aggregate the amount required for paying such demand notes and for the restoration of such trust funds, and to issue notes or bonds therefor payable at periods not exceeding fifteen years from their respective dates of issue. Such notes or bonds shall be signed by the treasurer and countersigned by the mayor, and when issued by a town shall be signed by the treasurer and countersigned by the selectmen or by a majority of them, and shall bear interest, and shall be sold or disposed of in such manner and on such terms as the treasurer and mayor of the city or the treasurer and the selectmen of the town may determine, but they shall not be sold for less than their par value.

Section 3. Cities and towns, at the time of issuing such notes or bonds shall provide for the payment thereof by such annual payments as will extinguish the same within the time prescribed in the preceding section, and in such manner that the first of such annual payments shall be made not later than one year after the date of the bonds or notes issued therefor, and that the amount of such annual payments in any year shall not be less than the amount of the principal payable in any subsequent year; and such annual amount together with the interest payable in that year, shall, without further vote, be assessed annually thereafter until the whole debt is extinguished.

Section 4. This act shall take effect on the first day of January, nineteen hundred and fourteen. (Approved May 8, 1913.)

of Rice & Co. in Mt.

Quick Work Prevented
Spread of Fire—Loss
Estimated at $10,000

A fire, the origin of which is not known, broke out in the factory of Rice & Co. on Mt. Vernon street, near Broadway, shortly after 7 o'clock last night and caused a large loss. The fire, which was caused by a short circuit in the machinery, spread rapidly and threatened the building. It was stated last evening that the loss would be about $10,000.

The blaze was discovered by Patrolman Deering, who noticed smoke coming from the building, while covering his beat. He rushed to the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Broadway and rang in an alarm from box 14. When the apparatus arrived the interior of the rear part of the building was blazing furiously and at one time it was feared that the rendering works of Whitman & Frost were in danger. After about a half hour of hard work the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze although they were hampered by the volume of smoke caused by the burning of wires and machinery.

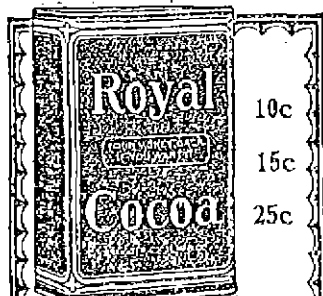

It is believed that the fire started in a section of the ceiling which has been used for some time. The plant, closed at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and there was no one employed at the building when the fire started.

The largest loss will be on machinery and wire stock although a part of the building was badly wrecked. The building is owned by Frank H. Haynes and George D. Hawley.

Elks hall was well filled last night at the business meeting of Lowell Nest No. 1235, Order of Owls. In the absence of President John E. MacCallum, Vice President Richard J. Flynn presided. The two membership teams, headed by Pres. MacCallum and Vice President Flynn respectively are showing great enthusiasm, and a long list of names of candidates for membership was presented which kept Secretary J. J. Hartnett very busy for some time. The honors for the two teams are pretty evenly divided. At the close of the team committee's reports, a large class of candidates was initiated. The Lowell Nest of Owls has now the largest membership of any nest in New England. A letter from Supreme President John W. Talbot commending the officer of the Lowell Nest, was

PECULIAR AFTER EFFECTS OF GRIP THIS YEAR

Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing, and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney trouble. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being a herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Hinghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles, 50c and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

read by the secretary, and the reading of this letter injected great enthusiasm into the meeting. The "Ladies" passed long and loud at the sentiments expressed by the "big owl" on the "great perch" in the supreme nest.

The sick and relief committee reported very little sickness among the members at present, but Vice President H. J. Flynn reported the death since the last meeting of Mrs. Louise M. MacCallum, wife of Worthy President John E. MacCallum and Brother John Nicholson.

Last President E. M. Bowers paid a most tender and eloquent tribute to the president's late wife and read with much feeling a memorial dedicated to her memory which was adopted as the sentiment of the nest and will be inscribed upon a memorial page of the nest's records, and another copy will be sent to the family of the deceased.

Many of the officers and members spoke under good and welfare. A reception was given the new members last initiated and the meeting seemed like a family gathering such a fraternal spirit was shown all through it.

Robbed by Thief

The variety store of Peter Coury in Liberty Square was broken into early yesterday morning and the contents of the cash register and a quantity of cigars taken. The owner of the store asserts that there was somewhere in the neighborhood of $25 in the cash register when he left the night before. The manner of entrance is supposed to have been through one of the large windows in the front of the store. A blast had broken out none of the glass on the day previous and the window was boarded up to keep out the cold. When Mr. Coury arrived at his store yesterday morning he discovered the remainder of the glass removed from the window, the boards pulled off and his cash and cigars missing. The matter was reported to the police.

TAX MEN WHO DRINK

DRINK COSTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—"I believe that every time a man takes a drink he ought to pay his wife twice as much as he spends for the drink."

So said Magistrate Preschl in night court when he sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse Frank Conway, a waiter, whom he had already characterized as "the most despicable man I ever knew."

Conway, out of work, was arrested for drunkenness last Sunday, and that night was arraigned before Magistrate Preschl. Before he was found guilty it developed in court that he had failed to support his young wife and baby.

A policeman who went to notify her of her husband's arrest arrived in time to prevent Mrs. Conway from committing suicide by plunging off the fire escape of her flat at 217 East 58th street, from which the family had just been dispossessed. She was removed to the house of detention. Her baby, suffering from privation and scarlet fever, was taken to the Willard Parker hospital.

Conway, who came up for sentence, told the court it was nobody's business how much he drank, and Magistrate Preschl said:

"Omar Khayyam has sung his praise of wine for the man who had no one dependent upon him. But for the man like yourself who has a family there is no falling back on the plea of personal liberty."

"You have boasted of your right to drink, but let me say that what may be right for the man who is not married may be a social crime for a man who has taken upon himself the responsibility of married life."

"A man who quails the exhilarating drink leaves sorrow for his wife to sup. Wine has increased the woe of your wife. A drunkard feels no one but himself. I believe that every time a man takes a drink he ought to pay his wife twice as much as he spends for the drink."

carder's famous silver anti-cigarrette treatment. It was the fourth weekly "anti-cigarrette clinic."

Anti-needle fans from New York and other nearby cities were there to see how it is done. The doorway was a sea of faces. The only reason no S. R. O. sign was hung is because they don't use S. R. O. signs in court rooms. Though the recipient's purpose was to treat boys and very young men, half the 150 last night were grown-ups. More might have been silvered, but the two doctors, exhausted and perspiring, used the final drop of their one-fourth of one per cent. nitrate of silver solution, and announced they were through. The gallant 150 were still handling their throats and clucking their tongues when Mrs. Jennie Holson Milligan, superintendent of the New York Anti-Cigarrette League, made a speech. Those who had finished all coughing and sneezing, nearly 100, were taken over when they learned from 14-year-old son to court. When he left

Mrs. Milligan that they also harbor carbon monoxide, arsenic, pyridine and tar—or words to that general effect.

"One cigarrette is more harmful than two ounces of crude whiskey," she continued. "Lying and stealing, which go hand in hand, are among the first habits that a cigar-smoking boy acquires."

"If you would live to be more than 30 years old, don't smoke cigarrettes. Don't make chimney out of your mouth. Statistics show that the average life of the cigar smoker is 30 years."

Mr. Peters was a strong supporter of Chairman John A. Sullivan of the Finance commission for the place, but now that the latter has accepted the appointment of corporation counsel from Mayor Curley, his name is withdrawn.

he had a silver throat, too, and clutched a prescription which calls for a mixture containing gentian root. This preparation goes hand in hand with the silver as a remedy for cigar habit.

"REIGN OF TERROR" OVER

Yeggman Who Terrorized Jamaica Plain, When Two Were Killed, Died in London

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The last chapter in the story of the "reign of terror" of July 21 and 22, 1903, in the Jamaica Plain district, when two men were killed and more than a score seriously injured, is contained in the report of Inspector Thomas H. Lynch of police headquarters, filed yesterday in the office of Dist. Atty. Pelletier. The story is ended, because all the criminals are dead.

The real end, as the inspector's report shows, came more than three years ago, for two of the three criminals who escaped from the local police had part in the Houndsfield jewelry robbery in London in December, 1910. One was shot and mortally wounded by one of his companions at the time, and the other was destroyed in the building in which he and other anarchists stood off the police until he was burned.

Not until a few months ago, however, did the Boston police find the trail that led to London, and last November Inspector Lynch was sent to England by Dist. Atty. Pelletier and Chief Inspector McGarr.

With the help of the Scotland Yard authorities he found what he wanted to know. He established the identity of the two criminals, learned of their deaths and brought back their pictures. He killed from here Nov. 3, and when he returned, he had virtually everything.

Since that time, however, he and Inspector Egan, who took an active part in the investigation of the Forest Hills shootings, have been conducting a supplementary investigation, which corroborated all that he learned in London.

The third yeggman, found dead, ridden with bullets, in Forest Hills cemetery at dawn of July 23, 1903, was identified at the time as Edmund Gutzman, a Lott, who had been employed in the gypsy moth service. The identity of his companions, however, was a mystery to the police, though a false clue led them after the Maude brothers.

It is now known they were Fritz Svans and Pookla Mourvitz, both Latvians and anarchists of the most desperate type, criminals with a long list of deaths to their reckoning. Both had many aliases.

Slew Gutzman to Order to Escape
In London the inspector learned that Gutzman was not killed by the shots of the Boston police, as had been supposed, but by Mourvitz before he and Svans fled, the reason being that the other man, with poor feet and a weak heart, confessed himself unable to keep their pace. Mourvitz feared he might be captured and might confess and would take no chances.

It was just before 11 o'clock on the night of July 31, 1903, that the three yeggmen entered the saloon of Westons & McLannans at 1111 Washington street, Cambridge Place, and began to insistently kill Frank J. Drake and wounding others.

They got little spoil, however, and retreated toward Forest Hills cemetery, where they hid that night and the next day. Venturing out at dusk to forage, they were spotted out, and a running fight followed in which they shot nearly a score of persons, Herbert W. Knox, the watchman, trying to keep them from entering the cemetery, was killed—the London account is, by Svans.

That night the police and armed citizens surrounded the cemetery and in the morning entered it and charged the yeggmen. Only Gutzman, however, and he was dead; the other two had escaped and were not seen again.

Lynch Sent on Tip From Letts Here
The police investigation of the case, begun then, had never really stopped, but the police were long misled by supposing that Gutzman's companions had been Gutzman, like him, as gypsy moth workers.

Last November, however, the police learned of gossip current among the Letts that the two men were or had been in London, and it was decided to send Inspector Lynch there.

Before that time, indeed, Inspector Lynch knew that Svans and Mourvitz had come here from Philadelphia in July, 1903, and that with Gutzman they lodged at the home of Mrs. Alvina Goss, 7 Cedar Grove terrace, Boston. Two days before the shooting, however, the three disappeared from their lodgings.

Svans, as the inspector learned after his return, had been here frequently before that time and was well known among the Letts of Greater Boston. Less was known of Mourvitz, and though many recognized Svans, when shown the photograph brought from England, few professed to recall him, and only when documentary proof was exhibited were they satisfied that he was the other man.

Scotland Yard's Help
Inspector Lynch was given all courtesies in London: Edward Bell, second secretary at the American Embassy, introduced him to Supt. John McGarr, and Supt. Patrick Quinn of Scotland Yard. Detective McNamara was assigned to assist him, and he also received assistance from Supt. John Ottaway, John Wells and Ernest Tupe of the London city police.

Within a fortnight they obtained information that satisfied the inspector beyond a doubt that Mourvitz and Svans were Gutzman's companions, for the papers in the Houndsfield case showed that both men had boasted before of the saloon and cemetery murders in America.

After the death of Svans in the Sydney street "battle," one of the women with whom he and his companions had been associating talked freely and told the police as much of Svans' and Mourvitz's stories as she knew. She could not tell the London police where the boasted American murders had been done, but there were enough details to make the inspector sure they were the men.

PAINTERS UNION

Observed Fourteenth Anniversary by Banquet Last Night

With a very fitting program (the fourteenth anniversary of Painters' union, local 29, was observed in its hall in the Runkels building last evening. A large number of painters and guests was present and from the time the gathering was called to order until after 11 o'clock there was something going on of great interest to all present.

One of the features was the speaking of James A. Millivan of Worcester and Michael A. Lee, business agent of the local Carpenters' union. During the evening a palatable collation was served and music was furnished by well known local talent. The music was good and when the musicians played the popular airs they were assisted by the entire assembly who joined in and sang so that the hall resounded with the melody of voices.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Charles O. Dunn, president of the local organization, and after a few remarks of welcome he spoke upon the ups and downs of the union during the past few years and urged the men to stay together and the work that is being done at the present day will be continued.

A pleasing piano solo was given by Frank Mills after which Michael A. Lee was called upon. Mr. Lee said in part: "To the older members of this organization an occasion of this kind means a great deal more than to the young. The men who were initiated during the past year do not know what a real organization is. They do not realize what the members actually do in order to bring the local to the front so that the painters could get a decent day's pay for a decent day's work."

"If you painters should have trouble the one thing for you to do is to get together, take the advice of the older men and fight the battle shoulder to shoulder. If you do this in another year when you gather here you will be a great deal stronger than at the present time."

A three-round boxing match between Eddie Cox and his partner entertained the members for several minutes. John Carroll displayed his ability as a singer. Selections were given by the Spillville City quartet and the Lindsey brothers and all were greeted with tone and loud applause.

James A. Millivan of Worcester was introduced by Chairman Dunn and spoke at some length on the work of the painters throughout the state. He said in part: "In this age of progress the modern shop demands profit from every man that works. When he cannot deliver what the boss believes to be a day's work he is cast aside and one of the duties for us to teach the young painter is to affiliate himself with the organization and work with his fellow men. The man who stays outside makes the task much harder for the union men."

Local selections were furnished by Bert Hildell, Thomas Traversy and others and the gathering was declared one of the most successful ever conducted by the painters of Lowell.

HITCH CAIRS
The attractive show rooms of the Lowell Buick company present the appearance of a miniature auto show in themselves. For the last two days Mr. P. B. Emerson, the manager, has been very busy displaying the latest models to enthusiastic audiences. The show rooms are open evening and Mr. Emerson expects an overflow of interested spectators at the closing of the show tomorrow night. The public is cordially invited to attend and many have taken advantage of this courtesy of the management.

The show thus far marks the third annual display by this progressive firm.

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES PROPOSED BY DELEGATES AT MEETING IN NEW YORK
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Changes in the rules to restrict the forward pass which last season was used so successfully by the smaller college teams, many times spelling defeat for larger teams, were proposed today by delegates to the meeting of the intercollegiate football rules committee. Several plans were suggested to make the play harder of execution by making it obligatory on the part of the thrower to toss the ball without delay after receiving the snap of the line. As the rule now stands the thrower may delay delivery of the ball as long as he likes and may run to any part of the field before making the throw. The long looked for innovation of numbering the players had many backers at today's meeting. Walter Camp of Yale, Park Davis of Princeton, Head Coach George Brooke of Pennsylvania and many other prominent football men favor this move, urging it is a great aid to the spectators in following and identifying players in the field.

Geo. A. Broderick of Boston Post Victim of Ptomaine Poisoning
BOSTON, Feb. 6.—George A. Broderick of Cambridge who for the past five years has been connected with the editorial department of the Boston Post, died at the Carney hospital yesterday noon after a week's illness caused by ptomaine poisoning and pleurisy. Broderick began newspaper work in 1903 while a student at the Harvard Medical school. When, after two years, he was obliged to give up his preparation for the medical profession because of ill health, he naturally turned to newspaper work. He joined the regular staff of one of the Boston dailies.

His thoroughness and pleasing personality soon won him recognition and advancement. More than five years ago he became the representative of the Boston Post in Cambridge and the Middlesex superior courts at East Cambridge. He was extremely popular there and was a personal friend of nearly every one in the various court buildings where he spent most of his time.

MEASURES BEFORE LEGISLATURE VICIOUS, SAYS ATWOOD—TWO MANY ATTACK BIG BUSINESS
BOSTON, Feb. 6.—That 90 per cent of the bills before the Massachusetts legislature are vicious and uncalled for; that ministers and others are too much inclined to attack "big business," and that the pulpit has failed to appreciate the creed of Christ for the 20th century were some of the points made by Harry F. Atwood yesterday in his address at the assembly luncheon of the Boston chamber of commerce at the American House yesterday afternoon.

The speaker, who is field secretary of the chamber of commerce of the United States, spoke on Abraham Lincoln, comparing the duties of the martyred president to his generation with the duties of the chambers of commerce to the present generation.

He denounced the alleged attacks of the clergy and political class denunciations upon the work of the commercial organizations, saying that they asserted with rancor and follies. He declared that 90 per cent of the 2000 bills before the present Massachusetts legislature would be injurious to the commonwealth and he criticized the city of Boston for allowing the continuance of its election day at a season when nothing but the worst possible weather could be expected.

"The chambers of commerce are doing a great work," said the speaker. "Before Lincoln's time the problems of this nation had to face were those of freedom and religion. Today the problems are of commerce, of civic reform and big business. It is high time that our work was appreciated. We have had enough of the denunciations upon the part of the pulpit. The pulpit fails to appreciate the creed of Christ for the 20th century and they go out of their way to attack men whose contributions make possible the maintenance of the church."

"And we have had enough of these denunciations," who stand around on street corners for a hundred and then go and preach class distinction. It is high time, too, that the men in political life ceased to hurl epithets and abuse at their rivals at times when a eulogy is merited. There is too much hard work to do without playing with rancor and follies."

In concluding he held of the ability of the chamber of commerce to secure information and expert opinion, and declared that unlike the age of Lincoln, when citizens were called upon to die for their country, the citizens of this age were asked to live for their country.

TEST BY NAVAL OFFICERS
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The latest way to meet the physical test imposed on naval officers is to walk ten miles on the promenade deck of a steamer while she is drumming out the mites between Liverpool and New York. This method was discovered by Captain George Cooper, U. S. N., chief of the hydrographic office. Captain Cooper was a delegate to the recent international conference on safety of life at sea at London and returned to the United States on the Olympic. He walked around her deck more than 40 times on sunny afternoons.

TREATMENT OF CANCER
SEC. LANE SEES IN DEATH OF CONG. BRENNER NECESSITY OF EARLY TREATMENT
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Secretary Lane of the department of interior sees in the death yesterday of Rep. Robert G. Brenner of New Jersey, a plea for the treatment of cancer in its early stages and an increased supply of radium as an aid in the fight against the disease.

In an official statement today Secretary Lane, who has strongly advocated legislation for the conservation of the nation's radium, said:

"The surgeons in charge of the Baltimore hospital were reluctant to use the radium treatment in Mr. Brenner's case because, as they said, the one gram of radium that they could bring together in the United States for use in his case would be entirely inadequate for attacking with any hope of success the giant cancerous growth that was sapping the life of the young member of congress."

EASTERN R. R. RATE ADVANCE

Athletes and Athletics

Joe Egan gave a great come back performance last night in his bout at the Lawrence club with Young Jasper. Jasper never had a chance from the opening round for Egan's left hand was always in the way when he tried to get in at close quarters. Egan is only a youngster, yet and many think that he will make a name for himself in the welterweight division.

The Harvard-Yale hockey game tonight will take on the aspect of a big intercollegiate sport. The cheering sections of both teams will be in evidence and the arena will be taxed to its capacity by the crowd which will pour into the bleachers. The Harvard cheering section will consist of 1500 undergraduates. The Crimson is picked to win.

George Tyler is still sitting tight and perhaps the Boston Braves will learn that they made a grave mistake when they tried to drive him into signing a contract by utilizing a couple of press agents. The ex-lawyer, pitcher, is saying not a word but you may take it from us that he is doing a lot of tall thinking at least.

There are several local basketball teams which are claiming the city championship in the sport. Why wouldn't it be a good idea, boys, to get together and arrange a series of elimination contests so that the point would not be obliged to base their judgment of the best team on hearsay evidence?

Sunday baseball and legalized boxing seem to be on about the same footing among the varieties of the state house. Although the boxing law will probably be defeated it is a fact that some of the legislators who will cast their vote against it would not think of missing a good bout anywhere in their vicinity.

Reports from the world touring Giants and White Sox seem to indicate that the exchequer, although not greatly fattened thus far, is not being drained. The baseball teams will arrive at Naples tomorrow and will receive a big ovation at the hands of the natives in their vicinity.

The Federals are now making big inroads into the ranks of some of the AA teams. Many signatures have been received from players who are not quite fast enough to climb into the big show. Carlstrom, the star infielder of the Lawrence team for the past two years, is one of the players who cast his lot with the new league.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE QUESTION

Taking advantage of the liberal tendencies of the democratic party since the inauguration of President Wilson, some of the women prominent in the movement for woman suffrage have striven to get federal action on the question or at least to get the president to give some pledge of his support. Thus far they have been unable to get a definite pronouncement from him, and though some of the leaders in the movement declare that he is in sympathy with their aims, the president has merely referred the women to the legislatures of their various states, telling them that it is a question for the several states to settle in the way each thinks best.

Apart from this expressed stand of the president, all doubts as to where his party stands were put to rest by the statement of Democratic Leader Underwood in the house Wednesday to the effect that the democratic party is opposed to federal action. If the enfranchisement of American women is to become universal—and many who are opposed to it so believe, as well as its supporters—it will come about by the action of each state individually. Mr. Underwood's declaration came as the result of a heated argument with Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin, who hinted that some democratic action regarding committee hearings was meant to prevent women arguing their case before congress. Denying this strongly, Mr. Underwood made the democratic stand plain by saying: "If there is one fundamental principle that my party stands for, it is local self-government. If the democratic party stands for one thing above all others, it is that the right of franchise shall be governed by the states of the Union, and not by the national government."

It will probably occur to the leaders in the suffrage movement as the result of their ineffectual attempt to get federal action on their cause that many of their methods in support of suffrage are more spectacular than effectual. Working for the ballot does not change the leaning of the women for picturesque effect, and though the woman suffrage body as a whole may not be responsible for the parades, appeals, and visits to national leaders, these activities will continue no matter how ineffectual they may vote in bringing about the end desired. Indeed when we look at the frenzied antics of the militant suffragettes of England we ought to be grateful that the zeal of the American suffragettes is manifested so sanely. If ineffectually. If results are desired however, instead of spectacular manifestations of feminine originality, the leaders of the suffragette movement will bend all their energies to the conversion of their state legislatures, remembering that, during the democratic administration at least, and indeed during all administrations, that they will be unable to get the matter introduced into congress as a national issue.

DIVORCE A NATIONAL ISSUE

The country wide agitation in favor of making more stringent laws regarding marriage and divorce has at last found an echo in Washington where Senator Ransdell of Louisiana has proposed an amendment to the constitution which would deny to those who have been divorced the right to remarry so long as the divorced partner is living. Appended to the federal amendment would be recommendations for the enactment of uniform marriage laws for all states and territories with provision for separation without permission to remarry. The senator defended his intended bill on the grounds of national necessity, arguing that divorce is gradually destroying the home life of the union, without which there can be no society, and on which all wise governments are patterned.

When we consider some of the facts and figures supplied by Senator Ransdell, we may decide that the question of national restriction of divorce in some of its phases is a vital necessity from the economic as well as the moral standpoint. The number of divorces granted in this country annually is more than twice as many for all the rest of Christendom, and the terrible record is growing worse instead of better. The total number of divorces granted in 1867 was 9937 or 27 per 100,000 population. Forty years later, or in 1906, there were 72,052 divorces, or 56 per 100,000. If the proportionate increase keeps up, and there is every reason to suppose that it will not checked, we will have a divorce for every five marriages annually in less than 40 years.

The senator makes some wise and pertinent reflections regarding the effect of the divorce evil on our national life. It breaks up families first of all for though some who were divorced afterwards married and became useful members of society, there are far more wrecks as a result. The parents, loosed from the family ties, become lax in domestic relations while children grow up without knowing of the home atmosphere that only a united parentage can give. It also degrades the sanctity of the family tie and tends to race suicide. When marriage ceases to be considered sacred and binding, the family relationships become obscured. The suggested plan of the Washington legislature may be needlessly stringent, but there is great need for some national laws to ameliorate present conditions surrounding the American divorce question.

AS TO MONOPOLY

The more one thinks of some forms of monopoly the more apparent it becomes that if it is to be checked, the initiative must come from the forces of monopoly themselves, for there are scores of practices which are virtually offences against the spirit of the Sherman act but which could scarcely come under the positive workings of the old law. Anyone who has had a little experience in state-wide selling of almost any commodity will at once discover that there are agreements between competitors in business and between manufacturers and consumers which have a strong bearing on the regulation of prices and the limitation of business territory. A mill trades with a certain firm or individual, for instance, in the purchase of its supplies. For years it has given all its business to this one source. Suddenly comes a representative of a distant firm who offers some commodity at a slightly lower price. What does the mill do? Not infrequently it calls up the usual source of supplies and tells of the new proposition. Remembering the old patronage and the business to follow, the older business agrees to make the slight reduction required, and so competition is killed. A proceeding of this nature is as effectual in restraining business as though some positive understanding existed but it is a common occurrence and would be regarded by many as a legitimate business proposition. We may have laws within laws but until business decides to abandon practices such as this we will have combinations and monopolies that neither the old law nor the new law can effectually kill.

ANTI-TIPPING BILL

One of the peculiar bills bordering on the "freak" variety in this term of the legislature is that which would make tipping in a hotel, restaurant, cafe, or buffet, punishable by law, but it has good foundation for being. Tipping has become one of the greatest nuisances of social life and complaints are heard on all sides as to its injurious effects on him who gives a tip and on him who doesn't. It is simply a polite form of extortion, for it is doubtful if one in twenty pays a tip without a mental qualm. The tipping practice has been the source of almost unlimited insolence, for to offend those who wait "with beseeching palm and eager eye" as a contemporary well says, is to incur the hostility of an element powerful to offend. There should be one standard price for food and other commodities, and if the waiter is not paid enough to give good service, the matter is up to the proprietor. When the public decides to give no more tips, those who run hotels, cafes and such places will either have to do without employees or will have to pay them enough. Self-respecting waiters should be the first to protest against the tip, which is either a bribe or a donation dictated by charity. It is doubtful, however, if the tipping problem is within the confines of legislative restriction or limitation.

COURT REFORM

The chief justice of the Vermont supreme court has made a suggestion that if adopted generally would do much to reform court procedure and give greater dignity to legal proceedings and to the medical profession. He suggests that in cases where expert testimony is deemed advisable, the witnesses be called by the court instead of by either side engaged in legal controversy. This would prevent the frequent exhibition of learning commercialized for unconscionable financial gain, and the shameful spectacle of men of education and experience flitting contradicting each other in the name of a common profession. When we see the resultant confusion among the more or less disinterested public, what must not be the result in the minds of the jury? The present system of introducing expert testimony in American courts is one of the most flagrant evils of court procedure, and the Vermont suggestion affords one way by which to effect it.

A SWINDLING PROTECTIONIST

Former Congressman Littauer and his brother William have pleaded guilty in New York to the charge of attempting to swindle the government by smuggling jewelry from abroad, and have been fined $1000 each with the additional penalty of a suspended sentence of six months in jail. This conspiracy to defraud is particularly odious in the person of a politician who has been identified with the fight to retain the high tariff, and who has in the past profited much from the high tariff on gloves. It is a shameful spectacle to see one who has served 10 years in congress as representative of the people arraigned under the terms of a law to which he was strenuously opposed, and it is to be feared that he is a type of the insincere protectionists who were instrumental in framing the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. The incident is one more argument in favor of the selecting of honest politicians as the first essential for the framing of just and honest laws.

AROUND THE WORLD

Any aviator who wishes to be considered up-to-date at the present time must give newspaper interviewers some of his intimate views regarding his ambition to cross the Atlantic via the aerial route, and so often has the matter been broached that the world is expecting it and will not stand still in anaze like Joshua's sun when it is finally accomplished. Far different, however, is the proposition of the Panama exposition management which offers a prize of $150,000 to the aviator who will finish first in a flight around the world. The achievements of aviation have not yet been remarkable enough to warrant faith in a flight circling the earth, but it will come undoubtedly. When we are dust for a century or two the children of the future may take trips to Mars that will shame the imaginary flights of Jules Verne.

Morris McDonald is going back to the old job on the Maine Central, tired no doubt of trying to put the Boston and Maine puzzle picture together. Who could be president when every man of the street sets himself up an advisory counsel?

So some Massachusetts women's clubs approve of the bill to allow women to be policemen! Wonder what form hearings on conduct unbecoming an officer will take when that comes to pass.

Whether we think that our city is represented sufficiently in bills before the legislature or not, all credit to the powers that be for the grateful fact that we are not represented by any bills of the rabidly ridiculous species.

Putting off until tomorrow what we can do today may work with magic effect in the contagious hospital matter, but what about that penalty provided for each refusal?

Daffodils in the florists' shops; straw hats in the milliners! Soon the spring will be here and the notes of the turtle—and the hurdy-gurdy—will be heard in the land.

Seen and Heard

Any woman can manage a man if she isn't married to him.

Why does a man always look straight past you and never at you when he is driving his offspring in a baby buggy? What is he ashamed of?

The old-fashioned woman who used to have a big day's washing done by breakfast time now has a daughter who has to take a bottle of Persa-boncle every time she iron a two-by-two handkerchief on a window pane.

Away down in our hearts we all believe that this would be a fine world if other men were only as thoughtful as unselfish and as clever as we are.

You can't make a woman believe that she ever loses her charm. The older she gets the more flour she plasters on her face.

Mother can take a dollar and go into a dry goods emporium and come out with six packages and a cartage. But father can go into a wet goods emporium with ten dollars and come out with a package and no cartage.

Of course the styles worn by the women are funny, and we have to laugh at them. But a lot of perfectly good horse blankets were ruined when they were turned into the machine-lavva the fool men are proudly wearing.

Along the highways of Topsam, Me. where new state roads are being built, wild apple trees outside the old stone walls are being grafted with summer apples. Big trees bear metal signs informing the public that the fruit is for public use, simply requesting care and consideration.

Women, like rabbits, are of ill omen to the miner. In many places, particularly in Wales, if a pitman meets or sees a woman on his way to work he will turn back, for such an encounter is held to forebode evil not only to the man himself, but all of his associates. At Oswestry, some years ago a woman was employed as dressmaker by one of the collieries, and in the course of her duties met many of the colliers on their way to work. The men immediately told the manager that they could not run the risk of ill luck entailed in meeting a woman on the way to the pit, and threatened to strike if she were not dismissed.

"Before the eyes of men let duty shine thy light, But ever let thy life's best part be out of sight."

To live content with small means—to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion—to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy not rich—to study hard, think quietly, talk gently, act frankly—to listen to stars and birds, to babes and sages, with open heart—to bear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never—in a word to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious, grow up through the common-sense, to be my symphony.—William H. Channing.

"No woman need envy the sphinx her wisdom if she has learned the uses of silence and never asks a favor of a hungry man."

To go on cheerfully with a petty round of little duties, little avocations, to smile for the joy of others when the heart is achingly full, to do this, his work will follow him. He may not be a hero to the world, but he is one of God's heroes.—Canon Farrar.

MOTHER'S ALMANAC

I tell you when it comes to dates, My mother's just the boss! She tells me all I want to know "Thout ever gettin' cross. You'd think she'd get mixed up some-times: At school I know I do—'Bout Washington and Plymouth Rock, And 1432.

But mother says, "The war with Spain Was fought in '98. The year you all had chicken pox. Exceptin' Sister Kate. The Boer war in Africa— That was a dreadful thing— Began in '90, I know. For Jack was born that spring.

"In '92 the Spanish ships Were sunk in Cuban channels. 'Twas summer, for you children had Just changed your winter dannels.

"In 1904, my dear, The Russians fought the Japs, That year was very cold and you Had chilblains and the chaps."

There are six of us and we're all mixed up With history just that way; Sometimes it's measles, croup or mumps. But there's no date that ever stumps My mother, night or day.

OLD IDEAS SAVED HIM "And did you say that you are innocent of the charge of stealing a rooster from Mr. Jones?" asked an Arkansas judge of a meek-looking prisoner.

"Yes, sir; and I can prove it." "How can you prove it?"

"I can prove that I didn't steal Mr. Jones' rooster, judge, because I stole two hens from Mr. Graston the same night, and Jones lives five miles from Graston's."

"The proof is conclusive," said the judge. "Discharge the prisoner."—The Hoboth Sunday Herald.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE IMMIGRANT Fall River Herald: None will deny that there is opportunity for the new comer; if it were not so the population would increase more slowly than it does. By the same token it is clear that a large lot of strangers are getting on very well in this new land with the aid of such agencies as are now at work to make them comfortable in a strange land. Maybe these agencies could be multiplied and varied, but excellent evidence that the stranger in this broad land is getting a reasonably fair show under existing conditions is presented whenever the assessors make public the annual tax levies.

TITLES New Bedford Standard: American brides who are so eager to marry into the nobility of European countries would probably make any sacrifice to get, as husband, one of the royalty, even if, like Manuel of Portugal, he happened to be a king out of job. Yet the father of Princess Augustine, who became Manuel's wife, permitted the marriage only on condition that his prospective son-in-law renounce all claims to the Portuguese throne. Probably he knew that Manuel is not the kind of man to fight for a throne; but even so, his position shows a true and enterprising perspective on the value of a mere title that is shown by those American girls who pay millions to be a countess or a duchess.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE GAINING Newport News: The women have gained a point in New Jersey, the house resolution submitting a constitutional amendment extending to them the right of suffrage. This must be approved by the senate and confirmed by the next legislature before it goes to the referendum vote of the people. It is a step, however, which New Jersey has not before taken.

THE PRESIDENT'S READING

Haverhill Gazette: But it is certain that President Wilson's mind in youth was not formed of hollow novels, as Carlyle was not of trash. The word that the president reads cheap novels as a mental relaxation shows that he is human, but does not furnish excuse to boys who are corrupting their tastes and stupefying their minds by similar reading. The boy who is addicted to dime novels, you may be sure, is addicted to no better kind of reading. Besides the mind of youth is not the mind of the adult; it is more plastic, impressionable, more easily aroused, less disciplined, governed, formed. What a man's mind can play with and dislodge, the youth's mind is fatally affected by.

THE FIRE DEPT.

Of Billerica Highly Complimented for Effective Work

The fire department of Billerica is the subject of much talk in the village since the fire that destroyed the residence of Abundus Polter near the Chelmsford line, but fortunately the discussion is in favor of the department. As a rule, the fire departments of the suburban towns are generally criticized, but this is an exception to the rule, for words of praise are coming from all parts of the town, and especially from the many people who witnessed the fire last Monday.

One man especially, A. A. Arpin, a neighbor of the Polter family, pays a very good tribute to the department by saying the handful of men who worked in extinguishing the flames at the Polter home are capable and conscientious workers and their knowledge of this particular line of work is such that they could do effective work on any large city fire department.

Mr. Arpin, in conversation with the writer, said when the flames burst through the roof of the Polter residence, he (Arpin) gave up all hopes for his home, which was situated just a few feet away from the fire. He said: "We immediately got busy in removing the furniture and all other valuable articles, for it looked as though my home would also be gutted. The men of the fire department arrived on the scene of the conflagration and although they were handicapped by the lack of water, they did efficient work. The fire fighters showed they knew their business, for when they saw the place was doomed they concentrated their efforts on protecting the adjoining property."

There has been so much talk about the Tewksbury and Dracut fire departments of late that I think it is only right to let the citizens of Billerica know that they are as well protected under the wings of our fire department as they would be were they living in the city. It was but a few minutes after the alarm had been given that the men of the department arrived on the scene and within a short time several lines of hose were put in operation but the fire had made such headway before the firemen were summoned that it was impossible under the circumstances to save the building. The other surrounding buildings, however, were in great danger and it is fair to assume that if the men did not know their business the entire block would have been wiped out, for water was very scarce.

Mr. Arpin then said he was very grateful to the department and concluded by saying he hopes the other towns will secure as good and efficient workers as the men who compose the Billerica fire department.

MAY BE LAW VIOLATOR

BARBER'S RIGHT TO GIVE FACIAL MASSAGE WITHOUT A LICENSE IS QUESTIONED

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The point that your barber is very possibly violating the law when he gives you a facial massage and the trainer laying himself open to a fine, when he rubs down an athlete, was brought out yesterday in the Malden district court, before Judge Bruce, and is to be further investigated by the justice.

The case was that of William H. Parker, a practitioner of the so-called chiropractic method of healing in Everett, who pleaded guilty to practicing medicine without a license.

This did not satisfy Judge Bruce, when he discovered that one of the complaints against Parker, supported by the osteopaths, was that he was giving massage treatment illegally under the license he had.

Judge Bruce promptly said he wanted to know what would be the legal standing of barbers, trainers, and others who practice massage in one form or another.

The question was raised by lawyers present that a chiropractor might turn out legally to be merely a barber in disguise.

The case was finally continued to Feb. 17, the judge asking that evidence be pronounced on every possible legal phase of the situation at that time.

COLLUSION IS CHARGED

MAYOR CURLEY OF BOSTON REJECTS ALL BIDS ON TWO BIG CONTRACTS

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—That there has been collusion by business firms in connection with recent bids for city contracts is suspected by Mayor Curley, according to an announcement which the mayor made last night.

It was stated by the mayor that he ordered all of the bids for two city contracts rejected because it appeared to him as if there "might have been collusion among the bidders."

The contracts were those for the repaving of artificial sidewalks and for the collection of ashes and garbage in the Dorchester district.

It was learned by the mayor from Commissioner of Public Works Bourke that there was a difference of but 15 between the two lowest bids for the repaving of artificial sidewalks, while the two other bidders were $1600 and $1800 apart. This, the mayor said, did not look at all good to him.

ST. ELIZABETH'S HOSPITAL

FINAL MEETING OF CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE—CARDINAL O'CONNELL THANKS ALL

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—While addressing about 200 team workers and general committeemen, who had worked on the collection of the $200,000 fund for the new St. Elizabeth hospital, in the City club last evening at the closing meeting, Cardinal O'Connell broke down during the speech, overcome as few had ever seen him.

From his heart went out an evidence of what he felt for the men who were before him and, as he said, for those who were scattered through the diocese and for the thousands of good people who had entered into the campaign with a spirit backed by faith.

The 200 men sat silent. No one moved nor turned in his chair. It was a dramatic two minutes until the cardinal resumed, his words coming slowly, with an evident tremble in his voice. Everyone present was affected by the incident. He had been speaking of the great faith of the people which prompted them to rally to the support of the campaign to establish the new hospital.

As he touched upon the amount of the contributions, his voice quavered for the moment. He attempted to continue and again stopped, the tears coming down his cheeks while the 200 men looked on in silence.

The cardinal was interrupted at least eight times when he resumed, cheers and applause greeting his remarks from time to time. It was a demonstration that has seldom been seen at a Catholic gathering in this city. So intense was the sentiment, that at its conclusion ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald moved and it was carried that the chairman of the general committee should appoint a committee of five to organize permanently the team workers and general committee.

It was also moved and a rising vote of thanks extended to the non-Catholic people of the diocese who had so generously contributed to the fund and who in many ways had assisted in the work.

Final Campaign Meeting

The meeting was the final one of the campaign workers. Chairman Falvey of the general committee called the gathering to order and thanked the workers and all for their cooperation, making a particular compliment to the great of the city for the very able manner in which it had not forth the object and progress of the 10-day campaign. His words were greeted with cheers.

Mon. Joseph H. O'Neil was then introduced as toastmaster. He was in his wittiest vein throughout the evening, and between himself and several of the speakers many pleasanties were passed that materially enlivened the proceedings.

Mr. O'Neil, who was the campaign treasurer, said 55 per cent of the total was in cash and only a bare 15 per cent in pledges and all of the latter would be returned before Jan. 1 of next year, the pledges being in agreements for four payments in the meantime.

Mr. O'Neil then read a certificate, saying, as he addressed Cardinal O'Connell, that this was the object of the meeting. The certificate stated: "We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $200,000, this sum being the amount subscribed toward the new St. Elizabeth hospital by the big hearted people of the Boston diocese."

BIG MACHINISTS MEETING

At Which E. S. Ago Spoke on the Free Speech Crusade in New Hampshire

The machinists and representatives of other trade unions in Lowell gave a rousing reception, last night, to Edward S. Ago, the central figure in the free speech war at Claremont, N. H. Mr. Ago is an organizer for the International Association of Machinists, and when he and his co-workers struck Claremont, N. H., they found that employers of machinists there did not want their employees to organize. The result was that Ago and three others were arrested and slept in the "cooler" over night.

The reception to Mr. Ago last night, was held in Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street, and the attendance numbered over 500. Organizer Frank Young presided and the speakers included Mr. Ago, Harry W. Kinsman of Lynn; Michael A. Lee of Boston; Dr. John Cowper of Lynn, familiarly known as "Doc" Cowper, probably the oldest organizer in the state. He is verging on the 70's and is an active organizer for the Carpenters' union. He made a stirring address last night and the reception tendered him must have warmed the cockles of his brave old heart.

The reception to Mr. Ago afforded him an opportunity to tell his experiences in Claremont, N. H., and to explain what his arrest means to unionism and free speech. He said that upon arriving in Claremont, the manufacturers went to the board of trade and in order to prevent him from speaking they engaged every hall in the place. That drove Mr. Ago and his co-workers to the street. Then the scientists got together and drew up an ordinance making speech-making in the public street a criminal offense. The police went to the hotel where Ago and his comrades were stopping and ordered them to leave town. They decided they would not leave under fire and instead of leaving they went back to the street and made speeches. Then they were arrested and lodged in jail.

It was explained by Organizer Young that the International Association of Machinists would make the Ago case a test case to determine the right of free speech. The association has employed the best legal talent in New Hampshire. The case is now before the supreme court and the association will fight it to the finish.

At the meeting last night resolutions were drawn up requesting Association President Johnson to use his influence to make the Ago case a test case in every sense of the word.

PREMIER ASKED TO QUIT SUE ASSOCIATED PRESS

YAMAMOTO OF JAPAN INVITED TO RESIGN BY DELEGATION OF CITIZENS

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—Premier Yamamoto of Japan was invited today to resign by a delegation of citizens and politicians from the province of Fukuoka because of the scandals that have arisen out of contracts for naval supplies, according to cable advices received here from Tokyo last night. The delegation made its next visit to Admiral Kuroki and demanded that he commit hara-kiri because of his alleged connection with the so-called graft case. Members of the party accused him of having received money from the Japanese branch of the Siemens Co. of Germany, which has supplied various kinds of apparatus for new battleships.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Sun Printing and Publishing association of New York, has presented a statement to Attorney-General McInerney, asking that he institute in behalf of the government, proceedings in respect of the Associated Press for violation of the Sherman act, alleging refusal to sell news to the New York Sun.

The newspaper declined to apply for membership in the Associated Press and claimed the right to buy the news of the organization. The officers of the Associated Press have notified the attorney-general that any information in their possession will be cheerfully placed at his disposal.

At Shedd Park and Probably the Last of the Season

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Hans Schmidt was found guilty yesterday of murder in the first degree for killing Anna Aumuller, a young woman he had married by a self-performed ceremony.

The penalty of the crime is death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison. He will be sentenced next Wednesday.

Schmidt, whose defense was insanity, laughed when the verdict was pronounced. He had steadfastly declared himself guilty and at his arraignment before being held for the supreme court pleaded that he be punished by death.

Later he protested against the insanity defense advanced by his counsel, and last night said he would not assist them in any way if they prepared an appeal.

"I would rather die tonight than tomorrow," he said. "It is as it should be and as I wish it."

This was the second trial and the jury was a foregone conclusion. The first trial the jury disagreed. Attorneys for prosecution and defense supplied most of the testimony at both trials.

Pinklets Really Do Correct Constipation

There are few persons who do not suffer more or less from constipation and because of the discomfort it causes and the ill-health that results from this condition everyone should know how to properly correct it.

Harsh purgatives, formerly much used, act violently and leave the constitution worse than before. Pinklets correct the unnatural and dangerous condition by gently assisting the sluggish bowels and torpid liver to regain their normal activity. Their action is gentle, but effective and thorough, and they do not cause a single gripe. Unlike strong purgatives, Pinklets do not upset the stomach nor irritate and over-stimulate the bowels. Because they have none of these evil effects, they can be taken with entire safety until the constipation is corrected.

To simply regulate the bowels or to treat obstinate cases of constipation, Pinklets are the ideal laxative. They are safe for every member of the family to use. Any druggist can supply you at 25 cents per bottle. Write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a Pinklet book which tells all about the cause, symptoms and treatment of constipation and sick headache.

A Simple Remedy to Correct Constipation Before It Becomes Chronic

Very few people go through life without some thin or other being troubled with constipation. Those who suffer from this trouble, should take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. They have temporary value in some cases, it is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a reliable remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not hide behind a high sounding name, but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to their infants, and yet it is so compounded, and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation.

In fact, among the greatest endorers of Syrup Pepsin are elderly people who have suffered for years and to their nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsin.

It is a fact that millions of families have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, homes like those of Mr. H. W. Fenstermaker, Siegfried, Pa. He says he has had wonderful results from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, that, in fact, he has never found a remedy so good, and he is glad to recommend it. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is suited to the needs of every member of the family. It is

TUDOR TEA

Why are there more packages of Tudor Tea sold in Boston than of any other brand?

The transcendent cup quality and delicate flavor of the Tudor Tea are not due to accident but to the infinite pains taken even in the smallest details by those who blend and pack it.

The Tudor Tea is grown in beautiful private estates on the sunny slopes of the high hills of Ceylon. The small tender leaves of the Tudor Tea are plucked in the early spring while they are full of succulent juices, thus securing the best essence of the Tea in all its fragrance and deliciousness.

And then the Tea is put into small packages especially designed for preserving this native flavor and protecting the Tea from dust and dirt.

NOTE—This ideal parchment lined foil packet protects the Tea better than the pretty containers for which you have to pay at the rate of 10c per lb. for every pound you buy.

Tudor Tea is healthful when made according to directions, and is recommended by physicians.

It contains no coarse tannin-bearing leaves and can be used freely without the slightest ill effect.

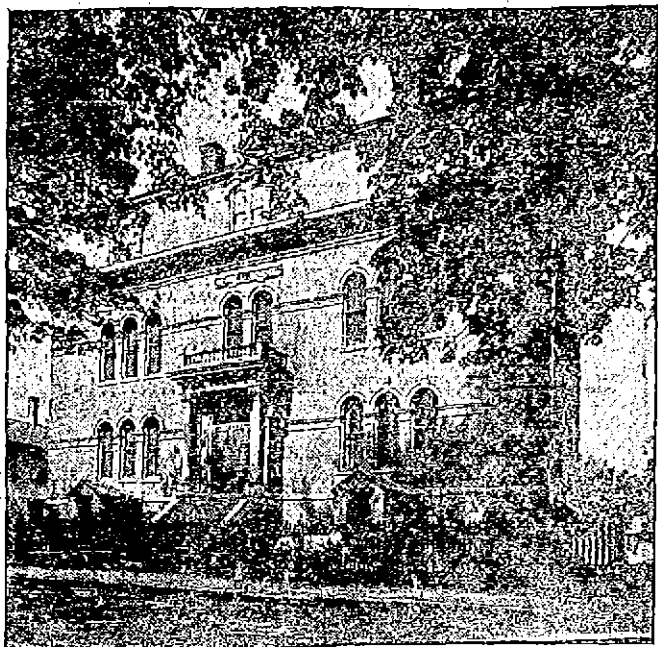

Tudor Tea is very economical, as it goes farther than ordinary Teas. In fact, a trial 10c. packet will make one hundred cups of the best Tea in the world.

Guarantee: So sure are we that you will like Tudor Tea that we tell your dealer to refund your money if you want it without even the return of the Tea.

Hundreds of Visitors Inspected the Departments on Domestic Science This Week

Principal Fisher decided not to have any exhibition of the work of the domestic science department of the industrial school but instead threw the school open to visitors during the present week. The idea has been quite successful as hundreds of people have daily availed themselves of the privilege of passing through the departments and inspecting the work.

The number of visitors in the evening particularly has been quite large and only words of praise were heard from all the visitors. Many were astonished at the splendid opportunities offered to girls and women to learn dressmaking, millinery, cooking and other branches of domestic science looking to economy in the household, the qualities of fabrics that count for durability, the harmony of colors, the canons of taste and other points in the science of dressmaking and millinery while in the cooking department, the nutritive value of different foods is taught and the problem of furnishing a good wholesome meal of plain food containing all the necessary elements of nutrition is worked out in a very scientific manner.

Miss Alice L. Gookin is in full charge of all departments of the industrial school and in this capacity she is showing her talent for discipline, the coordination of courses and the attainment of results.

In the evening dressmaking department there are five rooms, all engaged on dresses, skirts and coats. When the opportunity here, available are considered, it is surprising that any vacant seat could be found in any of the rooms. Still there are a few at the attendance has fallen off as the season advanced. The attendance at the evening school on Mondays and Thursdays is about 145 and on Tuesdays and Fridays 125. On the two latter evenings there is a class on cost-making. The hours for all the classes are from 7 to 9. The school is now on the second course the first having been devoted mainly to shirtwaists. The evening schools will close Feb. 27.

In the day school in this department Miss O'Day is the head dressmaker and with an able corps of assistants excellent work is done. Mrs. Devine is conducting a class in millinery with excellent results. What was noticed by all the visitors was the inadequacy of the rooms and yet Principal Fisher stated that this department is much better housed than are the various departments for the men.

THREE MEN DROWNED

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Investigation of a mysterious errand which resulted in the drowning of three men last night in the icy waters of Lake Michigan while they were making efforts to reach a waterworks intake crib in a small boat, was begun today by city authorities.

W. F. Scannell, keeper of the crib, Stephen Varley and a man named Wilson started for the crib in a small boat which was wrecked in the ice. The men shouted for help and hundreds of people lined the shore helpless to aid them while they gained a big block of ice to which they clung for an hour before slipping into the water. At first it was supposed Scannell had attempted to take a physician to the crib to attend his wife. Later, however, two women who gave their names as May Smith and Mary Wade were taken from the crib in a police boat. They said that Scannell and his companions had gone for provisions.

Devil Reynolds, who upholds the title to perfection, and "Roundy" Boone, who sings two law songs, besides another complete new series of real worth, while photo-plays, among them a two-reeler of merit. Performances afternoon and evening; matinee at 2 o'clock; first performance at 8 o'clock. Price, ten cents; reserved seats, five cents extra. Special arranged Sunday concert program, including vaudeville the coming Sunday.

AT THE OWL THEATRE
"Victory or Death" was shown instead of "The Star of India," which was advertised for Wednesday and Thursday, and it proved a first class attraction. The other picture will be shown later. Commencing today, "The Mutual Girl" will be a regular feature every week in the big fashion and first experience in the big New York ought to interest every lady in this city. Next week she takes part in a highly interesting detective story, full of thrills. Many other pictures are of the program for today and tomorrow. The managers have shifted the general program for the Mutual "movies," and the change is noticeable.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
It's a tough proposition to serve three months when innocent, and worse when the victim is a tender girl. "Thorne of the Day White Way," the Warner feature at the Opera House today contains a story that is morally beneficial to all. It portrays a political boss who is the proprietor of a tenement dive. He is, however, large in heart and spirit, and is over the friend of the ill-treated girl. When he is confronted with the tragedy of his own daughter's misdeeds, he is overcome with remorse and closes his cafe and seeks consolation and higher ideals by leaving the trail of the bright lights for the cool green fields of rest in the country. This Warner Feature will arouse your sympathy for the struggling girls that are confronted ed with many traps of injustice, in trying to follow the straight and narrow path of decency. Conditions similar to the ones portrayed in this photoplay are the existing ones in many of our large cities, conditions that both do the civic authorities. Be sure and see this moral sermon for young girls.

H. F. KERTIS THEATRE
With "Harmony at Home" the head-line feature at the H. F. Kertis theatre this week and with six other acts of much excellence on the bill, one of the classiest shows of the entire season may be said to be holding the boards. The Monette Five, three women and two men, give the delicate musical play the existing ones in many of our large cities, conditions that both do the civic authorities. Be sure and see this moral sermon for young girls.

keeps the merriest going. It is a combination of real fun and wonderfully good dancing. Myrtle and Daisy, two most attractive singers, appear to distinct advantage, while Tom Mahoney, called president of the local card club, is a first rate monologist. The McAleney Marvels are the world's best known jumpers, and the Pathé Weekly holds some new pictures. Get your seats in advance for the new remaining performances. Phone 23.

THE KASINO
Where are you going today and tomorrow? Rather a personal question, but if you have not already made up your mind, The Kasino invites you to beat Miner's band free of charge. Music by this popular organization is enjoyed by those who skate and those who prefer to remain on the promenade. Of course, real Kasino enjoyment is impossible without the rollers. Raeling skating is conducted under ideal conditions the last three days of the week, afternoon and evening.

LOVERS OF DRAMA
Frederick the Great had a strong love of the dramatic. So had a certain lieutenant colonel in the Prussian army. Accordingly, there is plenty of it in the following story:

the close of the seven years' war, returned the king to be reinstated. In the face of the incessant solicitations of a troublesome visitor, Frederick at last gave orders that he should never be admitted to his presence. A few weeks later a most bitter libel against his majesty appeared. Frederick told George Blaisdell, a country one exasperated him so much that offered a reward of 50 Friedrichs for the discovery of the author. One day following the disgraced lieutenant colonel demanded and obtained audience. Here, he began, on being admitted, your majesty has just promised 50 Friedrichs for the recovery of the number of a recent publication. I am come

The water department ought not to any time in sinking more wells in Hale's brook or in Meadowbrook. I read in The Sun the other that Commissioner Carmichael that matter up and I want to say now that a great deal depends the success of those wells. If should prove as productive as the wells the city would be safe for a few years and if they don't abundantly the city will have to do something else and that something will cost a barrel of money. There people who thought that Commissioner Barrett was indulging in extravaganzas when he talked about necessity of installing a half-million dollar filtration plant, but unless reposed wells in Meadowbrook produce as generously as the wells the city will be up against the city's financial problem does present to a hill of beans to compare with the water problem."

TEXTILE EXHIBIT SHOWN

By Agent of Bureau of Foreign Commerce—Had Samples at Board of Trade Rooms

Ralph M. Odell, commercial agent of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who recently returned from an extensive trip through Spain, Portugal, Italy, Russia, Turkey, Egypt and other countries where he has investigated the conditions in the cotton goods trade, received yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Lowell board of trade a large number of manufacturers, millmen and other persons who were in search of information regarding cotton trade in the foreign countries. Mr. Odell had over a thousand samples of cotton goods spread over the tables in the board of trade rooms and answered many questions concerning his trip.

All the goods Mr. Odell had on exhibition yesterday were samples of what he collected in the foreign markets and he also had with him considerable data concerning the requirements in particular sections, prices, and other details of interest to exporters desirous of pushing trade in the districts covered by the agent's observations.

Mr. Odell has been in the south for some time where he addressed commercial gatherings and cotton manufacturers' organizations, and during the present week he is making a tour of the New England mill districts. In regard to his work, Mr. Odell said: "I want to emphasize as strongly as I can the desire of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce to be an instrument in the hands of the American cotton fabric and exporters in the upbuilding of a larger export business in the sections I visited. I have with me over 3,000 samples of the kinds of goods sold and used in these districts. My observation leads me to the firm belief that American cottons have a great future in the markets I went into, provided the right kind of cloths are sent out. I noticed more than one American fabric closely imitated by the Italians or other Europeans. The fact is that the natives of Africa and elsewhere much prefer the American cottons to those manufactured by other nations."

The callers at the board of trade rooms yesterday afternoon represented many men from the large cotton mills of this city and there were many inquiries relative to the prices of the various samples and all seemed to take a keen interest in the exhibition.

BODY FOUND IN LAKE

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—The mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Annie E. Colby, the wealthy Brookline widow, who slipped away from a Newton sanitarium on the evening of Dec. 4, and for whom a nation-wide police search was made, was solved yesterday when the ice on Crystal lake broke up and let her body rise to the surface.

One of the first theories of her loss was that she might have been drowned, so the lake and the Charles river were dragged without result.

The body was positively identified from the clothing by Dr. Samuel Eaton, who conducts the sanitarium on Rockledge road. Relatives of Mrs. Colby, who was the widow of the late State Senator John H. Colby, were notified, and will claim the body and make funeral arrangements today.

O'CONNELL FOR CONGRESS

DANIEL T. CANDIDATE IN 12TH DISTRICT TO SUCCEED MAYOR CURLEY

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—It was announced last evening that Daniel T. O'Connell is a candidate for congress in the 12th district to succeed Mayor Curley, who besides being mayor of Boston, is also a representative in congress. The announcement of the candidacy revives speculation as to when Mayor Curley will resign as congressman. It is said Mr. O'Connell, before announcing his candidacy, had assurances that Mayor Curley intends to resign his seat in September.

Daniel T. O'Connell is a brother of the former mayor, Mr. O'Connell, and both were enthusiastic Kennedy supporters in the last mayoralty fight.

He was secretary to former Mayor Fitzgerald during a portion of the latter's first administration, but parted political company with the former mayor shortly afterward.

He has since been an active opponent of the former mayor, Mr. O'Connell, and is engaged in the practice of law in the Exchange building, in partnership with his brother, the former congressman, and another brother, James T. O'Connell.

At city hall last night it was stated that Mayor Curley would resign his seat in congress as soon as the immigration bill and supply bill were passed, which will probably be about the first of September.

SHOT BY ROBBERS

Clerk in Roxbury Loan Office Wounded During Terrific Battle

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—John J. Gately, a clerk employed by the Roxbury Loan company, 1247 Tremont street, Roxbury, was shot and seriously wounded shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by three gunmen who made a futile attempt to rob the cash drawer and safes of the establishment.

The robbery was frustrated when Gately, wounded by a bullet, fired four shots at the robbers as he fell to the floor. None of the bullets took effect. The trio did not return his fire, but made their escape, dashing down Tremont street through the crowds of persons returning from work, who were drawn to the vicinity by the sound of the firing.

After the robbers had left, Gately endeavored to get to the telephone at the home of his employer, Lazarus Davis of 23 Angel street, Dorchester, and was endeavoring to get the Roxbury police by phone, when his predicament was discovered by a young man who had seen the gunmen run out of the store.

Bernard Cannon, a butcher employed next door, in the Roxbury Supply company, heard the shots and also went to Gately's assistance. Gately, though unconscious, was bleeding profusely, and when removed to the city hospital in a police ambulance, his name was placed on the dangerous list. It was said last night that he has even chances of recovery.

THE CRAZY MOUNTAIN SCHOOL

How boys and girls in a little mountain schoolhouse in the north, and who will be the first to do it, did it so well that they won first prize in a state-wide competition and attracted the attention of the whole state, is told by C. W. Tenny, state school inspector of Montana, in a rural school circular just issued by the U. S. bureau of education. Here is Mr. Tenny's story of how Crazy Mountain school did its part in rural improvement.

The Crazy Mountain schoolhouse is a 10 by 12 shack, with a roof which slants but one way and is covered with black tar paper. Cracks in the floor were so big that pencils easily fell through them. The only light that came in was from three tiny windows, two in the rear and one on the left. The hole cut through the roof to accommodate the steeply pitched roof was so large that when it rained the water ran into the stove and put the fire out. Rain also beat in at the door, which was held shut by a chain hooked over a nail. The desks were borrowed from a neighboring school which had taken them away and used less. The seats were held up by sticks of wood, unless a pupil was fortunate enough to find a box of the right size to use as an individual chair, and the teacher's desk was a plank nailed to two stumps, and set against the wall.

Into this school last spring came Miss Angeline Barker, a teacher and nine pupils, representing four different families. Although the weather was damp, for the first three weeks they had no fire. Most of the pupils had no books. But teacher and pupils went to work to do the best they could with what they had and to get better equipment as fast as they could.

One day a prominent list of the Montana state fair, which is held at Helena each year, came to this little school. Both teacher and pupils began to read to see what there was they could do. "Best kindergarten work" they knew they could not do that. "Best shop work," that sounded even more hopeless. "Best collection of wild flowers pressed and mounted, with a description of five," everybody shouted: "Of course we can!" and the race was on.

The Mexican children who lived far up on the mountain plucked the flowers belonging to the higher altitudes, while the rest brought in those peculiar to the lower altitudes and meadows. At school the flowers were placed in text books and magazines, and in the absence of a flower press the boys and girls would sit on them. At home the flowers were put in books under the heaviest weights that could be found. One boy placed two sacks of flour on the books, another a tool chest, while the third said the heaviest he could find was the large "bucket" in which his father carried the feed to the pigs. The girls resorted to just as ingenious expedients, utilizing trunks, bureaus, and even one leg of a bed in which adults were sleeping. In order that the necessary amount of pressure might be obtained.

When the day of collecting and pressing the flowers were over, all of the specimens were brought together, and after the very best ones had been selected, each was carefully mounted on white cardboard, and the entire collection of 68 wild flowers was sent to the state department of education to be entered at the fair. When the judges gave the verdict it was that the Crazy Mountain school had won the first prize, the blue ribbon and $5, for the best collection of wild flowers from any school in the state.

On the day of the prize award the rural inspector stood in the little booth and called the attention of the bankers and business men to the splendid exhibit and to the pictures of the little school. When one of the leading merchants saw it, he said: "Go and tell the people of Park county that boys and girls who do work like that are entitled to a better school-house and better equipment, and tell them that as soon as they get the money they can come to my store and get anything in it without money being put for the best business men as well as the best school men realize that boys and girls who do faithful work with what they have will make the men and women who will do good work when the time of larger opportunity comes to them."

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—John J. Gately, a clerk employed by the Roxbury Loan company, 1247 Tremont street, Roxbury, was shot and seriously wounded shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by three gunmen who made a futile attempt to rob the cash drawer and safes of the establishment.

The robbery was frustrated when Gately, wounded by a bullet, fired four shots at the robbers as he fell to the floor. None of the bullets took effect. The trio did not return his fire, but made their escape, dashing down Tremont street through the crowds of persons returning from work, who were drawn to the vicinity by the sound of the firing.

After the robbers had left, Gately endeavored to get to the telephone at the home of his employer, Lazarus Davis of 23 Angel street, Dorchester, and was endeavoring to get the Roxbury police by phone, when his predicament was discovered by a young man who had seen the gunmen run out of the store.

Bernard Cannon, a butcher employed next door, in the Roxbury Supply company, heard the shots and also went to Gately's assistance. Gately, though unconscious, was bleeding profusely, and when removed to the city hospital in a police ambulance, his name was placed on the dangerous list. It was said last night that he has even chances of recovery.

THE CRAZY MOUNTAIN SCHOOL

How boys and girls in a little mountain schoolhouse in the north, and who will be the first to do it, did it so well that they won first prize in a state-wide competition and attracted the attention of the whole state, is told by C. W. Tenny, state school inspector of Montana, in a rural school circular just issued by the U. S. bureau of education. Here is Mr. Tenny's story of how Crazy Mountain school did its part in rural improvement.

The Crazy Mountain schoolhouse is a 10 by 12 shack, with a roof which slants but one way and is covered with black tar paper. Cracks in the floor were so big that pencils easily fell through them. The only light that came in was from three tiny windows, two in the rear and one on the left. The hole cut through the roof to accommodate the steeply pitched roof was so large that when it rained the water ran into the stove and put the fire out. Rain also beat in at the door, which was held shut by a chain hooked over a nail. The desks were borrowed from a neighboring school which had taken them away and used less. The seats were held up by sticks of wood, unless a pupil was fortunate enough to find a box of the right size to use as an individual chair, and the teacher's desk was a plank nailed to two stumps, and set against the wall.

Into this school last spring came Miss Angeline Barker, a teacher and nine pupils, representing four different families. Although the weather was damp, for the first three weeks they had no fire. Most of the pupils had no books. But teacher and pupils went to work to do the best they could with what they had and to get better equipment as fast as they could.

One day a prominent list of the Montana state fair, which is held at Helena each year, came to this little school. Both teacher and pupils began to read to see what there was they could do. "Best kindergarten work" they knew they could not do that. "Best shop work," that sounded even more hopeless. "Best collection of wild flowers pressed and mounted, with a description of five," everybody shouted: "Of course we can!" and the race was on.

The Mexican children who lived far up on the mountain plucked the flowers belonging to the higher altitudes, while the rest brought in those peculiar to the lower altitudes and meadows. At school the flowers were placed in text books and magazines, and in the absence of a flower press the boys and girls would sit on them. At home the flowers were put in books under the heaviest weights that could be found. One boy placed two sacks of flour on the books, another a tool chest, while the third said the heaviest he could find was the large "bucket" in which his father carried the feed to the pigs. The girls resorted to just as ingenious expedients, utilizing trunks, bureaus, and even one leg of a bed in which adults were sleeping. In order that the necessary amount of pressure might be obtained.

When the day of collecting and pressing the flowers were over, all of the specimens were brought together, and after the very best ones had been selected, each was carefully mounted on white cardboard, and the entire collection of 68 wild flowers was sent to the state department of education to be entered at the fair. When the judges gave the verdict it was that the Crazy Mountain school had won the first prize, the blue ribbon and $5, for the best collection of wild flowers from any school in the state.

On the day of the prize award the rural inspector stood in the little booth and called the attention of the bankers and business men to the splendid exhibit and to the pictures of the little school. When one of the leading merchants saw it, he said: "Go and tell the people of Park county that boys and girls who do work like that are entitled to a better school-house and better equipment, and tell them that as soon as they get the money they can come to my store and get anything in it without money being put for the best business men as well as the best school men realize that boys and girls who do faithful work with what they have will make the men and women who will do good work when the time of larger opportunity comes to them."

SUFFRAGE DEMONSTRATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Suffrage leaders began active preparations today for the national suffrage demonstration to be held here May 2. Their first move was a request for a police permit for the use of certain streets on the day of the demonstration.

Suffrage leaders plan to make the demonstration surpass the one that was held here the day before President Wilson's inauguration, which was marked by several near riots.
